Rabbit Raising Multiplies Rapidly in Sikeston Area

FOUR BREEDS of rabbits are held by Derris Gray, 127 N. Handy St. From left are the Blue Checkered Giant, Tortoise Dutch, Palomino and the Harlequim.

THE CHECKERED GIANT, left, and the New Zealand White, are two rabbit varieties raised by Frank Hughes, shown, at the Labor Rest Camp, east of Sikeston.

By Leo Schade

Rabbit production is a rapidly multiplying hobby in the Sikeston area.

Two men devoted to it are Frank Hughes, route two, and Derris Gray, 127 North Handy St. Their wives assist them.

Hughes is in charge of the Labor Day rest camp for migrant workers. He finds satisfaction in the escape from his daily human relation problems that the hobby provides. "I find these pets a great source of satisfaction in my spare time. There is never a dull moment."

"Some people like golf, others take up other hobbies, but I found rabbit raising a great sport, and I make more out of it than I spend on it," Gray said.

Both men have sold and given away hundreds of rabbits for food as well as for children's pets.

The smallest full size rabbit weigh less than a pound. The largest is the Flemish Giant, which reaches a weight of 23 pounds. Whether it is for a lucky rabbit's foot, pets or food, the rabbit population is in the millions. The largest producer in the nation lives in Los Angeles county in California, producing 7 million pounds annually.

Domesticated rabbits have never been known to carry rabbit fever. The department of agriculture says that the rabbit is the best source of protein of any animal except the guinea hen and squab. The protein content is 20.8 per cent, fat 10.2 per cent, moisture 27 per cent and the least calories per pound of 795, compared with pork of 11.9 per cent protein, 45.0 per cent fat, 42 per cent moisture and 2,050 calories.

Each rabbit pays a profit of from $5 to $15. Each doe will produce five times its weight in litters during its life span. Care and food are nominal.

To give a person full time employment, there must be 600 or more rabbits.

Rabbit is all white meat. The rabbit has the distinction of producing all the mucilage used on the U. S. postage stamp. Most felt hats are made from rabbit fur. The rabbit foot is a good luck charm.

What hobby can produce a larger variety of uses?

There are 50 different breeds. Seven originated in the United States. Rabbit is the most universal commercial food used in 30 nations.

July 18 - 24 is National Rabbit Week. It will be recognized by thousands of small and large raisers.

Hughes began his hobby with Checkered Giants and New Zealand White about five years ago. He now has more than 85 in his pens, ranging from seven to 11 pounds each.

Gray began his hobby in 1949 when he lived in Blodgett. He has 100 rabbits with four breeds -- Blue Checkered Giants, Tortoise Dutch, Palomino and the Harlequim.

Rusk Calls for U.S. And Japanese Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk opened the fourth U.S. - Japan joint cabinet committee conference to day with a call for increased economic efforts by the two countries in Southeast Asia.

He told the seven Japanese cabinet officers and their American counterparts that the two countries share a particular interest in Southeast Asia where freedom is threatened by aggressive neighbors.

In response, Japan's foreign minister, Etsusaburo Shiina, said Japan has been taking "increased responsibility in the sphere of international economy and in particular to our Asian neighbors."

Shiina said that the progress already made in Japan-U.S. cooperative ties "will lose its firm basis unless it is accompanied by constant and strenuous efforts to bring about appropriate solutions to each and evey one as such problems that may arise between our two countries."

Rusk said that wide variety of difficult problems could be expected from competition that develops between vigorous trading nations.

"As old problems are solved new ones emerge," he said.

But Rusk said that the United States and Japan must not let economic problems obscure the broader concern both countries share in the welfare of other countries of the world particularly in Asia.

Eight Treated

Eight persons were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday — five of which were in car accidents: David Moore, Cairo, car accident; Susan Moore, Cairo, car accident; George Askew, Memphis, car accident; Ross Toedte, Nashville, cut face, George Moore, car accident, Carol Ann Moore, Cairo, car accident; Bobby Autry, Ballwin, stepped on rusty nail; and Victor Lacour, McHenry, Ky., cut leg.

Explosions Jar Chicago's West Side

CHICAGO AP -- Two more explosions tore through the Chicago darkness early today. The latest blasts came shortly before 3 a.m. in the West Side parking lot of an ice cream firm. No one was injured.

The explosions ripped apart three ice cream trucks. Police said the blasts blew out windows in nearby buildings.

A total of five mysterious explosions have occurred in the Chicago area since Wednesday. Three of the blasts rocked the downtown section of the city.

Police said that the explosives used in the latest blasts were rigged to the bumpers of the ice cream trucks.

The third bomb blast occurred late Sunday night in downtown Chicago. No injuries were reported in that blast.

Police said Sunday night's explosion occurred under a car belonging to an employe of the Chicago Tribune. Three cars were damaged by the explosion and dozens of windows were blown out in the nearby Wrigley Building in the northern downtown section near the Chicago River.

This Burro Really Carried A Torch

RENO, Nev. AP -- A small grass fire was just about mopped up at a sheep ranch near Reno Sunday when a spark fell on a small burro.

Startled, he dashed off and ran straight into a patch of flaming grass where the pack on his back caught fire.

He then headed for the hills, spreading fire and smoke through heavy brush and grass already tinder -- dry under the noon-day sun.

The fire he set was contained five hours later by 60 men helped by three aircraft after burning over 150 acres.

The burro was found about the same time, tired but unharmed except that the pack had been burned off his back.

Delta Boy Drowns In Chaffee

CHAFFEE -- Jessie James, 13-year-old Delta boy, drowned in the public swimming pool yesterday at 2:30 p.m.

Scott County Coroner Clyde Poe called the drowning accidental and that no inquest would be held. He reported that Dr. W. O. Finney examined the body and investigated.

The fire department brought a resuscitator to the pool but failed to revive the boy.

His body was found by Jim Ballard of Chaffee, a fellow swimmer, in 11 feet of water, the deepest part in the pool. Two lifeguards were on duty.

Ballard dived off of the diving board and saw the body lying on the drain. The length of time that the body had been there has not been determined.

The boy could not swim. It was not determined how he got into the deep end of the pool, which is separated from the shallow water by a rope.

He went to the pool once each week.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletis James. He is survived by the parents and four brothers; Delbert and Joe, Gary of Chaffee, and Larry of St. Louis; and one sister, Kay.

Services will be held in Delta Wednesday at two p.m. Burial will follow in the Morgan Memorial Park Cemetery at Advance.

Ouster Move Puts King on Spot

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Premier George Papandreou formally moved today to oust defense minister Peter Garoufalias. The action put King Constantine on a political spot.

A spokesman for Papandreou said his cabinet was fully behind him in demanding the resignation of Garoufalias, who is reported to have been backed by the young king. The defense minister has opposed Papandreou's announced intention of purging the army of officers who have been dabbing in politics.

Recover Bodies of Eight

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Ten men were rescued and eight bodies recovered today from the 19-man crew of a U.S. Air Force plane down in the North Atlantic.

The Coast Guard said one member of the crew was missing.

A spokesman at Coast Guard headquarters in Boston said flares have been sighted which may be from the missing crewman.

The rescued men were taken aboard U.S. and German destroyers in the vicinity of the crash 145 miles northeast of Nantucket.

The four engine propellor driven plane ditched in the fog-shrounded sea late Sunday night. It was on duty as an early warning radar plane.

The bodies were reported aboard the U.S. destroyer Barry out of Newport, R.I. Three survivors also were aboard the Barry.

Helicopters from the U.S. carrier Wasp, on maneuvers in the area along with the German navy vessels, picked up most of the crewmen and deposited them on board one of the German ships.

At least two men were picked up by small boats.

Names of the survivors and other crewmen were not immediately available.

The rescues were undertaken despite a fog which limited visibility to from 50 to 100 yards. The seas were reported as moderate, yet too rough for a sea plane to land.

The German vessels, operating on maneuvers with the USS Wasp, are the former American destroyers USS Anthony, USS Ringgold and the USS Wadsworth.

The men were put aboard the vessel formerly known as the Anthony and now carrying the name Blotter.

Infantry men Begin Landing In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- The first large force of U. S. combat infantrymen -- 3,900 men of the 1st Infantry Division -- began landing in Viet Nam today.

The first 1,000 men of "Big Red One," as the division was known in World War II, landed at strategic Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, and dug in on the sand dunes.

The remainder of the famed division's 2nd Bragade will land elsewhere in Viet Nam Tuesday, a U. S. spokesman said.

The landings will bring the total of U. S. troops in Viet Nam to 71,000.

The brigade commander, Col. James Simmons, said the first mission of his troops will be to protect the U. S. Army's

Cyclist Thrown Off, Dies

A motorcyclist was thrown from his vehicle and killed instantly Sunday at 2:05 p.m. on highway 61, three miles north of Fruitland.

The victim was Troy Patton, 19, Wood River, riding a new Harley Davidson, the highway patrol reported. He was knocked off his vehicle by a 1964 Oldsmobile, driven by Thomas Spado, 54, Chicago.

Patton attempted to pass a car when he was struck and thrown to the side of the highway.

Patton was being followed by a 1955 Muercury, driven by his twin brother Roy Patton, Bethalto, Ill., and accompanied by Troy Patton's wife and daughter. The Mercury ran over the motorcycle before it was able to stop.

Joe Bullock, 58, Williamsville, died Saturday in the Doctor's Hospital, Poplar Bluff, as the result of an accident June 25 on highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Charles Harnetz, 21, St. Louis, when the car went out of control on a curve and turned over. Bullock's right arm was mangled. He died from a tetanus infection.

In an accident two miles south of Morley on Highway 61 at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Dollie Graham, 39, Sikeston, slowed down to make a left turn, and was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Hudson Askew, 40, St. Louis. George Askew, 34, Memphis, Tenn., a passenger in the St. Louis car received mouth cuts and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Hudson Askew was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Three persons were injured in an accident a half mile east of Sikeston, Sunday at 10:35 a.m. on highway 60. A 1965 Chrysler, driven by Donald Hopcraft, 63, Memphis, Tenn., was struck by a 1958 Ford driven by George Moore, 24, Cairo, Ill. The Moore car made a left turn on the median at the crossway and struck the Chrysler in the left rear.

The Ford turned over twice. The driver, George Moore, was cut on the chin and bruised. His wife Susan, 22, and their daughter, Carol Ann, 3, were cut on the head.

They were taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Moore will be arrested for careless and reckless driving, the patrol said.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, July 12 Isadore Bearing invents bearing bearing his name.

* * *

George E. Reedy, whose performance as White House Press secretary has been below par, is entitled to a sympathetic and understanding public attitude not for a job well done but because his feet hurt.

He is taking a leave of absence which the White House press corps believes and hopes will be permanent.

The trouble with Reedy is that he never knew much to tell reporters and a man who can't be helpful in that position is not useful and a time waster. Often he wasn't aware of developing news and did not know how to find out about it. He was not a close associate of President Lyndon B. Johnson as he must be to be effective.

Reedy brought a lot of newspaper experience to the job. It was never allowed to show. He may have done just the kind of job that President Johnson wanted but it hasn't helped the President's image. The results are negligible. The ignorance he displayed so consistently about what was going on also may have been the President's fault.

Johnson has his own peculiar ideas about controlling and slanting news with a blend of extreme secretiveness and disclosure.

The vain, egotistical man, who is sensitive beyond belief to the slightest criticism, has mostly doubled as his own press secretary, personally announcing most important as well as secondary news.

It is well known that the President is not an easy man to work for. He drives his staff hard and demeans them. He is not consistently a reasonable boss but he is at times sympathetic and understanding.

Johnson's crude frontier type personality is coming more into the public view and the American people don't like what they see.

This is no criticism of his policies.

Tom Wicker of the New York Times describes him as "irascible, moody, high-handed, peeved at his critics and generally hard to live with."

A Wall Street Journal reporter notes that those who know him "are increasingly uneasy, unhappy and uncharitable about him" and reports that "he drives people too hard, is too high-handed and arrogant, doesn't really want argument and an independent point of view; that he is too preoccupied with his popular image, is too sensitive to criticism, spends too much time answering attacks he should ignore; that when things go truly wrong, he frequently turns nasty."

Reedy had 16 months with the White House press. It is reasonable to assume that the super-sensitive egotistical President Johnson made his life a hell on earth. From him the American people didn't learn much.

There is no doubt that Reedy, who suffers from hammer toes, suffers discomfort in his feet but if his lower extremities ache worse than his poor head the pain must indeed be something awful.

A SECOND TERM?

On Aug. 17, Missouri voters will have an opportunity to take a big step in modernizing their state's government. Then along with at least two others, an amendment will be submitted to the people which, if passed, will enable Missouri's governors to serve two full successive terms.

Logic and common sense argue the case for this amendment, but history and tradition warn against over-optimism for it.

Simply stated, here are the reasons why this newspaper feels Missouri voters should approve the amendment:

Normally Missouri governors go into office entirely without the experience and knowledge requisite to its most competent and efficient fulfillment. It requires months, even a year or two, for a governor to familiarize himself with the tasks he faces and how best to accomplish them.

On the other hand, a Missouri governor takes office just after a new legislature has convened, at the very moment his greatest political skill and acumen are most needed. By the time the new governor has established himself firmly, the legislature has adjourned and gone home.

Nor is that all. When the next legislature meets, two years later, the governor is in the position of a "lame duck" whom legislators can ignore and defy almost with impunity, knowing full well that he is in the waning days of the top executive post to which he cannot be reelected.

Many times in Missouri's history, this has worked to a marked disadvantage, not only to the governor but to the people and the state. Because of this, far more often than most people realize, the executive department of government is actually denied the power balance it theoretically shares and should have with the legislative branch.

Missouri governors have realized this, and every one since Guy Park has urged the change now being proposed. More than that, G O P candidate Ethan Shepley campaigned last fall on a pledge to seek amendment of the gubernatorial succession law, as did his opponent, Gov. Hearnes.

Historically, the American people have opposed two terms for their governors and with what, in the beginning, was good reason. In colonial times, governors built up powers which made them difficult or impossible to dislodge, if left long in office, and when the new republic was established, there was a grim determination to prevent such abuses in the future.

But the power and the confidence of the voters have grown and, one by one, the people have dropped the bars to gubernatorial succession until 35 states now permit it, some with absolutely no limitation.

Nearly a hundred years ago, Missouri, too, changed its constitutional bar to succession, and limited governors' terms to two years. But the change lasted less than a decade, and the bar was raised once more.

In almost everything else, experience is rewarded. Experience and long tenure are distinct advantages in the business and industrial world and in the professions. Almost any employe's worth to his employer grows with every day of added experience.

But what we approve and reward in all other walks of life, we deplore and deny to our state's governors.

Now does that make sense?

PRESIDENT LYNDON JOHNSON
ENDORSES RURAL CAMPAIGN

July 10-25 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Co-sponsors for the 22nd annual rural safety campaign are the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Special emphasis this year is being given to preventing accidents involving slow-moving vehicles, chemicals, and electricity and in recreation.

The President urges that vigorous new efforts be made to eradicate hazards and rectify unsafe practices which cause farm and rural accidents.

"Progress toward this objective should be the goal of National Farm Safety Week 1965," he said.

The latest yearly breakdown of farm resident accidents shows a total of 8,400 deaths and 780,000 injuries. Of the deaths, 3,600 were motor-vehicle, 2,000 were in the home, 2,600 were work accidents and 800 resulted from non-motor vehicle accidents.

"Rural leaders and farm families are making a joint effort to reduce accidents" says Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

"Today's farm family can prepare itself for accident prevention by eliminating hazards and making skillful use of modern farming equipment and production aids."

It is no overstatement to say that the several states of the Union have not exactly rushed to comply with the Supreme Court's ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be reapportioned on a population basis.

Now from Illinois, a state where the legislative deadlock forced the at-large election of the entire lower house in 1964, a political scientist suggests that a computer could solve the problem to the satisfaction not only of the court but of the politicians, the people and a state's treasury.

According to Prof. Stuart S. Nagel, of the University of Illinois, the 90 counties of Illinois could be redistricted in just 81 seconds at a cost of only $5.63 for computer operating time, using data available from the U.S. Census Bureau on magnetic tape costing $112.

This is far less than non-computer methods. New York, for instance, spent $100,000 on redistricting.

Perhaps an even more persuasive argument for legislators of whatever political affiliation is that a computer would help them realize the maximum benefit from redistricting. By punching certain numbers on IBM cards, says Nagel, each party could see the maximum number of seats it could obtain and then compromise between the extremes.

Politics is supposed to be, after all, the art of compromise. If computers can enhance the practice of that art, the idea might well be looked into.

Hair on the face is admired by only about half the people of the world--that half belonging to races whose males can grow beards. The other half, whose males can't, consider facial hair shameful. The two points of view can take extreme forms. In Anglo-Saxon times, breaking a man's thigh brought a fine of 12 shillings whereas cutting off his beard cost 20. On the other hand, in Paraguay today, beardless Indians pluck any stray chin hairs and go on to pull out their eyebrows and eyelashes, saying that they do not wish to resemble horses.

CREATIVE FIRE

Whether a fighter is landing a knockout blow, a golfer is socking a ball 250 yards, a sprinter is dashing away at the crack of a gun, or a writer is putting down words that will excite and awaken his readers, I maintain that at the point of impact there must be intensity. In sports and in writing we must get charged up. We must go all out. We must put pressure on ourselves to surpass ourselves. This is the energy of the spirit that makes champions.

Between times there should be complete relaxation. But only as an army retreats to renew its resources and prepare for another charge.

Jack London who made his mark as a writer put it this way: "I would rather be ashes than dust! I would rather that my spark would burn out in a brilliant blaze than that it should be stifled by dry-rot. I would rather be a superb meteor, every atom of me in a magnificent glow, than a sleepy and permanent planet. The proper function of man is to live, not to exist. I shall not waste my days trying to prolong them. I shall use my time."

H. L. Hunt Says

HEALTH PLAN--
RUSSIAN STYLE

Those who advocate that Americans emulate the Soviet system of health care should be interested in the following words from the "worker's paradise".

Izvestia, the Moscow newspaper, recently reported receipt of a letter from a lady pleading, "Help me to see!" The woman had undergone a successful cataract removal, but needed special glasses.

For more than a month, Izvestia noted, "the optical production section of the Pharmaceutical Administration of the Executive Committee of the Moscow City Society of Working People's Deputies" had been reporting that the lady's order was "being filled."

Then Izvestia editorialized: "Buying prescription lenses is a problem for thousands of our people. Dozens of organizations are involved in making them, not one of which is fully responsible. The crux of the matter is that there is no single responsible bureau. The Central Administration for Medical Equipment in the Ministry of Health of the U. S. S. R. plans the production of lenses and frames for the whole nation, and regional economic councils 'adapt' this plan to local needs.

There are four semi-domestic enterprises in the Russian Republic capable of making prescription lenses. But A. M. Yevgenyev, chief of one of them, is nagged by hundreds of telephone calls and letters from indignant customers. But he cannot help his patients: his shops, which have to serve almost the entire country, can't even meet Moscow's demand. On March 11 they refused to accept new orders so as to 'digest' those already in hand. It is intolerable that there isn't a single optical shop in 29 regional and district centers of the Russian Republic. People have to travel hundreds of miles to the capital to order eyeglasses."

This is government "care" in action at its extreme. HLH

We all know the publicans cooked their goose by runnin on a war ticket. An the dimmercrats won by a landslide runnin on a peace ticket. Then plunged us into a land war in Asia 9000 miles frum home before the ink got dry on the ballots. That cooked their goose too, an how. An nother thing if the 18 to 21 year olds is too young to vote an drink they is too young to be sent off to war to be killed lessen they volunteers. They is either a man or they aint a man. If they is a man let them enjoy all the privilages of a man.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- When the average citizen sits in the Senate Gallery watching a debate or reads the record of that debate later, he can't always tell what's happening. This is because some things go on behind the scenes, also because Senators have a right to edit the Congressional record before it's printed.

No Senate vote was more important to the public than that when a majority voted, in effect, not to let the government have the right to keep new drug patents developed with the total of $15 billion of taxpayers' money plowed into research each year on medicine, cancer cures, heart remedies, together with inventions for space and national defense.

Every year, the taxpayers shell out $15 billion for research. But if a private company using this money comes up with a phenomenal cure for cancer, the Senate voted, in effect, then the taxpayers don't get the benefit of that cure without paying for it. The profit will go to one of the big drug companies. This leaves the public paying twice: Once for the research; Then for getting the benefits of the research.

What the public didn't know when this vote was taken was that Dr. David C. Beckler, Assistant to the President's Science Director, sat in the Senate Gallery. After the vote was taken he smiled like a Cheshire cat.

What the public also didn't know was that a White House Assistant, Mike Manitos, put in telephone calls to key Senators uring them to vote against the taxpayers and for the drug companies.

Manitos made the mistake of phoning Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas, who told his fellow Democrat, Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, about the White House opposition. Long, the Democratic Whip, was the author of the amendment whereby patents for new medical discoveries would remain with the government.

FOOLING THE PUBLIC

Leading the fight for the White House and the drug companies was Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island, first Italian - American ever to serve in the Senate. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic Leader, usually on the side of the White House, this time was against it and on the pro-Public side. The issue was whether to table the long amendment protecting the public on patents.

When the roll was called, every Republican except Hiram Fong, the Chinese - American from Hawaii, voted with the Drug companies. Long's amendment was side-tracked, in effect defeated.

Immediately Pastore rose to explain his own motion to table.

"If I were placed in the position of having to vote on the merits of the amendment, I should have voted in the affirmative," he said. "I am for the consumer. I voted for the Natural Gas Bill; I voted to cut down the Oil Depletion allowance. I believe in protecting the rights of the consumer."

Then he went on to explain that this was a matter of procedure, and he wanted the drug patents amendment to go to Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, chairman of the Patents Committee, for study.

Real fact, however, is that McClellan has been studying this patent question for four years, and his committee is considered the graveyard of any attempt to protect the public. The Senator from Arkansas was a consistent opponent of the late Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in his battle to protect the public on medical patents. McClellan is still a blocker.

THE ROLL CALL

Many Senators were nervous about siding with the big drug companies in this debate. But they can now alibi that they were voting for "Further Study." When you write your Senator as to why he voted for the drug companies, that's the reply you will receive.

In addition to an almost unanimous Republican vote for the drug companies, the following Democrats also lined up against giving the taxpayers the benefit of the research they are paying for:

Bayh, Ind.; Eastland, Miss.; Ervin and Jordan, N. C.; Fulbright and McClellan, Ark.; Hayden, Ariz.; Hill and Sparkman, Ala.; Holland, Fla.; Inouye, Hawaii; Jackson and Magnuson, Wash.; Kennedy, Mass.; Kennedy, N. Y.; Lausche, Ohio; McCarthy and Mondale, Minn.; Monroney, Okla.; Pastore and Pell, R. I.; Robertson, Va.; Russell, S. C.; Russell, Ga.; Stennis, Miss.; Symington, Mo.; Williams, N.J.

STRANGE REVERSAL

Under orders from the White House, the Justice Department is doing an amazing switch on patents developed by government funds.

On March 7, 1963, Nick Katzenbach, then Deputy Attorney General, testified before the Senate Small Business Subcommittee on Monopolies, as follows:

"The Department of Justice has frequently stated that when inventions are produced as a result of government expenditure, it is generally undesirable to permit the developing contractors to exclude others from the use of such inventions.

"This is particularly true in cases where research itself is aimed at developing commercial products to promote public health, public safety or increased productivity.

"But beyond these obvious examples, we believe that the government should generally retain title to inventions produced as a result of governmental contract, and rarely, if ever, should the government agree in advance of the time when the invention is known and produced, for title to be given to the contractor."

Mr. Katzenbach, now Attorney General, is now sending a statement to the McClellan Committee -- under instruction -- reversing his own previous position.

UNITED MILITARISTS

The "United Army" recently announced by four Central American Governments, for the avowed purpose of combatting Communist subversion and terrorism collectively, also has the aim of tightening military control over that area.

Two of the countries involved, Guatemala and Honduras, are now ruled by armed forces Juntas that overthrew elected governments. President Rene Schick of Nicaragua is a hand-picked henchman of the Somoza boys, Luis and Tachito, who still head that country's tough National Guard.

Their father, Gen. Anastasio (Tacho) Somoza, ran Nicaragua as his private Fief for 30 years, until an assassin's bullets cut him down in 1956.

El Salvador, fourth member of the new combine, also has a military man, Col. Jorge Rivero, as President. Rivero was voted into office--without opposition -- and has worked hard, with considerable success, to break the feudal stranglehold which the notorious "14 Families" had on his countrymen for more than a century.

But the big, bouncy Colonel is getting to like the feel of power and shows no signs of giving up in the near future. The brass hats holding the reins in Honduras and Guatemala know that free, honest elections would be won, respectively, by the Liberal party of former President Ramon Villeda, whom they ousted early last year, and Guatemala's ex-Chief Executive, Juan Jose Arevalo, who calls himself a "Spiritual Socialist."

By claiming that these men and their followers are "Soft on Communism," the Juntas have an excuse to put off ballot ing indefinitely and entrench themselves as rulers. And under the new agreement, the Somozas can go on running Nicaragua as long as they please.

Note -- Significantly, Costa Rica and Panama, each of which has a duly elected President and Congress, were urged by their neighbors to join the "United Front," but both turned it down.

CAM RANH BAY, South Viet Nam AP -- This little far off war is becoming bigger every day.

One sign that the United States is preparing for a long campaign is the chain of bases it is building along South Viet Nam's lengthy east coast.

The bases range from Vung Tau, near Saigon, to Da Nang, 380 miles to the northeast.

Such giant nests of power are not the product of an idle hour, nor are they stopgap improvisations. They take months to plan, months to complete.

They take the work of hundreds of machines, thousands of men, and millions of pounds of fuel and supplies.

The latest of this chain of bases is at this deep water bay slightly more than a third of the distance from Saigon to Da Nang. It can harbor some of the world's largest ships.

"It could become bigger than Saigon," said Lt. Samuel I. Eskenazi, 23, Seattle, Wash., platoon leader of an Army landing craft company.

The pier has a 100-ton floating crane. Seven weather-yellowed French buildings house units of the Vietnamese junk navy.

"Both the Japanese and the French recognized the strategic position of the port," said Capt. Lindbergh Jones, 37, Leesville, La. "The Japanese built fortifications and ammo dumps during the second World War, and this is one of the last places the French pulled out of after the battle of Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

"We're building standard port and depot facilities and cantonment areas for logistic troops, and an Army airfield."

A look at the map shows why the base site attracted Army strategists. The peninsula dangles in the sea like a wavy finger 22 miles southeast of Nha Trang, a popular coastal resort.

Surrounded on three sides by water, its narrow neck could be easily defended in case of trouble in the midpart of the country. Equally well, it could serve as a major marshalling point by the U. S. Army in launching an attack in the central area.

The Army is building a new 4,500 - foot airstrip and lengthening a small one left by the French. In addition, if needed, there is plenty of room for another major airfield -- if the U. S. Air Force finds it requires one here.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

'Mr. Labor' Reveals Why American Labor Backs Stiff Fight Against World Communism

America's Mr. Labor--George Meany -- has for months been in the hustings taking issue with the academic critics of U. S. policy in Viet Nam and Santo Domingo. He is considered by many to be one of the world's ablest statesmen. Thus he has been under constant attack by Sino-Soviet-Cuban propagandists abroad and by many circles at home. I asked him why his labor federation takes the world position it does. Here is his reply:

By George Meany
President, AFL-CIO

Washington, D. C.: The booing and the brawls on a college campus here and there cannot hide the fact that the American people, in their vast majority, support President Johnson in his determined effort to have our country meet its international responsibilities.

American labor takes pride in the consistent, unequivocal and vigorous support which it has given to the President's basically sound foreign policies --particularly in his course towards the Viet Nam and Santo Domingo crises. We have done so out of our own experience and conviction. We realize what is at stake in these bitter tests of will and strength and we know the nature, aims, and methods of Communism.

The membership and leadership of the AFL-CIO have a deep sense of responsibility as citizens and as trade unionists. American labor has demonstrated this responsibility through its active efforts to help make our country's foreign policy democratic and ever more effective.

What is more, it has been tireless in carrying the message of freedom to the workers of every continent, creed, and color. American labor has combined words with deeds by helping these workers organize themselves into free trade unions capable of providing sound and strong forces for the promotion of human dignity, democracy and social justice in their respective countries.

On the occasion of the last Lincoln's birthday luncheon at the White House, President Johnson very appropriately remarked that "history and our own achievements have. . . thrust upon us the principal responsibility for the protection of freedom on earth. . .No other people in no other time has had so great an opportunity to work and risk for the peace and the freedom of all mankind."

Organized labor in the United States has always known that its very existence depends on democracy. American labor has secured great social, economic, and political achievements through devotion to and reliance on the democratic processes. Thanks, in no small measure to American labor's all - out support of democracy against Fascism, Nazism, Falangism, Peronism, Communism, and every other type of tyranny, the workers of many other lands are increasingly turning away from totalitarian movements and rallying to the cause of freedom.

What is this freedom that is so vital to our survival as citizens of a democracy and as trade unionists? To the AFL-CIO, freedom is more than a multiple-party system with free and secret universal suffrage for men and women of every race, color, religion, and national origin. In the philosophy of American labor, freedom is a way of life.

Experience has taught that any movement which opposes freedom of association, conscience and worship, any government which denies its people these basic human rights, any regime which prohibits free trade unions is hopelessly reactionary--regardless of how radical it may pretend to be or how revolutionary its slogans may sound.

The Communist movement, Communist regimes, and those who knowingly support them are really ultra-reactionary. They are the worst enemies of freedom and social justice.

No liberal can be loyal to his ideals and truly effective unless he is in the front ranks of the fight against Communism and all other reactionary forces. That is why the AFL-CIO has never been neutral in the struggle between human freedom and tyranny--regardless of how far "left" the propagandists and supporters of dictatorship may claim to be.

American labor is anti-totalitarian and not non-totalitarian. American labor is opposed to totalitarianism whether its "ism" be Communist, Fascist, or Nazi. American labor is not somewhere in between, but fully on the side of democracy in its historic struggle against dictatorship.

And when we work and fight for freedom, we work and fight for freedom for all the people and not only for labor. American labor knows very well that it cannot enjoy democracy for itself and then deny it to others.

Even those who have never been allowed to taste freedom, even those who have been subjected to indoctrination in the dogmas of dictatorship, yearn for freedom and fight for it in the face of severest hardships and dangers. This accounts for much of the spreading disenchantment with Communism especially among young people and intellectuals behind the Iron Curtain. Here is the reason why there are so many young men and women among those who risk their lives to flee from the yoke of dictatorship to countries where the people enjoy freedom.

Our university professors and students would serve their country and profession with fruitful distinction if they were to study this historic development and become not only academic but dynamic fighters against the Communist drive to dominate the world and impose on all mankind the Soviet system of tyranny.

All friends and relatives are invited.

Tony Fontane Story To Be Shown

A full length Christian musical film will be shown Sunday evening, July 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Tanner Street Church of God. Rev. Withrow, pastor of the church, indicates that the film will have particular interest for teenagers but that everyone will gain inspiration and challenge from the story.

"The Tony Fontane Story" is the unbelievable, yet true story of one of the world's greatest singers. Filmed in Hollywood by Youth Films, the teenage division of Gospel Films, Inc., it is the first Christian, dramatic musical ever produced. The purpose of the color production is to dramatically present Tony Fontane's personal testimony, showing teenagers and adults alike that the answer to life and the hereafter is found only in the person of Jesus Christ.

As guest soloist, Tony appeared on many additional TV shows, as The Ed Sullivan Show, The Steve Allen Show, The Hoagie Carmichael Show and many other New York and Hollywood programs. He was privileged to have his own radio and television show, "The Tony Fontane Show." He was featured as the star of Emile Littler's London success, "Brewsters Millions," the well known musical comedy. As a tenor singing star, he attained international success appearing in the world's most famous night clubs and theatres.

Tony's wife, the former Kerry Vaughn, was a professional actress when she and Tony were married twelve years ago. After their marriage, Kerry continued performing on the stage and in the night clubs around the world and appearing in many Hollywood motion pictures.

It was a peaceful, sunny September afternoon in 1957 as Tony Fontane, filled with the excitement and satisfaction of a successful rehearsal for a TV network show, was driving in the San Fernando Valley. Sundenly there was an ear-splitting crash. Everything went black. Thirty days later, Tony regained consciousness. It was this automobile crash that brought Tony, Kerry, and their daughter, Char'ae, to a knowledge of Jesus Christ. For their newfound Lord, they left their lucrative careers to enter full-time Christian work.

Gospel Films, now in its' twelth year, is operating in 82 countries of the world with films in 16 differen t foreign languages. Its' teenage ministry, Youth Films, is the only Christian motion picture company that offers free of charge its' teenage films to any of the 38,000 high school assemblies throughout America.

Tony Fontane at present is a religious recording artist while appearing in Christian concerts across the world.

Sikeston Wins Tournament

Limbaugh–Most Valuable Player

The Sikeston All-stars captured the championship position of their own tourney Saturday night when they galloped to a 4-0 decision over the Poplar Bluff Mules.

Sikeston's ace hurler and slugger, Wayne Limbaugh, was awarded the most valuable player trophy after he pitched a masterful victory for Sikeston striking out 16 of the 21 batters that he faced in the bout.

Limbaugh, starting and finishing on the mound for Sikeston, served a shutout and one-hit ballgame. The lone hit was in the last frame when Bagby, the fourth from last batter of the game, connected with a single.

The championship contest began after the consolation bout between Scott City and Bloomfield. Sikeston, first at bat in the game, started out with a single by the lead-off hitter Bailey. That was the only threat in the beginning frame from Sikeston. Poplar Bluff came to bat in the bottom of that frame but was dumped when all three went down. In the second Sikeston managed only one hit by McDaniel. The Mules, in that frame, managed to get only to second base when Rains walked and advanced there. The third inning action saw Sikeston romp 3 singles in a row by Limbaugh, Garner, and Brown, to drill in 3 runs. The Mules still remained hitless and scoreless. In the fourth Sikeston's first 3 batters went down in order as Poplar Bluff muffed them in that frame. However, Limbaugh took revenge when Poplar Bluff came to bat as he struck out the Mule's first 3 hitters. In the fifth, Sikeston came to bat to clip one more hit of the game when Limbaugh slammed out another single. The Mules went down in order in the frame as Sikeston held them to nothing. In the sixth, Sikeston managed their last of their 4 runs when McDaniel got on base with a single and Eddie Felker cracked the ball for a long drive into center field that went for a triple to boost the last run across. Sikeston had no action in the last except when Poplar Bluff came to bat.

Then Sikeston became just a little worried, when the first batter whacked a single to take a base. The next batter was given a free ticket to first. That advanced Hutchison to second and went on to third. However, the next 3 batters went down swinging as Limbaugh ended their only real threat. Poplar Bluff took second place in the tourney.

Limbaugh and McDaniel highlighted Sikeston. In hitting together they nabbed half of the total hits for Sikeston.

In the consolation bout that settled the third and fourth places in the tournament was between Scott City and Bloomfield. Scott City took an early 1-0 lead in the first to begin their winning pace. In the third they drove in 3 runs on 2 hits and still held Bloomfield to 2 runs and that they managed in the top of the third. In the fourth, Bloomfield added only 1 hit to the roster as Scott City stormed in 2 more runs.

Scott City collected another run on 2 hits in the fifth and 1 run on 1 hit in the last to take the victory over Bloomfield. Bloomfield gathered the third and last run of the evening when Harris rounded the bases in the last frame.

Ernst, who has pitched spectacularly throughout the tourney, was presented the best pitcher award after the Sikeston-Poplar Bluff contest. Ernst took the win for Scott City allowing only 1 hit and 3 runs. That lone hit was nabbed in the fourth when Kingree singled for Bloomfield. Pat Hart, with relief from Martin, took the loss allowing 7 hits and 8 runs.

Pierce and Reinagle took the spotlight when they both hammered 2 singles apiece for Scott City.

CHOOSE YOUR HOME

Home is a place to hang your hat someone once said.

Yet, home, in the truest sense, means much more than that. There, no matter how humble the dwelling, we find shelter, food and lodging. Loved ones welcome us, and we throw aside our cares and relax.

And because we are a combination of the physical and the spiritual, we need a church home also. The church not only provides shelter when disaster strikes; it is a refuge from life's storms. In its sanctuary, we lose our burdens and find spiritual strength as we draw near to God. Many of life's complex and perplexing problems are answered, and we enjoy the companionship of fellow Christians.

Do you have a church home? If not, there is one waiting for you. — Hazel E. Howard

Jaycees And Lewis Take Win

A & B Oil Co., was edged by a nose in Saturday night's game with Jaycees with a score of 2-1. The first game at Puckett Field began with Craig pitching for the winners and Dame hurling for A & B Oil Co.

Craig pitched a 6 hitter giving up one run for the Jaycees. He was not relieved throughout the game. Dame, who was also not relieved, pitched a marvelous game allowing only 5 hits.

The Jaycees scored one run in the second and one in the last to break the tie and win the game. A & B scored only once in the last.

The first two batters, Boshear and Scarbrough strung up 2 hits apiece for A & B. Jones, shortstop for Jaycees, boosted a double and a single for the winners. Craig, muffed the saying "pitchers can't hit" when he walloped a home run in the second to give Jaycees their first run.

In the second and last game in the National League at Pucket Field, Lewis Furniture erupted in the last frame when they romped 3 hits to score 7 runs to break the 2-2 tie. In that game, Lewis scored one run in the first and one in the third. Lions whipped up 2 hits to push in 2 runs in the third. That score remained until the next inning when Lewis pounded in 7 runs to fix the victory. In the fifth and last frame of play, Lewis slipped around the bases to score once more. Lewis won with a score of 10-2.

Corrigan went all the way for the victors allowing 7 runs to the Lions. Hailey started on the mound, but was relieved by Wooley, chalked up the loss.

Vaught and Hailey were highlights in the hitting position as each drove a double and a single for Lions. Vines walked up 4 times to smash 2 hits for the Lewis nine.

Cards Drop Two To Cubs

The St. Louis Cardinals dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the Cubs in Chicago by identical 6-0 scores.

The A's played only one game and lost to Detroit, 4-2, in Kansas City.

Larry Jackson and Cal Koonce shut the Cards out Sunday. As a result, St. Louis fell three games under .500 and eight games behind Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

Beside being unable to touch Jackson and Koonce, the Cardinals also had trouble with veteran Ernie Banks and rookie Chris Krug.

Krug, hitting .192 entering the first game, slammed a three-homer off loser Curt Simmons in the first game to give Jackson all he needed. Banks later singled in a run.

Banks crushed the Cardinals and Ray Sadecki in the first inning of the night-cap with a three-run blast. Then Krug put the game out of reach with a two-run double in the seventh.

Bob Gibson, the only Cardinal selected for the National League, pitched four shut-out innings of relief in the second contest.

Kansas City also found itself plagued by home runs and Hank Aguirre. Norm Cash hit a two-run homer and Gates Brown and Dick McAuliffe hit solo blasts for all the Tiger runs against loser Wes Stock. Aguirre scattered 11 hits for his 10th victory.

All major league teams are idle today.

TO A DELINQUENT EDITOR

The editor owes me a hundred bucks,
I have to dun the guy, but shucks
A starving author needs some kale
To keep him from being sent to jail.

I know this guy has lots of care--
The printers' bills are in his hair;
But when I reach for meat and bread,
I'm so awful hungry I go to bed.

How can a guy write fetching tales
When his innards growl in dismal wails;
So hurry, please, Mr. Editor, Man,
Hurry that hundred as soon as you can.

MELVIN MANNING

Manning Head In Pemiscot

HAYTI -- Announcement has been made of the appointment of Melvin Manning as county superintendent of schools. The appointment was made by Gov. Warrer Hearnes and became effective July 1. Manning was sworn in last Thursday by Harold Jones, County Clerk.

Manning was born and reared in Walnut Ridge, Ark., where he met and married Miss Iva Hathcoat.

The Mannings have four children; Tommy, who is a 1959 graduate of Arkansas State College is married and has two children. He is employed as publicity director of Arkansas State, Betty has attended Missouri State Teacher's College at Cape Girardeau for two and one half years and plans to continue her schooling, Patricia, is a sophomore at Hayti high school, and Michael is in the sixth grade at Hayti.

Manning attended the University of Maryland for two years, Arkansas State for two years, and Memphis State University for two years. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Education Degree, a Master of Art Degree and is working on educational specialist.

He has served the Hayti school system 10 years, the last six years having held the position of principal of Hayti high school. He is a member of the Lions club and Masonic lodge. He served in the air force from 1941 to 1952 reaching the rank of Major.

He lists his favorite sports as football, baseball, basketball and all school sports and enjoys squirrel hunting, fishing, and bowling in his leisure time.

Vicki Tiel Now Toast Of Paris

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Curled up in the big, leather restaurant booth, a mane of dark hair shading her makeup-less face, Vicki Tiel looked like any starlet working the publicity route to stardom.

Only her reaction was different.

"Me, an actress?" she giggled. "Heavens, no. I'll leave that to those who can act."

In less than a year, Vicki, without acting a line, has become the toast of Paris, been snubbed by Yves St. Laurent, gotten screen credit in "What's New Pussycat," rented a house in Malibu, bought a motorcycle and a Morgan sports car, acquired a five-figure income and dropped her first fiance.

"I've got another film now, with Kim Novak," she said. "And someone's talked to me about filming my life story."

For any girl of 21 but Vicki, the film would be a short subject.

Vicki isn't an actress, she is a dress designer. The youngest in town, she is rivaling such veterans as Edith Head, Jean Louis and James Galanos.

Just a year ago last month, Vicki was graduated from Parsons School of Design in New York.

With $1,000 apiece, Vicki and classmate Mia Fonssagrives, then 22, headed for Paris to invade the haute couture.

A few weeks after they arrived, the girsl took their sketches to Louis Feraud, a successful young designer.

"His manager like them so much, he signed us to do a collection of our own."

Their clothes appealed to the younger set -- wild, flower-printed stockings, above the knee skirts, necklines slit to the navel, in fabrics ranging from upholstery to snakeskin.

"We modeled our own clothes at Chez Castel, the Paris discotheque where all the young group goes -- like Geraldine Chaplin," says Vicki.

The girls got a contract to sell their clothes to a big U. S. manufacturer "for about $40,000 a collection, plus a percentage. That's just for 20 dresses."

Just as their $2,000 was running out, Seven Arts Productions signed them up to do Paula Prentiss' clothes in "Pussycat."

"We had to dress a strip tease number, so we learned how to strip tease at the Crazy Horse," said Vicki.

The girls got $100 a sketch, says Vicki, until she met Richard Burton in the Paris studio commissary.

"He just roared, 'One hundred dollars--you should get $1,000.' So we asked for it--and the producer grinned and gave it to us."

Housing Project Cost $600,161

BLOOMFIELD -- Glenn Aslin, chairman of the Bloomfield Housing Authority , said that the 46-unit low-rental program here will cost $600,161, according to estimates. The estimate was submitted last week to the Public Housing Administration in Dallas , Tex., for approval.

At a meeting of the local housing authority last week, a $60,000 advance note was approved, Aslin said.

The plans and speculations were drawn by the architect firm, Stanley Brown, Inc., of Dallas, Tex., and Little Rock, Ark. At the present appraisers are making an appraisal on the site selected by the housing authority and representatives of the PHA.

All dwellings will be one-story duplex (two - family units) type, brick veneered and having a concrete slab base. There will be 32 one-bedroom units, 12 two-bedroom units and two three-bedroom units, a total of 46 unit dwellings or 23 structures.

There will be an administrative and management building having 734 square feet of floor space. Included in the estimate is a community building having 1265 square feet of floor space.

Service Pins To Observers

PORTAGEVILLE -- The weather bureau has presented length-of-service awards to two Southeast Missouri residents.

Mrs. Lottie Summers of Bernie received a department of commerce pin for 10 years service as a cooperative observer in the Climatological network of the bureau. Since 1955 she has made daily measurements of rainfall at Bernie.

Torrence L. Johns of Qulin was awarded a pin commemorating 20 years similar service. Johns is one of a growing number of persons whose length of volunteer service has passed the two decade mark. He began recording rainfall at Qulin in May of 1945.

In presenting these awards, Leonard F. Hand, weather bureau meteorologist, expressed the appreciation of the department of commerce and the bureau for valuable service to the science of climatology.

These, and other Bootheel climatological observers, accept a daily responsibility which is both confining and rewarding to those who find satisfaction documenting the elements of nature.

Unneeded Taxes Paid In Pemiscot

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Pemiscot County is one of 37 counties in which taxpayers will pay $2,070,199 in unnecessarily levied property taxes unless the tenative tax rate included in their 1965 budgets is lowered, according to the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

According to the Survey, "This study includes only the county revenue fund. Other funds may or may not be carrying execessive surpluses."

The 37 counties covered in the study are in a position to lower tax rates because "each is maintaining a surplus in the county revenue fund budget in excess of the amount it needs to operate on a cash basis," the Survey said.

According to the study, tax reductions that can be made range from 5 cents to 38 cents per $100 assessed valuation, an average of 15 cents.

In 1964 the Survey recommended that 32 counties, including Pemiscot, could make tax reductions. Pemiscot County reduced its rate 3 cents and still had an increase of $7,225 in the county revenue fund.

This year the survey says that Pemiscot county has a revenue fund excess of $57,336 making a 13 cent tax rate reduction possible.

Church Has New Pastor

CHARLESTON -- The Southside Baptist Church this week announced the appointment of Rev. A. Eugene Runnels as minister, replacing Rev. Rufus Noisworthy, who resigned to become a supply preacher.

The Rev. Mr. Runnels will be the church's first full-time pastor.

A native of Kirksville, the Rev. Mr. Runnels attended high school in Atlanta, Mo., and is a graduate of Hannibal - LaGrange Junior College. He attended Northeast Missouri State College in Kirksville, Arkansas State College in Jonesboro, and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

He comes to Charleston from Lulu Baptist Church in Senath. He has also been minister of the Millersville Baptist Church and several smaller churches in northeast Missouri

The Rev. Mr. Runnels, 26, is married to the former Donna Doner of Atlanta, Mo., and they have two children, Mark 6, and Jeff 3. They are living at 101 West Iron Banks Road.

The new minister will deliver his first sermon Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Wyatt Will Furnish Water To Wilson City

WYATT--Aldermen of Wyatt met Thursday with Mayor John W. Cross. Present were representatives of the board of trustees of the village of Wilson City, and agreement was reached on a contract whereby Wyatt will furnish water to Wilson City.

The Wyatt aldermen decided that a building code ordinance would be strictly enforced and that any person desiring to build in the city must obtain from the city clerk a building permit before starting construction. Mayor Cross directed the city marshal to see that permits be obtained.

A financial statement for the six months ending June 30, was presented to the board, and accepted. The Board directed that the financial statement be published in the Enterprise-Courier in full.

Mayor Cross announced that Carlow Well Co. of Memphis would start drilling the city's well next Monday morning.

Other contractors concerned with the construction of the Wyatt water distribution system include: Moro, Inc., of Warren, Ark., who will build the distribution system; Skyco Constructors, Inc., of Hot Springs the treatment plant, and W. E. Caldwell of Louisville, Ky., the 50,000-gallon water tank.

Nudity Way of Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nudity, all of a sudden, has become a way of life in Hollywood.

Hardly a movie — or a girlie magazine — comes along without some actress baring all. Stella Stevens, Carroll Baker, Carol Lynley, to name a few. Ursula Andress, since those nude photos by her husband, actor John Derek, is known in the trade as Ursula Undress.

Elizabeth Taylor poses with only her hands covering her bosom in "The Sandpiper." And a nude redwood statue of her is on view throughout most of the movie.

All of this raises the question, does nudity hurt or help a girl's career in show business?

It certainly won't hurt Miss Taylor because it's in keeping with her image as a femme fatale.

But what about the young girls just starting?

Chris Noel, a willowy green-eyed blonde, says she was offered $5,000 to do a nude layout for a girlie magazine. She could use the money but turned it down.

"I think it would ruin my career as an actress. I would forever be labeled as a starlet. Producers would only see me as an actress who takes her clothes off," says Chris.

Her decision paid off. She recently landed one of the featured roles with Debbie Reynolds in "The Singing Nun."

"Had I posed nude, I couldn't have even got an audition for this movie," she adds.

Another young actress, 20-year-old Jo Collins posed nude for Playboy magazine and recently was selected Playmate of the year.

"It helped my career," says Jo. "I keep getting all kinds of offers now from producers."

After a pause, she added: "And they're all legitimate offers for roles."

Jo, at first, was against posing in the nude. Finally, her boy friend talked her into it.

"I was working in all the beach and surfing movies. So he said: What have I got to lose?"

"Since I've posed, I've had all kinds of publicity. American-International immediately sent me on a tour of the country to plug 'How to Stuff a Wild Bikini.'

"Every radio and television interviewer knew all about me from Playboy.

"They all were very interested in me."

4-H Club Fair Set for July 22-23

NEW MADRID -- Plans are being completed for the New Madrid County 4-H Club Fair at the high school, July 22-23.

4-H'ers throughout the county are planning to enter exhibits from their projects. These exhibits are of particular interest to the leaders, parents and others who are interested in what 4-H club boys and girls are doing and learning.

All exhibits will be judged July 22 and ribbons awarded to each one by a judge. The 4-H Fair Catalog carries the exhibit list.

All exhibits will be brought to the high school, highway 61, north, from 9 a.m. until noon, July 22.

The evening's entertainment will feature the share the fun program. Reports from clubs indicate that some of the best entertainment is in store July 22. There will be square dances, musical numbers, skits, songs and others, presented by individuals and groups from clubs throughout the county.

The share the fun top number will represent the county in the contest at the district 4-H achievement day in Cape Girardeau, Aug. 5. Here two numbers will be selected to enter the state contest in Columbia in September.

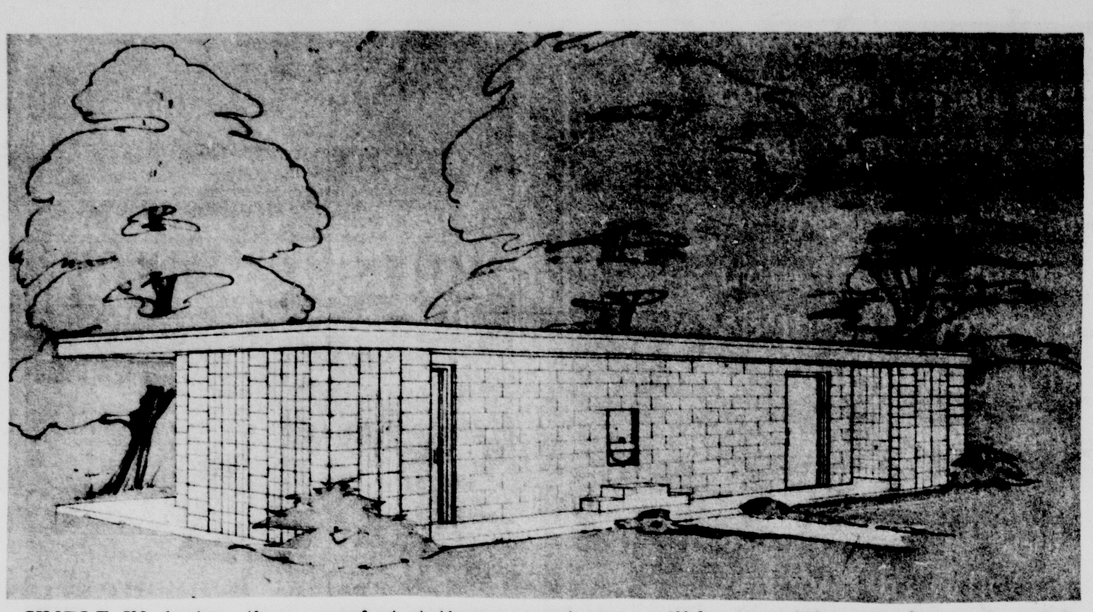
An evening's entertainment will feature the 4-H dress revue the night of July 22. Mrs. Marcus Koch, Mrs. Dick Whiffen and Mrs. Robert Burch, 4-H leaders, are in charge. The revue will include dozens of girls modeling their garments they have made, skirts, wool suits, coats and accessories.

Girls from 10 to 20 have learned to sew the 4-H way and each year their motto is "To Make the Best Better".

One girl 14 years or older and one under 14 will be chosen to represent the county in the revue at the Southeast Missouri district 4-H Achievement day in Cape Girardeau.

This is as far as the under 14 winner can go but the over 14 winner will be chosen at the district to enter the state event at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

The 4-H Fair catalog has been distributed over the County. It contains the programs for the two days and evening Fair and exhibit lists. Copies may be obtained from 4-H leaders or from the University Extension Center in New Madrid.



SIMPLE IN design, these comfort stations on rest areas will be as maintenance-free and vandal-proof as possible.

Three Rest Areas for Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY-- Three of 17 rest areas planned on Missouri interstate highways will be located in the Bootheel.

They will be between routes KK and D on Interstate 55 in Cape Girardeau county; one mile north of Marston in New Madrid county on Interstate 55 and two and a half miles north of the Arkansas line in Pemiscot county on the same interstate route.

A fourth rest area on I-55 will be built two miles south of Route I in Ste. Genevieve county.

The State Highway Commission originally plans to build nine rest areas but it added eight to cut down distances between them to about 50 miles.

Surveys and Plans representatives have made preliminary field investigations of all sites and a committee has approved designs for buildings and other facilities on the areas.

Planned to meet motorists' needs arising from driving on the modern superhighways, the rest areas will match the highways with the latest in design and facilities.

Maurice Dallmeyer, a designer IV in Surveys and Plans, was charged with coming up with designs and specifications for the structures and helping lay out the areas, fitting the jigsaw of buildings into a pleasing and attractive oasis for the highway traveler.

Rifling through his file of plans and sketches and drawings, he recounted some of the details that had to be considered.

"We started by gathering information and designs from other highway departments which were developing such areas," Dallmeyer explained. "Then we started checking their plans against what we were aiming for."

"What we were aiming for" was a combination of functional beauty, minimum maintenance and vandal-proof design. The roadblocks toward those aims, mostly connected with that non-engineering problem called human nature, are almost unbelievable.

"We at first thought, for instance, about making the buildings a rustic type with treated wood," said Dallmeyer. "But reports of vandalism soon knocked out that idea. The Park Board, for instance, reported instances of people pulling shingles off buildings to make camp fires."

So wood will be used only on the picnic tables in each area. And they will be bolted down.

But let's pull off the highway for an imaginary preview of one of the areas. The pavement's hot and you've driven long enough in one stretch. Then you spot the sign "Rest Area" and an entrance lane leads invitingly into a tree-and shrub-dotted area.

Up front some big trailer trucks are angle-parked on the strip marked off for them. You drive on by, to the car parking area, get out and stretch.

Nearby is one of two shelter houses. Twenty - four feet square, with a concrete roof and floor and supporting pillar in the middle, the shelters are about as vandal-proof and maintenance-free as possible.

The underside of the roof and the pillar are painted a cool green. And the roof is sloped to prevent accumulation of leaves and debris. At each corner of the shelter is a wooden picnic table and 10 other tables dot the area.

Farther back in the area is the comfort station, a long, low concrete block building painted the same cool green as the shelter. In the center is a recessed water fountain. And a Department attendant is on hand to answer questions or help in any way he can.

After a short stop, a stretch and a little relaxing -- and perhaps a bite to eat -- you're ready to call in the kids again, load up, and drive on, knowing that there's another rest "oasis" down the highway about an hour away.

"We tried to put in everything that the motorist would need for a restful stop," said Dallmeyer. "Each double area will have its own well (or an outside water supply) and sewage drain field or lagoon. And all of these facilities will be approved by the State Board of Health.

"At night the areas will lighted --the parking strips, the shelter houses, the comfort stations. The lights will be turned an automatically by photoelectric control. And, of course, each area will be landscaped.

"We think they're going to be nice and that motorists will find that these areas will add a lot to the pleasure of driving."

They won't be ready overnight; two are under construction now in Montgomery county and Lafayette county on Interstate Route 70. But they'll all be finished along with the system by 1972.

And they'll be worth waiting for -- for a few years and then for a few miles.

Watch How People Spend Their Money

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — The thing to watch right now is how freely people spend my money. And for consumers to go on increasing their spending each year, and almost each month, two things are needed: first, the wherewithal, and second, confidence in the future.

The wherewithal is still increasing. Despite the rise in the take by federal, state and local tax collectors, the total of personal incomes left over after this drain has been going up. And a notable change in the population in the last four years has been the larger than average increase in the number of families in middle income brackets.

Mostly, these families have money left over after the essentials have been met — money they can, and do, spend.

Confidence has been strong, too — apparently firmer this year than last. The big question right now is whether the dramatic dip in stock prices from the May 14 peak, and the accompanying chorus of doubt about 1966 economic prospects, may have moderated or even undermined this confidence.

That's why the course of consumer spending in the next few weeks, and even more importantly in the fall, will be watched so closely as a tip-off.

Consumer spending is the biggest of the three important props of the economy. A second, business spending for increased activities, inventories and expansion, has been rising and seem likely to keep on doing so. In spite of tax cuts and budget pruning pledges, the third prop, spending by federal, state and local governments, is as assured of rising in the future as anything can be.

Confidence is a fragile thing. But the wherewithal can be measured.

The sharp advance in consumer buying power in the last four years — even allowing for the rise in the cost of living — is perhaps the most revealing tag to be applied to today's prosperity.

In 1960 total personal income was $401 billion. Now it is running at an annual rate of $517 billion. Subtract personal taxes paid to the three levels of government, and Americans still have close to $450 billion to spend.

Much of the income of lower-bracket families goes for the essentials. The middle and higher brackets have more discretion. They account for much of today's obvious affluence.

The sharp advance since 1960 in the number of families making $7,000 a year or more is pointed out by economists of the Northern Trust Company, Chicago.

In 1960 some 20 per cent of American families were in the $7,000-$9,999 range, and at the start of this year 23 per cent were. In the last four years the number earning $10,000 to $14,999 a year rose from 11 per cent of all families to more than 16 per cent. The percentage making $15,000 to $24,999 nearly doubled and is now 5.2 of the total.

And ahead? The Chicago economists say:

"With factory backlogs still rising, Social Security benefit payments soon to be increased, and business and consumer spending intentions remaining buoyant, further income gains appear likely in the months ahead."

The government crackdown on expense accounts may have one beneficial effect--it may bring back home cooking.

Water Area Incorporated

NEW MADRID-- Circuit Judge William L. Ragland issued an order declaring final incorporation of Public Water Supply District 1. This is the area in New Madrid County comprised of South Lilbourn, Howardville and the area between.

An election was held June 19 to determine if this water district should be formed. The vote was 192 for and 0 against.

The first board of directors set up on the decree of incorporation are: Subdistrict 1, David E. Ragan, one year; subdistrict 2, William B. Croy, two years; subdistrict 3, Travis B. Howard, two years; subdistrict 4, Donald Schaffer, three years; subdistrict 5, Willie B. Hamilton, three years.

The citizens of this new water district will vote on a $75,000 revenue bond issue to finance a water system. This bond issue will be guaranteed 100 per cent by the United States through the Farmers Home Administration. Tentative approval for this guarantee has been made by the FHA State Director of Missouri, Everett Jose, and is based on service agreements signed by a minimum of 125 customers. Bonds will be payable over a 33-year period.

$193,142 For Welfare

NEW MADRID -- County recipients of assistance from funds disbursed by the county welfare office for June were paid $193,142.55, according to Fred Sheeter, director of the office. The greatest part of this amount went to those on the old age assistance list.

There were 1,484 on the old age assistance rolls who received $90,219. Average check was $60.79.

A total of 611 county families with 1,939 children received $62,406 in the aid to dependent children category. Average check was $102.14 per family.

From general relief funds 203 families of 224 persons each received a total of $13,410, or an average check of $59.87.

There were 235 persons on the rolls in the permanently and totally disabled field of the welfare service who received an average check of $65.76. The total for the month in this area was $15,454 in the county.

New Madrid county had 81 persons on the pension for the blind list and each received $75 for June for a total of $6,075.

There were 59 children under child welfare supervision. Service was given to 58 children and was completed in one, leaving a caseload of 58 at the end of the month. Of these children now being given services, 43 are in the homes of their parents or living with relatives, 13 are in foster boarding homes, one is in an adoptive home, and one is in foster group care.

Amount spent for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care, and incidentals for the children under child welfare supervision from the county court for the month was $345.86. Amount expended from state boarding funds was $356.61. Costs under the drug and dental program totaled $4,876.08.

Malden Man Directs Play

MALDEN -- "Theatre - Go-Round" the summer theatre program on the campus of Saint Louis University will present an evening of one-act plays on July 15-17 at 8:40 p.m. on the Technological Institute Quadrangle.

The open-air theatre features this year performances by members of the High School Theatre workshop being held in conjunction with the University's summer theater program.

Among the directors for the one-act plays is Jay Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Summers, who is a graduate student in the theater department. Summers, director of dramatics and instructor of speech and English during the school year at Farmington Senior high school, will direct Tad Mosel's "Impromptu," which will feature members of the high school thespians.

Summers comes to Theater-Go-Round with extensive experience as an actor at Southeast Missouri State College where he was twice recipient of the "best actor award," and award-winning experience as a director where his students won first place in the one-act play division of the Southeast Missouri speech and drama contest and went on to represent the district in the state contest on the campus of Missouri University in Columbia.

14 Million Acres Planted In Cotton

WASHINGTON AP -- The Agriculture Department estimates that 14,205,000 acres were planted to cotton this year. This was 4 per cent less than last year.

The department made no forecast on production, but should it turn out to be at or near the recent yield of 492 pounds per acre, the crop would be around 14,200,000 bales of 500 pounds each. Last year's crop was 15,180,000 bales and the five-year average was 13,905,000 acres.

The crop, like its predecessors in recent years, is being grown under a program of acreage planting allotments and marketing quotas designed to limit overproduction. Excess sales are subject to cash marketing penalties.

This year's crop will be supplemented by a reserve and surplus of around 13.5 million bales, or about 1.4 million more than a year earlier and the largest since 1956.

The first official forecase of production will be issued by the department on Aug. 9.

Under the control program, the department allotted 16 million acres, the legal minimum, among growers entitled to grow the crop. But some farmers have indicated they will underplant their allotments in return for compensating government payments.

The indicated planted acreage and the percentage such acreage represents of 1964 plantings, respectively, for Missouri is 345,000 acres planted or 97.5 of last year's total.

Do your level best in a cheerful spirit, right now.

Big news for telephone users:

Reduction of excise tax means lower telephone bills for Missouri customers

Effective January 1, 1966, the Federal Excise Tax on telephone service will be reduced from 10 to 3 per cent. Following the initial drop, the tax will be lowered 1 per cent each year until it is eliminated in 1969.

Telephone users will receive the full cash benefit from this tax reduction. The tax, which is levied directly on those who use telephone service, has been included on monthly telephone bills, and each month your tax payment has been sent on to the federal government. In effect, the telephone company has been a collection agency. Telephone bills, beginning in January, will be reduced to reflect the 7 per cent decrease.

When the excise tax is eliminated in 1969, telephone users in Missouri will save more than $22 million annually. This will mean about $2 million a month added to Missourians' spendable income.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base on Miller Drive from Indiana Street to termination of Drive in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 5: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 6th day of July, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Hearnes Praises Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes appeared before houses of the legislature near the closing hour of the 73rd General Assembly last Wednesday and called the session "one of the greatest," as members ended their regular six-month session with a record showing passage of almost 100 percent of the major legislation urged by the chief executive.

Citing a legislative record "filled with accomplishments," Governor Hearnes noted he asked Jan. 13 for 16 major proposals and returned twice in special messages to request three more which he considered important to the public interest.

"Each of these proposals," the governor told legislators, "contained various segments relating to the broad field covered. All were considered and the major portions of each of these 19 basic proposals were passed and sent to me for my signature or to the people for their approval through ballots.

"To say I am pleased with this session of the legislature would be an understatement. I feel it is no overstatement to say this session has been one of the greatest, and I include the five sessions when I was privileged to be a member and the two during which I was majority floor leader.

"The record of the 73rd General Assembly is a record filled with accomplishment and no governor could ask for more intelligent cooperation than I have received. The proposals I made in 19 areas were many times complicated and intricate, and many were sensitive from the standpoint of politics and the status quo of government," Governor Hearnes concluded.

Highlights of major administration measures passed by the legislature included:

REAPPORTIONMENT -- "There could be no solution which would have pleased everyone," Governor Hearnes said, "but some solution had to be found if voters were not to face the chaos of elections at large decreed by the court." On Aug. 17 voters will ballot on a proposal to increase the House membership to 168 from 163. The legislature also redistricted congressional areas. A bi-partisan commission appointed by the Governor is working on new senatorial districts to comply with the court order.

EDUCATION -- Approved was $10 million more for the school foundation program; establishment of the four-year colleges at St. Joseph and Joplin; allow local districts to set a maximum current levy at $1.25 instead of the present $1.

GUBERNATORIAL Succession --Also on Aug. 17, voters will have a chance to vote on Amendment No. 1, which will allow future governors to serve a second term. This fulfilled a campaign pledge made by Governor Hearnes during the primary and general election periods -- that Missourians would have a chance to make their views known on whether they wished to allow a good governor to better accomplish long-range objectives through four more years in office.

TRAFFIC Safety -- Passed were a number of recommendations made by an interim committee to the legislature and governor -- principal among which was a requirement that a driver's license would be revoked if he or she refused to submit to a chemical test to determine intoxication.

CONFLICT OF Interest-- Despite the failure of efforts to pass this in years past, Governor Hearnes called for a strong conflicts of interest legislation and the legislature responded with the first such bill in Missouri history. The bill, as Hearnes noted in a legislative message will "reinforce with statute the ethics of honesty Missourians have a right to expect from those of us who serve them in government."

CORRECTIONS and Parole-- The governor asked for and received a raise for the director of corrections from $15,000 to $18,500 yearly.

MENTAL HEALTH -- The Assembly established nine new clinics for treatment of the mentally retarded in addition to those facilities at Marshall and Kansas City -- a move hailed by state and national authorities as one which will place Missouri "in the forefront" of all United States programs in this field.

TAXES -- The legislature agreed with the governor's request to repeal the one percent per $100 valuation property tax levy because the purpose for which it was passed ended in 1962. Also, passed was a uniform financial statement for all non-treasury funds--to be included in the state treasurer's report for a more accurate picture.

ALSO ON THE fiscal side of Governor Hearnes' program requests was one that budgetary provisions of the law governing first and second class counties be extended to 196 third and fourth class counties. This passed, as well as a bill which allows these 106 counties to adopt one of three alternative forms of government allowed heretofore only to a few large counties privileged to adopt home rule charters.

HIGHWAYS -- The lawmakers increased from four to six the membership of the Missouri State Highway Commission, giving better representation to the areas long unrepresented on this body--especially the two metropolitan zones of Northeast Missouri. The Governor said this six-member body "will represent more fairly not only their own areas, but the entire state through specialized knowledge of regional problems and needs."

RESOURCES and Recreations --The legislature approved establishment of an inter-agency council composed of all state groups concerned with natural resources and their impact on recreation in order to comply with provisions of the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. This will bring to the state an estimated $2 million-plus for the next 25 years to promote Missouri's unlimited outdoor possibilities and place it in a favorable position to compete with others in attraction of travel business -- the third largest state industry.

THE ARTS -- The Assembly established and gave funds to the first statutory Council on the Arts to encourage understanding of their importance in Missourians' lives -- including bringing good music, painting, etc. to outstate areas which lack symphonies and galleries of their own.

CIVIL RIGHTS -- The lawmakers passed this legislation in order to assure state enforcement rather than federal, because as Governor Hearnes explained, "Where a state governments' vacuum exists, federal forces move in."

AIR POLLUTION -- The Assembly approved the first legislation to attack this increasingly severe health problem which experts say is steadily becoming not only an urban problem but one throughout the state.

ONE OTHER long - range request, asked by the Governor and agreed to by the legislature was creation of a Tax Study agreement to his request for legislation requiring licensing and examination of new insurance agents.

Although he appointed an administrative assistant for urban affairs for the first time in Missouri history, Governor Hearnes asked for no legislation until a comprehensive program could be submitted to help these areas -- which would include towns of 2,000 on up to larger cities in their needs for information and assistance in all fields.

Other legislative proposals made by the Governor and accepted by the General Assembly included increased assistance for tubercular patients and corrective legislation to recoup $6 million lost from sales tax revenue through a court decision.

7th Inning Stretch

Most generally accepted story of the origination of the seventh inning stretch in baseball: President William Howard Taft got up to stretch in the 7th inning and the crowd, thinking he was leaving, rose to pay him honor.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Missouri

To be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Missouri at a special election to be held on Tuesday, the Seventeenth day of August, 1965

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 1

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

Authorize a person to be elected Governor not more than twice or not more than once if he served more than two years of a term to which another person was elected.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri, an amendment repealing Section 17 of Article IV of the constitution of Missouri relating to elective state officers and adopting one new section in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 17, Article IV, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and one new section adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as section 17, to read as follows:

Section 17. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer and attorney general shall be elected at the presidential elections for terms of four years each. The state auditor shall be elected for a term of two years at the general election in the year 1948, and his successors shall be elected for terms of four years. No person shall be elected governor more than twice, and no person who has held the office of governor, or acted as governor, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected to the office of governor shall be elected to the office of governor more than once. The state treasurer shall not be eligible for election as his own successor. The heads of all the executive departments shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. All appointive officers may be removed by the governor and shall possess the qualifications required by this constitution or by law.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 2

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

To authorize cities, in addition to the existing power to lease, to dispose of plants for manufacturing and industrial development purposes constructed from proceeds of revenue bonds.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri an amendment repealing Section 27 of Article VI of the constitution of Missouri relating to municipal revenue bonds for utility, airport and industrial purposes and adopting one new section in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 27, Article VI, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and one new section adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as section 27, to read as follows:

Section 27. Any city or incorporated town or village in this state, by vote of four-sevenths of the qualified electors thereof voting thereon, may issue and sell its negotiable interest bearing revenue bonds for the purpose of paying all or part of the cost of purchasing, constructing, extending or improving any of the following: (1) revenue producing water, gas or electric light works, heating or power plants; (2) plants to be leased or otherwise disposed of pursuant to law to private persons or corporations for manufacturing and industrial development purposes, including the real estate, buildings, fixtures and machinery; or (3) airports; to be owned exclusively by the municipality, the cost of operation and maintenance and the principal and interest of the bonds to be payable solely from the revenues derived by the municipality from the operation of the utility or the lease of the plant.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 3

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

Repeal seven Sections of Article III and adopt 5 new Sections which provides: 168 members of the House of Representatives to be elected from districts. Apportionment shall follow each decennial census with certain exceptions. House to be reapportioned by law. The Senate shall consist of 34 members elected from districts of contiguous territory fixed by Senatorial Apportionment Commission. The House of Representatives cannot employ more than 225 nor the Senate more than 100 employees.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri an amendment repealing Sections 2, 3, 5, 8, 9, 10, and 17 of Article III of the Constitution of Missouri, relating to the general assembly and adopting five new sections in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Missouri:

Section 1. Sections 2, 3, 5, 8, 9, 10 and 17, Article III, Constitution of Missouri, are repealed and five new sections adopted in lieu thereof to be known as sections 2, 5, 9, 10 and 17, and to read as follows:

Section 2. The house of representatives shall consist of one hundred sixty-eight members elected from one hundred sixty-eight districts to be apportioned and numbered as provided by law, or as otherwise provided herein.

Section 5. The senate shall consist of thirty-four members elected by the qualified voters of the respective districts for four years. For the election of senators, the state shall be divided into convenient districts of contiguous territory, as compact and nearly equal in population as may be.

Section 9. The house of representatives as now constituted shall continue until January 1, 1967.

Section 10. The last decennial census of the United States shall be used in apportioning representatives and in determining the population of senatorial and representative districts. The apportionment of representatives shall be made once only and in the year following the taking of each decennial census unless a court of competent jurisdiction orders reapportionment; or, in the event, that on or before January 1, 1969, apportionment on a basis other than population is permitted by amendment to the Constitution of the United States or by ruling of a court of competent jurisdiction, then sections 2 and 3 of Article III of the Constitution of Missouri as adopted February 27, 1945, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the state for adoption or rejection at the next general election following the effective date of the court order or amendment to the Constitution of the United States, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose. If the amendment so submitted is rejected, apportionment shall be as provided by the then effective law.

Section 17. The house of representatives shall not employ more than two hundred twenty-five and the senate shall not employ more than one hundred employees, elective, appointive or any other at any time during the session.

Mrs. J. E. Emerson of St. Louis is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joe Mathis and husband this week.

Wallace E. Waters, second lieutenant, 339th Field Artillery Batallion, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in combat from April 1, 1945 to May 10, 1945, in Italy.

Mrs. A. E. Sullivan entertained with an afternoon party Sunday for her son, Eugene, whose first birth anniversary occurred on that day.

PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

Behold, this dreamer cometh. Come now therefore and let us slay him. (Genesis 37:19-20)

PRAYER: Father, I know that to be like Jesus is to be different; but I would be true. Today help me to look at what I aspire to be and do. Turn my face and direct my steps and endeavors in that direction. Add to my purpose Thy power that I may help answer the Savior's prayer, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done." For His sake. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law doesn't like to write letters. She puts everything on postal cards and I do mean everything. Unfortunately, our mailman has a very big mouth. There is no such thing as a secret in this town.

A few weeks ago my mother-in-law worte the following message on a card: "It's too bad the bank turned down your loan. I wish I could send you the money but I can't right now. If you would like me to speak to your Uncle Leonard I will. You did pay back the money you borrowed from him to buy the car, didn't you?"

I boiled for weeks over that one. My husband said I was "sensitive."

This morning I received a card from her which said: "If you aren't having any success getting pregnant, Alice, why not talk to Martha? Maybe she will pass along some secret hints."

What do you think about this, Ann? Any suggestions to cure her?--JUST BURNING

Dear Just: Personal business should not be written on postal cards, even if your mailman has a small mouth.

Send your mother-in-law a box of self-addressed stamped envelopes with cards inside and tell her you'd appreciate it if she'd use them.

Dear Ann Landers: Just keep up your nutty advice and you will be responsible for breaking up 10,000 more homes in Wayne County.

What do you mean by telling women they shouldn't have to clean the fish and fowl their husbands bring home--unless they want to?

Most women are downright lazy today, thanks to the new inventions. They are fat as cows and just as energetic. They don't even hang out the wash anymore what with machines that blow everything dry.

My mother was happy when Pa brought home anything he could trap, shoot or hook. It was a whole winter's groceries.

Women like you are ruining our civilization. I say we'd be better off if we all went back to the stream, the field and the tree.--SIGN ME SAM

Dear Sam: O. K. Go back to the tree, but don't try to take the whole world with you.

Dear Ann Landers: To be honest I don't know if I am justified in being upset with my mother or, if I am being "adolescent" as she says.

I am almost 17 years old and have been going with a wonderful fellow who is now in the East taking summer courses at a university. He writes me twice a week. Ron (not his real name) IS A POET. He has written some romantic poems just for me. I think they are the most sensitive and exquisite words I have ever read.

I learned this afternoon that my mother read several of Ron's poems to her Ladies Aid when they met at our home last week.

When I told Mother I was shocked she said, "I thought the poems were so beautiful I wanted the ladies to hear them. Beautiful things should be shared. They belong to the world." I cannot be objective about my feelings but I am disappointed, angry and resentful. Comment please.--J.

Dear J.: Your mother had no right to invade your privacy. The poetry was written for you and not for the world, or the Ladies Aid.

You realize, of course, that your mother was showing you off. Understanding her motives should make you less angry and resentful, but what she did was wrong wrong wrong.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry -- Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --The largest single cash award made at this base for a Big R suggestion was recently given to Mr. Theodore J. Bailey, base civilian budget officer.

The Strategic Air Command Big R program is designed to promote reliability to equipment in its use through suggestions.

Bailey received $730.00 for his suggestion which saves SAC $18,566.00 in annual net savings.

The money saving suggestion provides for accumulation of transportation costs utilized in SAC's Program Element Cost Report, by revising the method of monthly analysis through keypunching of punched cards accounting machine cards which summarize required information on a machine readout or machine listing.

The old method involved manual research and analysis of more than fifty pages of machine listings twice monthly. This process consumed an average of sixteen manhours, whereas the new process requires no expenditure of manhours.

Bailey's suggestion was implemented locally in April 1964. It was later approved for command wide application at bases having mechanized accounting procedures.

The local cost reduction office submitted the suggestion as a base entry in competition for the SAC annual Big R Trophy.

Mr. Bailey is serving his first Civil Service appointment. He has been employed here since August 1958. He was appointed to his present position in December 1959.

Since then the budget division has been among the top rated in the command. He has been the recipient of one outstanding performance award and/or the sustained superior civilian performance award each year since 1961.

Colonel John R. Thompson, 97th Combat Support Group commander, made the presentation.

When one testifies before a congressional committee one often has the impression that the purpose of the hearing is not to search out the facts and then reason a solution, but that the solution has been determined and the hearings will now put such facts on the record as will support the solution. One might say they are not gathering facts but arguments for their position. — Hans Bethe

Site Picked For Dexter Hospital

DEXTER -- John Wm. Ringer, President of the board of directors of The Dexter Memorial Hospital, announced that the site for the proposed hospital facility had been selected and approved and an option for its purchase secured.

The site, consisting of 12 acres, is located on land belonging to the Rainey family, and is situated on a knoll between Highways 114 and 60 on the east side of One Mile Road just west of Dexter. A sign indicating the site will be erected in the near future.

The effort to fund and build the much needed hospital facility by means of a public fund raising campaign began last October when a series of meetings by interested citizens culminated in the formation of the necessary non-profit hospital corporation and the granting of the Charter by the Secretary of State. A Board of Directors was elected consisting of Mrs. L. T. Busby, Mrs. Wilson Jarrell, Gordon Hart, Dewey Sigler, Clint Shell, Frank Schneider, Marshall Vowels, H. L. "Bake" Estes, and John Wm. Ringer, and this Board has been meeting regularly since that time working out the details of securing a site and planning the fund raising campaign.

In March of this year, the firm of Hewitt and Royer, Hospital Construction Consultants from Kansas City, who specialize in hospital construction, were employed as the architects for this project. They subsequently conducted a survey and research program within the proposed service area of the hospital which includes approximately 25,000 people, at the conclusion of which the erection of a fifty bed general hospital was recommended. The total estimated cost of construction, including acquisition of site and architect's fees, is $930,000.00, and the necessary application has been filed to secure Hill-Burton funds from the Federal Government in the sum of $450,000.00, which would be the maximum allowable on the above figure. It was pointed out that these figures are broad estimates, and that detailed plans and specifications and exact costs of construction will be available at a later stage in the campaign.

The next step was to obtain a site. A site committee was appointed by the Board to investigate all possible leads, as a result of which some fourteen locations in and around Dexter were made available by members of the public. Marshall Vowels, Chairman of this committee, stated that the Board would like at this time to express its appreciation to each of the public minded citizens who made these sites available for the hospital.

The site committee evaluated and catalogued each site and reported their findings to the Board and then a representative from Hewitt and Royer inspected each site and assembled various data both pro and con concerning its adaptability for hospital purposes.

After Hewitt and Royer completed their survey, they analyzed their results and recommended four sites that would be acceptable to present to the Division of Health for final selection and approval. Among the factors considered by the architects were the size of the tract, the accessibility to major highways, the possibility of traffic congestion near entrances, the nearness of any nuisances, the location of available utilities, and the amount of earth moving and filling that might be required. After these recommendations were received by the Board, the Division of Health was contacted and representatives from Jefferson City then made a trip to Dexter and inspected the recommended sites, as a result of which the Rainey site was selected and given State approval. An option on this land has now been secured from the Raineys extending through November 30, 1966, and the Board also expressed its appreciation for the fine co-operation they had received from the Rainey family in obtaining this option.

Since arranging for the site, the Board has been interviewing funds raising firms relative to plans of action for raising the needed monies for the hospital. At this time, representatives from six different firms with experience in hospital fund raising campaigns have been interviewed, among which have been some of the largest in the country.

The seventh and final representative will be interviewed by the Board next week, after which it is expected that a final selection will be made. After the particular firm who will work with the Board in the fund raising campaign is selected, the next step will be announced as soon as it has been formulated and approved by the Board.

Signals Discussed By Council

DEXTER -- City Councilmen discussed at length the Cotton Belt railroad crossing on East Stoddard and the Missouri Pacific crossing at Catalpa Streets during a session Tuesday.

City officials met a few days previously with railroad officials for the Cotton Belt Railroad Company who agreed to install a different type or a new signal at the East Stoddard street crossing where two men were killed in car - train accidents during the past year.

After the discussion City Attorney Claude Arnold was instructed to make further proposal to both Missouri Pacific and Cotton Belt Railroad Companies concerning safety measures for the benefit of the public.

A committee appointed to survey the bridges in the west part of the city reported to the Council and repairs or new construction is under consideration.

A street light near the Boy and Girl Scout Hut was approved by the Council.

Other action included a report from City Attorney Arnold that plans were underway for the collection of delinquent taxes and licenses.

Disbursements included payment to the West Construction Company for completed work on the lagoon sewer in the amount of $35,844.68.

The clerk's report on funds disbursed for the month in the amount of $50,061.37 was approved as was the report of the police judge for June in the amount of $91.28.

Senators Urge Two Cotton Bill Changes

WASHINGTON -- As the senate and house agriculture committees work this week on the 1965 farm bill proposals, Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long urged two amendments in the administration's proposed cotton program.

In a joint letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, Symington and Long expressed opposition to (1) the proposed reduction in the price support level below the minimum provided in the Agriculture Act of 1964, and (2) the provision directing the Secretary to sell cotton for unrestricted use at the export price.

The Senators asked that the minimum price support level contained in the Agriculture Act of 1964 (65 percent of parity) be required for any new legislation. "If program costs are to be the primary consideration in future cotton programs, we urge that savings should also be sought in pricing policies to domestic textile mills rather than come entirely from the pockets of cotton producers."

They said further, the provision directing the Secretary to sell cotton for unrestricted use at the export price "should be qualified to insure orderly marketing of the farmer's crop. Orderly marketing cannot be accomplished if the CCC is to be directed to sell in direct competition."

The administration cotton bill, introduced by Chairman Harold Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee, provides a price support loan at the "world market price", and variable direct payments to each individual producer depending on the acreage reduction from his share of a 16 million national acreage allotment.

Under the bill as introduced, Department economists estimate that producers using their full acreage allotment would receive 26 cents per pound for their cotton.

Present minimum of 65 percent of parity is about 28 cents.

In their joint letter to Secretary Freeman, Symington and Long recalled that in 1963 the price support level was 32.5 cents per pound; in 1964 it was 30 cents per pound and in 1965 it will be 29 cents per pound.

A. L. Storey, Jr., past president of the American and Missouri Cotton Producers Associations and currently a member of the Missouri State ASCS Committee, and Hilton Bracey, Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, were in Washington this week working with other cotton industry leaders.

Rabbit Raising Multiplies Rapidly in Sikeston Area

FOUR BREEDS of rabbits are held by Derris Gray, 127 N. Handy St. From left are the Blue Checkered Giant, Tortoise Dutch, Palomino and the Harlequim.

THE CHECKERED GIANT, left, and the New Zealand White, are two rabbit varieties raised by Frank Hughes, shown, at the Labor Rest Camp, east of Sikeston.

By Leo Schade

Rabbit production is a rapidly multiplying hobby in the Sikeston area.

Two men devoted to it are Frank Hughes, route two, and Derris Gray, 127 North Handy St. Their wives assist them.

Hughes is in charge of the Labor Day rest camp for migrant workers. He finds satisfaction in the escape from his daily human relation problems that the hobby provides. "I find these pets a great source of satisfaction in my spare time. There is never a dull moment."

"Some people like golf, others take up other hobbies, but I found rabbit raising a great sport, and I make more out of it than I spend on it," Gray said.

Both men have sold and given away hundreds of rabbits for food as well as for children's pets.

The smallest full size rabbit weigh less than a pound. The largest is the Flemish Giant, which reaches a weight of 23 pounds. Whether it is for a lucky rabbit's foot, pets or food, the rabbit population is in the millions. The largest producer in the nation lives in Los Angeles county in California, producing 7 million pounds annually.

Domesticated rabbits have never been known to carry rabbit fever. The department of agriculture says that the rabbit is the best source of protein of any animal except the guinea hen and squab. The protein content is 20.8 per cent, fat 10.2 per cent, moisture 27 per cent and the least calories per pound of 795, compared with pork of 11.9 per cent protein, 45.0 per cent fat, 42 per cent moisture and 2,050 calories.

Each rabbit pays a profit of from $5 to $15. Each doe will produce five times its weight in litters during its life span. Care and food are nominal.

To give a person full time employment, there must be 600 or more rabbits.

Rabbit is all white meat. The rabbit has the distinction of producing all the mucilage used on the U. S. postage stamp. Most felt hats are made from rabbit fur. The rabbit foot is a good luck charm.

What hobby can produce a larger variety of uses?

There are 50 different breeds. Seven originated in the United States. Rabbit is the most universal commercial food used in 30 nations.

July 18 - 24 is National Rabbit Week. It will be recognized by thousands of small and large raisers.

Hughes began his hobby with Checkered Giants and New Zealand White about five years ago. He now has more than 85 in his pens, ranging from seven to 11 pounds each.

Gray began his hobby in 1949 when he lived in Blodgett. He has 100 rabbits with four breeds -- Blue Checkered Giants, Tortoise Dutch, Palomino and the Harlequim.

Rusk Calls for U.S. And Japanese Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk opened the fourth U.S. - Japan joint cabinet committee conference to day with a call for increased economic efforts by the two countries in Southeast Asia.

He told the seven Japanese cabinet officers and their American counterparts that the two countries share a particular interest in Southeast Asia where freedom is threatened by aggressive neighbors.

In response, Japan's foreign minister, Etsusaburo Shiina, said Japan has been taking "increased responsibility in the sphere of international economy and in particular to our Asian neighbors."

Shiina said that the progress already made in Japan-U.S. cooperative ties "will lose its firm basis unless it is accompanied by constant and strenuous efforts to bring about appropriate solutions to each and evey one as such problems that may arise between our two countries."

Rusk said that wide variety of difficult problems could be expected from competition that develops between vigorous trading nations.

"As old problems are solved new ones emerge," he said.

But Rusk said that the United States and Japan must not let economic problems obscure the broader concern both countries share in the welfare of other countries of the world particularly in Asia.

Eight persons were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday — five of which were in car accidents: David Moore, Cairo, car accident; Susan Moore, Cairo, car accident; George Askew, Memphis, car accident; Ross Toedte, Nashville, cut face, George Moore, car accident, Carol Ann Moore, Cairo, car accident; Bobby Autry, Ballwin, stepped on rusty nail; and Victor Lacour, McHenry, Ky., cut leg.

Explosions Jar Chicago's West Side

CHICAGO AP -- Two more explosions tore through the Chicago darkness early today. The latest blasts came shortly before 3 a.m. in the West Side parking lot of an ice cream firm. No one was injured.

The explosions ripped apart three ice cream trucks. Police said the blasts blew out windows in nearby buildings.

A total of five mysterious explosions have occurred in the Chicago area since Wednesday. Three of the blasts rocked the downtown section of the city.

Police said that the explosives used in the latest blasts were rigged to the bumpers of the ice cream trucks.

The third bomb blast occurred late Sunday night in downtown Chicago. No injuries were reported in that blast.

Police said Sunday night's explosion occurred under a car belonging to an employe of the Chicago Tribune. Three cars were damaged by the explosion and dozens of windows were blown out in the nearby Wrigley Building in the northern downtown section near the Chicago River.

This Burro Really Carried A Torch

RENO, Nev. AP -- A small grass fire was just about mopped up at a sheep ranch near Reno Sunday when a spark fell on a small burro.

Startled, he dashed off and ran straight into a patch of flaming grass where the pack on his back caught fire.

He then headed for the hills, spreading fire and smoke through heavy brush and grass already tinder -- dry under the noon-day sun.

The fire he set was contained five hours later by 60 men helped by three aircraft after burning over 150 acres.

The burro was found about the same time, tired but unharmed except that the pack had been burned off his back.

Carriers Compete for Trip to Cardinal Game

Ten Daily Standard carriers will be awarded an all-expense trip to see the St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers play at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, Sept. 19.

There will be 24 other awards given the carriers, who will be rewarded even if they cannot be among the top ten.

Salesmanship by the boys and cooperation by residents of the four-county area of Scott, New Madrid, Mississippi and Stoddard counties will help these boys reach their goal when they subscribe to the Daily Standard.

The ten-week sales campaign opened Saturday. Each of 71 carrier boys, regardless of where they live, have an equal opportunity to be among the winners.

Thirty-four boys will win a prize. Besides the 10 free trips to the ball game, 12 will receive a 11-way knife and 12 will receive a pair of sweep-around sun glasses.

Points will be awarded to the boys: 100 points for a three-month subscription, 200 points for six months, and 300 for a one year subscription. All accounts must be paid, with

Delta Boy Drowns In Chaffee

CHAFFEE -- Jessie James, 13-year-old Delta boy, drowned in the public swimming pool yesterday at 2:30 p.m.

Scott County Coroner Clyde Poe called the drowning accidental and that no inquest would be held. He reported that Dr. W. O. Finney examined the body and investigated.

The fire department brought a resuscitator to the pool but failed to revive the boy.

His body was found by Jim Ballard of Chaffee, a fellow swimmer, in 11 feet of water, the deepest part in the pool. Two lifeguards were on duty.

Ballard dived off of the diving board and saw the body lying on the drain. The length of time that the body had been there has not been determined.

The boy could not swim. It was not determined how he got into the deep end of the pool, which is separated from the shallow water by a rope.

He went to the pool once each week.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletis James. He is survived by the parents and four brothers; Delbert and Joe, Gary of Chaffee, and Larry of St. Louis; and one sister, Kay.

Services will be held in Delta Wednesday at two p.m. Burial will follow in the Morgan Memorial Park Cemetery at Advance.

Recover Bodies of Eight

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Ten men were rescued and eight bodies recovered today from the 19-man crew of a U.S. Air Force plane down in the North Atlantic.

The Coast Guard said one member of the crew was missing.

A spokesman at Coast Guard headquarters in Boston said flares have been sighted which may be from the missing crewman.

The rescued men were taken aboard U.S. and German destroyers in the vicinity of the crash 145 miles northeast of Nantucket.

The four engine propellor driven plane ditched in the fog-shrounded sea late Sunday night. It was on duty as an early warning radar plane.

The bodies were reported aboard the U.S. destroyer Barry out of Newport, R.I. Three survivors also were aboard the Barry.

Helicopters from the U.S. carrier Wasp, on maneuvers in the area along with the German navy vessels, picked up most of the crewmen and deposited them on board one of the German ships.

At least two men were picked up by small boats.

Names of the survivors and other crewmen were not immediately available.

The rescues were undertaken despite a fog which limited visibility to from 50 to 100 yards. The seas were reported as moderate, yet too rough for a sea plane to land.

The German vessels, operating on maneuvers with the USS Wasp, are the former American destroyers USS Anthony, USS Ringgold and the USS Wadsworth.

The men were put aboard the vessel formerly known as the Anthony and now carrying the name Blotter.

Ouster Move Puts King on Spot

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Premier George Papandreou formally moved today to oust defense minister Peter Garoufalias. The action put King Constantine on a political spot.

A spokesman for Papandreou said his cabinet was fully behind him in demanding the resignation of Garoufalias, who is reported to have been backed by the young king. The defense minister has opposed Papandreou's announced intention of purging the army of officers who have been dabbing in politics.

Cyclist Thrown Off, Dies

A motorcyclist was thrown from his vehicle and killed instantly Sunday at 2:05 p.m. on highway 61, three miles north of Fruitland.

The victim was Troy Patton, 19, Wood River, riding a new Harley Davidson, the highway patrol reported. He was knocked off his vehicle by a 1964 Oldsmobile, driven by Thomas Spado, 54, Chicago.

Patton attempted to pass a car when he was struck and thrown to the side of the highway.

Patton was being followed by a 1955 Muercury, driven by his twin brother Roy Patton, Bethalto, Ill., and accompanied by Troy Patton's wife and daughter. The Mercury ran over the motorcycle before it was able to stop.

Joe Bullock, 58, Williamsville, died Saturday in the Doctor's Hospital, Poplar Bluff, as the result of an accident June 25 on highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Charles Harnetz, 21, St. Louis, when the car went out of control on a curve and turned over. Bullock's right arm was mangled. He died from a tetanus infection.

In an accident two miles south of Morley on Highway 61 at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Dollie Graham, 39, Sikeston, slowed down to make a left turn, and was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Hudson Askew, 40, St. Louis. George Askew, 34, Memphis, Tenn., a passenger in the St. Louis car received mouth cuts and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Hudson Askew was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Three persons were injured in an accident a half mile east of Sikeston, Sunday at 10:35 a.m. on highway 60. A 1965 Chrysler, driven by Donald Hoperaft, 63, Memphis, Tenn., was struck by a 1958 Ford driven by George Moore, 24, Cairo, Ill. The Moore car made a left turn on the median at the crossway and struck the Chrysler in the left rear.

The Ford turned over twice. The driver, George Moore, was cut on the chin and bruised. His wife Susan, 22, and their daughter, Carol Ann, 3, were cut on the head.

They were taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Moore will be arrested for careless and reckless driving, the patrol said.

Infantrymen Begin Landing In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- The first large force of U. S. combat infantrymen -- 3,900 men of the 1st Infantry Division -- began landing in Viet Nam today.

The first 1,000 men of "Big Red One," as the division was known in World War II, landed at strategic Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, and dug in on the sand dunes.

The remainder of the famed division's 2nd Bragade will land elsewhere in Viet Nam Tuesday, a U. S. spokesman said.

The landings will bring the total of U. S. troops in Viet Nam to 71,000.

The brigade commander, Col. James Simmons, said the first mission of his troops will be to protect the U. S. Army's

Rabbit Raising Multiplies Rapidly in Sikeston Area

FOUR BREEDS of rabbits are held by Derris Gray, 127 N. Handy St. From left are the Blue Checkered Giant, Tortoise Dutch, Palomino and the Harlequim.

THE CHECKERED GIANT, left, and the New Zealand White, are two rabbit varieties raised by Frank Hughes, shown, at the Labor Rest Camp, east of Sikeston.

By Leo Schade

Rabbit production is a rapidly multiplying hobby in the Sikeston area.

Two men devoted to it are Frank Hughes, route two, and Derris Gray, 127 North Handy St. Their wives assist them.

Hughes is in charge of the Labor Day rest camp for migrant workers. He finds satisfaction in the escape from his daily human relation problems that the hobby provides. "I find these pets a great source of satisfaction in my spare time. There is never a dull moment."

"Some people like golf, others take up other hobbies, but I found rabbit raising a great sport, and I make more out of it than I spend on it," Gray said.

Both men have sold and given away hundreds of rabbits for food as well as for children's pets.

The smallest full size rabbit weigh less than a pound. The largest is the Flemish Giant, which reaches a weight of 23 pounds. Whether it is for a lucky rabbit's foot, pets or food, the rabbit population is in the millions. The largest producer in the nation lives in Los Angeles county in California, producing 7 million pounds annually.

Domesticated rabbits have never been known to carry rabbit fever. The department of agriculture says that the rabbit is the best source of protein of any animal except the guinea hen and squab. The protein content is 20.8 per cent, fat 10.2 per cent, moisture 27 per cent and the least calories per pound of 795, compared with pork of 11.9 per cent protein, 45.0 per cent fat, 42 per cent moisture and 2,050 calories.

Each rabbit pays a profit of from $5 to $15. Each doe will produce five times its weight in litters during its life span. Care and food are nominal.

To give a person full time employment, there must be 600 or more rabbits.

Rabbit is all white meat. The rabbit has the distinction of producing all the mucilage used on the U. S. postage stamp. Most felt hats are made from rabbit fur. The rabbit foot is a good luck charm.

What hobby can produce a larger variety of uses?

There are 50 different breeds. Seven originated in the United States. Rabbit is the most universal commercial food used in 30 nations.

July 18 - 24 is National Rabbit Week. It will be recognized by thousands of small and large raisers.

Hughes began his hobby with Checkered Giants and New Zealand White about five years ago. He now has more than 85 in his pens, ranging from seven to 11 pounds each.

Gray began his hobby in 1949 when he lived in Blodgett. He has 100 rabbits with four breeds -- Blue Checkered Giants, Tortoise Dutch, Palomino and the Harlequim.

Rusk Calls for U.S. And Japanese Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk opened the fourth U.S. - Japan joint cabinet committee conference to day with a call for increased economic efforts by the two countries in Southeast Asia.

He told the seven Japanese cabinet officers and their American counterparts that the two countries share a particular interest in Southeast Asia where freedom is threatened by aggressive neighbors.

In response, Japan's foreign minister, Etsusaburo Shiina, said Japan has been taking "increased responsibility in the sphere of international economy and in particular to our Asian neighbors."

Shiina said that the progress already made in Japan-U.S. cooperative ties "will lose its firm basis unless it is accompanied by constant and strenuous efforts to bring about appropriate solutions to each and evey one as such problems that may arise between our two countries."

Rusk said that wide variety of difficult problems could be expected from competition that develops between vigorous trading nations.

"As old problems are solved new ones emerge," he said.

But Rusk said that the United States and Japan must not let economic problems obscure the broader concern both countries share in the welfare of other countries of the world particularly in Asia.

Eight Treated

Eight persons were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday — five of which were in car accidents: David Moore, Cairo, car accident; Susan Moore, Cairo, car accident; George Askew, Memphis, car accident; Ross Toedte, Nashville, cut face, George Moore, car accident, Carol Ann Moore, Cairo, car accident; Bobby Autry, Ballwin, stepped on rusty nail; and Victor Lacour, McHenry, Ky., cut leg.

Explosions Jar Chicago's West Side

CHICAGO AP -- Two more explosions tore through the Chicago darkness early today. The latest blasts came shortly before 3 a.m. in the West Side parking lot of an ice cream firm. No one was injured.

The explosions ripped apart three ice cream trucks. Police said the blasts blew out windows in nearby buildings.

A total of five mysterious explosions have occurred in the Chicago area since Wednesday. Three of the blasts rocked the downtown section of the city.

Police said that the explosives used in the latest blasts were rigged to the bumpers of the ice cream trucks.

The third bomb blast occurred late Sunday night in downtown Chicago. No injuries were reported in that blast.

Police said Sunday night's explosion occurred under a car belonging to an employe of the Chicago Tribune. Three cars were damaged by the explosion and dozens of windows were blown out in the nearby Wrigley Building in the northern downtown section near the Chicago River.

This Burro Really Carried A Torch

RENO, Nev. AP -- A small grass fire was just about mopped up at a sheep ranch near Reno Sunday when a spark fell on a small burro.

Startled, he dashed off and ran straight into a patch of flaming grass where the pack on his back caught fire.

He then headed for the hills, spreading fire and smoke through heavy brush and grass already tinder -- dry under the noon-day sun.

The fire he set was contained five hours later by 60 men helped by three aircraft after burning over 150 acres.

The burro was found about the same time, tired but unharmed except that the pack had been burned off his back.

Carriers Compete for Trip to Cardinal Game

Ten Daily Standard carriers will be awarded an all-expense trip to see the St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers play at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, Sept. 19.

There will be 24 other awards given the carriers, who will be rewarded even if they cannot be among the top ten.

Salesmanship by the boys and cooperation by residents of the four-county area of Scott, New Madrid, Mississippi and Stoddard counties will help these boys reach their goal when they subscribe to the Daily Standard.

The ten-week sales campaign opened Saturday. Each of 71 carrier boys, regardless of where they live, have an equal opportunity to be among the winners.

Thirty-four boys will win a prize. Besides the 10 free trips to the ball game, 12 will receive a 11-way knife and 12 will receive a pair of sweep-around sun glasses.

Points will be awarded to the boys: 100 points for a three-month subscription, 200 points for six months, and 300 for a one year subscription. All accounts must be paid, with

Delta Boy Drowns In Chaffee

CHAFFEE -- Jessie James, 13-year-old Delta boy, drowned in the public swimming pool yesterday at 2:30 p.m.

Scott County Coroner Clyde Poe called the drowning accidental and that no inquest would be held. He reported that Dr. W. O. Finney examined the body and investigated.

The fire department brought a resuscitator to the pool but failed to revive the boy.

His body was found by Jim Ballard of Chaffee, a fellow swimmer, in 11 feet of water, the deepest part in the pool. Two lifeguards were on duty.

Ballard dived off of the diving board and saw the body lying on the drain. The length of time that the body had been there has not been determined.

The boy could not swim. It was not determined how he got into the deep end of the pool, which is separated from the shallow water by a rope.

He went to the pool once each week.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletis James. He is survived by the parents and four brothers; Delbert and Joe, Gary of Chaffee, and Larry of St. Louis; and one sister, Kay.

Services will be held in Delta Wednesday at two p.m. Burial will follow in the Morgan Memorial Park Cemetery at Advance.

Recover Bodies of Eight

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Ten men were rescued and eight bodies recovered today from the 19-man crew of a U.S. Air Force plane down in the North Atlantic.

The Coast Guard said one member of the crew was missing.

A spokesman at Coast Guard headquarters in Boston said flares have been sighted which may be from the missing crewman.

The rescued men were taken aboard U.S. and German destroyers in the vicinity of the crash 145 miles northeast of Nantucket.

The four engine propellor driven plane ditched in the fog-shrounded sea late Sunday night. It was on duty as an early warning radar plane.

The bodies were reported aboard the U.S. destroyer Barry out of Newport, R.I. Three survivors also were aboard the Barry.

Helicopters from the U.S. carrier Wasp, on maneuvers in the area along with the German navy vessels, picked up most of the crewmen and deposited them on board one of the German ships.

At least two men were picked up by small boats.

Names of the survivors and other crewmen were not immediately available.

The rescues were undertaken despite a fog which limited visibility to from 50 to 100 yards. The seas were reported as moderate, yet too rough for a sea plane to land.

The German vessels, operating on maneuvers with the USS Wasp, are the former American destroyers USS Anthony, USS Ringgold and the USS Wadsworth.

The men were put aboard the vessel formerly known as the Anthony and now carrying the name Blotter.

Infantry men Begin Landing In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- The first large force of U. S. combat infantrymen -- 3,900 men of the 1st Infantry Division -- began landing in Viet Nam today.

The first 1,000 men of "Big Red One," as the division was known in World War II, landed at strategic Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, and dug in on the sand dunes.

The remainder of the famed division's 2nd Bragade will land elsewhere in Viet Nam Tuesday, a U. S. spokesman said.

The landings will bring the total of U. S. troops in Viet Nam to 71,000.

The brigade commander, Col. James Simmons, said the first mission of his troops will be to protect the U. S. Army's

Cyclist Thrown Off, Dies

A motorcyclist was thrown from his vehicle and killed instantly Sunday at 2:05 p.m. on highway 61, three miles north of Fruitland.

The victim was Troy Patton, 19, Wood River, riding a new Harley Davidson, the highway patrol reported. He was knocked off his vehicle by a 1964 Oldsmobile, driven by Thomas Spado, 54, Chicago.

Patton attempted to pass a car when he was struck and thrown to the side of the highway.

Patton was being followed by a 1955 Muercury, driven by his twin brother Roy Patton, Bethalto, Ill., and accompanied by Troy Patton's wife and daughter. The Mercury ran over the motorcycle before it was able to stop.

Joe Bullock, 58, Williamsville, died Saturday in the Doctor's Hospital, Poplar Bluff, as the result of an accident June 25 on highway 67, 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Charles Harnetz, 21, St. Louis, when the car went out of control on a curve and turned over. Bullock's right arm was mangled. He died from a tetanus infection.

In an accident two miles south of Morley on Highway 61 at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Dollie Graham, 39, Sikeston, slowed down to make a left turn, and was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Hudson Askew, 40, St. Louis. George Askew, 34, Memphis, Tenn., a passenger in the St. Louis car received mouth cuts and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Hudson Askew was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Three persons were injured in an accident a half mile east of Sikeston, Sunday at 10:35 a.m. on highway 60. A 1965 Chrysler, driven by Donald Hoperaft, 63, Memphis, Tenn., was struck by a 1958 Ford driven by George Moore, 24, Cairo, Ill. The Moore car made a left turn on the median at the crossway and struck the Chrysler in the left rear.

The Ford turned over twice. The driver, George Moore, was cut on the chin and bruised. His wife Susan, 22, and their daughter, Carol Ann, 3, were cut on the head.

They were taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Moore will be arrested for careless and reckless driving, the patrol said.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, July 12 Isadore Bearing invents bearing bearing his name.

* * *

George E. Reedy, whose performance as White House Press secretary has been below par, is entitled to a sympathetic and understanding public attitude not for a job well done but because his feet hurt.

He is taking a leave of absence which the White House press corps believes and hopes will be permanent.

The trouble with Reedy is that he never knew much to tell reporters and a man who can't be helpful in that position is not useful and a time waster. Often he wasn't aware of developing news and did not know how to find out about it. He was not a close associate of President Lyndon B. Johnson as he must be to be effective.

Reedy brought a lot of newspaper experience to the job. It was never allowed to show. He may have done just the kind of job that President Johnson wanted but it hasn't helped the President's image. The results are negligible. The ignorance he displayed so consistently about what was going on also may have been the President's fault.

Johnson has his own peculiar ideas about controlling and slanting news with a blend of extreme secretiveness and disclosure.

The vain, egotistical man, who is sensitive beyond belief to the slightest criticism, has mostly doubled as his own press secretary, personally announcing most important as well as secondary news.

It is well known that the President is not an easy man to work for. He drives his staff hard and demeans them. He is not consistently a reasonable boss but he is at times sympathetic and understanding.

Johnson's crude frontier type personality is coming more into the public view and the American people don't like what they see.

This is no criticism of his policies.

Tom Wicker of the New York Times describes him as "irascible, moody, high-handed, peeved at his critics and generally hard to live with."

A Wall Street Journal reporter notes that those who know him "are increasingly uneasy, unhappy and uncharitable about him" and reports that "he drives people too hard, is too high-handed and arrogant, doesn't really want argument and an independent point of view; that he is too preoccupied with his popular image, is too sensitive to criticism, spends too much time answering attacks he should ignore; that when things go truly wrong, he frequently turns nasty."

Reedy had 16 months with the White House press. It is reasonable to assume that the super-sensitive egotistical President Johnson made his life a hell on earth. From him the American people didn't learn much.

There is no doubt that Reedy, who suffers from hammer toes, suffers discomfort in his feet but if his lower extremities ache worse than his poor head the pain must indeed be something awful.

A SECOND TERM?

On Aug. 17, Missouri voters will have an opportunity to take a big step in modernizing their state's government. Then along with at least two others, an amendment will be submitted to the people which, if passed, will enable Missouri's governors to serve two full successive terms.

Logic and common sense argue the case for this amendment, but history and tradition warn against over-optimism for it.

Simply stated, here are the reasons why this newspaper feels Missouri voters should approve the amendment:

Normally Missouri governors go into office entirely without the experience and knowledge requisite to its most competent and efficient fulfillment. It requires months, even a year or two, for a governor to familiarize himself with the tasks he faces and how best to accomplish them.

On the other hand, a Missouri governor takes office just after a new legislature has convened, at the very moment his greatest political skill and acumen are most needed. By the time the new governor has established himself firmly, the legislature has adjourned and gone home.

Nor is that all. When the next legislature meets, two years later, the governor is in the position of a "lame duck" whom legislators can ignore and defy almost with impunity, knowing full well that he is in the waning days of the top executive post to which he cannot be reelected.

Many times in Missouri's history, this has worked to a marked disadvantage, not only to the governor but to the people and the state. Because of this, far more often than most people realize, the executive department of government is actually denied the power balance it theoretically shares and should have with the legislative branch.

Missouri governors have realized this, and every one since Guy Park has urged the change now being proposed. More than that, G O P candidate Ethan Shepley campaigned last fall on a pledge to seek amendment of the gubernatorial succession law, as did his opponent, Gov. Hearnes.

Historically, the American people have opposed two terms for their governors and with what, in the beginning, was good reason. In colonial times, governors built up powers which made them difficult or impossible to dislodge, if left long in office, and when the new republic was established, there was a grim determination to prevent such abuses in the future.

But the power and the confidence of the voters have grown and, one by one, the people have dropped the bars to gubernatorial succession until 35 states now permit it, some with absolutely no limitation.

Nearly a hundred years ago, Missouri, too, changed its constitutional bar to succession, and limited governors' terms to two years. But the change lasted less than a decade, and the bar was raised once more.

In almost everything else, experience is rewarded. Experience and long tenure are distinct advantages in the business and industrial world and in the professions. Almost any employe's worth to his employer grows with every day of added experience.

But what we approve and reward in all other walks of life, we deplore and deny to our state's governors.

Now does that make sense?

PRESIDENT LYNDON JOHNSON ENDORSES RURAL CAMPAIGN

July 10-25 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Co-sponsors for the 22nd annual rural safety campaign are the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Special emphasis this year is being given to preventing accidents involving slow-moving vehicles, chemicals, and electricity and in recreation.

The President urges that vigorous new efforts be made to eradicate hazards and rectify unsafe practices which cause farm and rural accidents.

"Progress toward this objective should be the goal of National Farm Safety Week 1965," he said.

The latest yearly breakdown of farm resident accidents shows a total of 8,400 deaths and 780,000 injuries. Of the deaths, 3,600 were motor-vehicle, 2,000 were in the home, 2,600 were work accidents and 800 resulted from non-motor vehicle accidents.

"Rural leaders and farm families are making a joint effort to reduce accidents" says Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

"Today's farm family can prepare itself for accident prevention by eliminating hazards and making skillful use of modern farming equipment and production aids."

It is no overstatement to say that the several states of the Union have not exactly rushed to comply with the Supreme Court's ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be reapportioned on a population basis.

Now from Illinois, a state where the legislative deadlock forced the at-large election of the entire lower house in 1964, a political scientist suggests that a computer could solve the problem to the satisfaction not only of the court but of the politicians, the people and a state's treasury.

According to Prof. Stuart S. Nagel, of the University of Illinois, the 90 counties of Illinois could be redistricted in just 81 seconds at a cost of only $5.63 for computer operating time, using data available from the U.S. Census Bureau on magnetic tape costing $112.

This is far less than non-computer methods. New York, for instance, spent $100,000 on redistricting.

Perhaps an even more persuasive argument for legislators of whatever political affiliation is that a computer would help them realize the maximum benefit from redistricting. By punching certain numbers on IBM cards, says Nagel, each party could see the maximum number of seats it could obtain and then compromise between the extremes.

Politics is supposed to be, after all, the art of compromise. If computers can enhance the practice of that art, the idea might well be looked into.

Hair on the face is admired by only about half the people of the world--that half belonging to races whose males can grow beards. The other half, whose males can't, consider facial hair shameful. The two points of view can take extreme forms. In Anglo-Saxon times, breaking a man's thigh brought a fine of 12 shillings whereas cutting off his beard cost 20. On the other hand, in Paraguay today, beardless Indians pluck any stray chin hairs and go on to pull out their eyebrows and eyelashes, saying that they do not wish to resemble horses.

CREATIVE FIRE

Whether a fighter is landing a knockout blow, a golfer is socking a ball 250 yards, a sprinter is dashing away at the crack of a gun, or a writer is putting down words that will excite and awaken his readers, I maintain that at the point of impact there must be intensity. In sports and in writing we must get charged up. We must go all out. We must put pressure on ourselves to surpass ourselves. This is the energy of the spirit that makes champions.

Between times there should be complete relaxation. But only as an army retreats to renew its resources and prepare for another charge.

Jack London who made his mark as a writer put it this way: "I would rather be ashes than dust! I would rather that my spark would burn out in a brilliant blaze than that it should be stifled by dry-rot. I would rather be a superb meteor, every atom of me in a magnificent glow, than a sleepy and permanent planet. The proper function of man is to live, not to exist. I shall not waste my days trying to prolong them. I shall use my time."

H. L. Hunt Says

HEALTH PLAN--
RUSSIAN STYLE

Those who advocate that Americans emulate the Soviet system of health care should be interested in the following words from the "worker's paradise".

Izvestia, the Moscow newspaper, recently reported receipt of a letter from a lady pleading, "Help me to see!" The woman had undergone a successful cataract removal, but needed special glasses.

For more than a month, Izvestia noted, "the optical production section of the Pharmaceutical Administration of the Executive Committee of the Moscow City Society of Working People's Deputies" had been reporting that the lady's order was "being filled."

Then Izvestia editorialized: "Buying prescription lenses is a problem for thousands of our people. Dozens of organizations are involved in making them, not one of which is fully responsible. The crux of the matter is that there is no single responsible bureau. The Central Administration for Medical Equipment in the Ministry of Health of the U. S. S. R. plans the production of lenses and frames for the whole nation, and regional economic councils 'adapt' this plan to local needs.

There are four semi-domestic enterprises in the Russian Republic capable of making prescription lenses. But A. M. Yevgenyev, chief of one of them, is nagged by hundreds of telephone calls and letters from indignant customers. But he cannot help his patients: his shops, which have to serve almost the entire country, can't even meet Moscow's demand. On March 11 they refused to accept new orders so as to 'digest' those already in hand. It is intolerable that there isn't a single optical shop in 29 regional and district centers of the Russian Republic. People have to travel hundreds of miles to the capital to order eyeglasses."

This is government "care" in action at its extreme. HLH

We all know the publicans cooked their goose by runnin on a war ticket. An the dimmercrats won by a landslide runnin on a peace ticket. Then plunged us into a land war in Asia 9000 miles frum home before the ink got dry on the ballots. That cooked their goose too, an how. An nother thing if the 18 to 21 year olds is too young to vote an drink they is too young to be sent off to war to be killed lessen they volunteers. They is either a man or they aint a man. If they is a man let them enjoy all the privilages of a man.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- When the average citizen sits in the Senate Gallery watching a debate or reads the record of that debate later, he can't always tell what's happening. This is because some things go on behind the scenes, also because Senators have a right to edit the Congressional record before it's printed.

No Senate vote was more important to the public than that when a majority voted, in effect, not to let the government have the right to keep new drug patents developed with the total of $15 billion of taxpayers' money plowed into research each year on medicine, cancer cures, heart remedies, together with inventions for space and national defense.

Every year, the taxpayers shell out $15 billion for research. But if a private company using this money comes up with a phenomenal cure for cancer, the Senate voted, in effect, then the taxpayers don't get the benefit of that cure without paying for it. The profit will go to one of the big drug companies. This leaves the public paying twice: Once for the research; Then for getting the benefits of the research.

What the public didn't know when this vote was taken was that Dr. David C. Beckler, Assistant to the President's Science Director, sat in the Senate Gallery. After the vote was taken he smiled like a Cheshire cat.

What the public also didn't know was that a White House Assistant, Mike Manitos, put in telephone calls to key Senators uring them to vote against the taxpayers and for the drug companies.

Manitos made the mistake of phoning Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas, who told his fellow Democrat, Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, about the White House opposition. Long, the Democratic Whip, was the author of the amendment whereby patents for new medical discoveries would remain with the government.

FOOLING THE PUBLIC

Leading the fight for the White House and the drug companies was Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island, first Italian - American ever to serve in the Senate. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic Leader, usually on the side of the White House, this time was against it and on the pro-Public side. The issue was whether to table the long amendment protecting the public on patents.

When the roll was called, every Republican except Hiram Fong, the Chinese - American from Hawaii, voted with the Drug companies. Long's amendment was side-tracked, in effect defeated.

Immediately Pastore rose to explain his own motion to table.

"If I were placed in the position of having to vote on the merits of the amendment, I should have voted in the affirmative," he said. "I am for the consumer. I voted for the Natural Gas Bill; I voted to cut down the Oil Depletion allowance. I believe in protecting the rights of the consumer."

Then he went on to explain that this was a matter of procedure, and he wanted the drug patents amendment to go to Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas, chairman of the Patents Committee, for study.

Real fact, however, is that McClellan has been studying this patent question for four years, and his committee is considered the graveyard of any attempt to protect the public. The Senator from Arkansas was a consistent opponent of the late Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in his battle to protect the public on medical patents. McClellan is still a blocker.

THE ROLL CALL

Many Senators were nervous about siding with the big drug companies in this debate. But they can now alibi that they were voting for "Further Study." When you write your Senator as to why he voted for the drug companies, that's the reply you will receive.

In addition to an almost unanimous Republican vote for the drug companies, the following Democrats also lined up against giving the taxpayers the benefit of the research they are paying for:

Bayh, Ind.; Eastland, Miss.; Ervin and Jordan, N. C.; Fulbright and McClellan, Ark.; Hayden, Ariz.; Hill and Sparkman, Ala.; Holland, Fla.; Inouye, Hawaii; Jackson and Magnuson, Wash.; Kennedy, Mass.; Kennedy, N. Y.; Lausche, Ohio; McCarthy and Mondale, Minn.; Monroney, Okla.; Pastore and Pell, R. I.; Robertson, Va.; Russell, S. C.; Russell, Ga.; Stennis, Miss.; Symington, Mo.; Williams, N.J.

STRANGE REVERSAL

Under orders from the White House, the Justice Department is doing an amazing switch on patents developed by government funds.

On March 7, 1963, Nick Katzenbach, then Deputy Attorney General, testified before the Senate Small Business Subcommittee on Monopolies, as follows:

"The Department of Justice has frequently stated that when inventions are produced as a result of government expenditure, it is generally undesirable to permit the developing contractors to exclude others from the use of such inventions.

"This is particularly true in cases where research itself is aimed at developing commercial products to promote public health, public safety or increased productivity.

"But beyond these obvious examples, we believe that the government should generally retain title to inventions produced as a result of governmental contract, and rarely, if ever, should the government agree in advance of the time when the invention is known and produced, for title to be given to the contractor."

Mr. Katzenbach, now Attorney General, is now sending a statement to the McClellan Committee -- under instruction -- reversing his own previous position.

UNITED MILITARISTS

The "United Army" recently announced by four Central American Governments, for the avowed purpose of combatting Communist subversion and terrorism collectively, also has the aim of tightening military control over that area.

Two of the countries involved, Guatemala and Honduras, are now ruled by armed forces Juntas that overthrew elected governments. President Rene Schick of Nicaragua is a hand-picked henchman of the Somoza boys, Luis and Tachito, who still head that country's tough National Guard.

Their father, Gen. Anastasio (Tacho) Somoza, ran Nicaragua as his private Fief for 30 years, until an assassin's bullets cut him down in 1956.

El Salvador, fourth member of the new combine, also has a military man, Col. Jorge Rivero, as President. Rivero was voted into office--without opposition -- and has worked hard, with considerable success, to break the feudal stranglehold which the notorious "14 Families" had on his countrymen for more than a century.

But the big, bouncy Colonel is getting to like the feel of power and shows no signs of giving up in the near future. The brass hats holding the reins in Honduras and Guatemala know that free, honest elections would be won, respectively, by the Liberal party of former President Ramon Villeda, whom they ousted early last year, and Guatemala's ex-Chief Executive, Juan Jose Arevalo, who calls himself a "Spiritual Socialist."

By claiming that these men and their followers are "Soft on Communism," the Juntas have an excuse to put off ballot'ing indefinitely and entrench themselves as rulers. And under the new agreement, the Somozas can go on running Nicaragua as long as they please.

Note -- Significantly, Costa Rica and Panama, each of which has a duly elected President and Congress, were urged by their neighbors to join the "United Front," but both turned it down.

CAM RANH BAY, South Viet Nam AP -- This little far off war is becoming bigger every day.

One sign that the United States is preparing for a long campaign is the chain of bases it is building along South Viet Nam's lengthy east coast.

The bases range from Vung Tau, near Saigon, to Da Nang, 380 miles to the northeast.

Such giant nests of power are not the product of an idle hour, nor are they stopgap improvisations. They take months to plan, months to complete.

They take the work of hundreds of machines, thousands of men, and millions of pounds of fuel and supplies.

The latest of this chain of bases is at this deep water bay slightly more than a third of the distance from Saigon to Da Nang. It can harbor some of the world's largest ships.

"It could become bigger than Saigon," said Lt. Samuel I. Eskenazi, 23, Seattle, Wash., platoon leader of an Army landing craft company.

The pier has a 100-ton floating crane. Seven weather-yellowed French buildings house units of the Vietnamese junk navy.

"Both the Japanese and the French recognized the strategic position of the port," said Capt. Lindbergh Jones, 37, Leesville, La. "The Japanese built fortifications and ammo dumps during the second World War, and this is one of the last places the French pulled out of after the battle of Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

"We're building standard port and depot facilities and cantonment areas for logistic troops, and an Army airfield."

A look at the map shows why the base site attracted Army strategists. The peninsula dangles in the sea like a wavy finger 22 miles southeast of Nha Trang, a popular coastal resort.

Surrounded on three sides by water, its narrow neck could be easily defended in case of trouble in the midpart of the country. Equally well, it could serve as a major marshalling point by the U. S. Army in launching an attack in the central area.

The Army is building a new 4,500 - foot airstrip and lengthening a small one left by the French. In addition, if needed, there is plenty of room for another major airfield -- if the U. S. Air Force finds it requires one here.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

'Mr. Labor' Reveals Why American Labor Backs Stiff Fight Against World Communism

America's Mr. Labor--George Meany -- has for months been in the hustings taking issue with the academic critics of U. S. policy in Viet Nam and Santo Domingo. He is considered by many to be one of the world's ablest statesmen. Thus he has been under constant attack by Sino-Soviet-Cuban propagandists abroad and by many circles at home. I asked him why his labor federation takes the world position it does. Here is his reply:

By George Meany
President, AFL-CIO

Washington, D. C.: The booing and the brawls on a college campus here and there cannot hide the fact that the American people, in their vast majority, support President Johnson in his determined effort to have our country meet its international responsibilities.

American labor takes pride in the consistent, unequivocal and vigorous support which it has given to the President's basically sound foreign policies --particularly in his course towards the Viet Nam and Santo Domingo crises. We have done so out of our own experience and conviction. We realize what is at stake in these bitter tests of will and strength and we know the nature, aims, and methods of Communism.

The membership and leadership of the AFL-CIO have a deep sense of responsibility as citizens and as trade unionists. American labor has demonstrated this responsibility through its active efforts to help make our country's foreign policy democratic and ever more effective.

What is more, it has been tireless in carrying the message of freedom to the workers of every continent, creed, and color. American labor has combined words with deeds by helping these workers organize themselves into free trade unions capable of providing sound and strong forces for the promotion of human dignity, democracy and social justice in their respective countries.

On the occasion of the last Lincoln's birthday luncheon at the White House, President Johnson very appropriately remarked that "history and our own achievements have. . . thrust upon us the principal responsibility for the protection of freedom on earth. . .No other people in no other time has had so great an opportunity to work and risk for the peace and the freedom of all mankind."

Organized labor in the United States has always known that its very existence depends on democracy. American labor has secured great social, economic, and political achievements through devotion to and reliance on the democratic processes. Thanks, in no small measure to American labor's all - out support of democracy against Fascism, Nazism, Falangism, Peronism, Communism, and every other type of tyranny, the workers of many other lands are increasingly turning away from totalitarian movements and rallying to the cause of freedom.

What is this freedom that is so vital to our survival as citizens of a democracy and as trade unionists? To the AFL-CIO, freedom is more than a multiple-party system with free and secret universal suffrage for men and women of every race, color, religion, and national origin. In the philosophy of American labor, freedom is a way of life.

Experience has taught that any movement which opposes freedom of association, conscience and worship, any government which denies its people these basic human rights, any regime which prohibits free trade unions is hopelessly reactionary--regardless of how radical it may pretend to be or how revolutionary its slogans may sound.

The Communist movement, Communist regimes, and those who knowingly support them are really ultra-reactionary. They are the worst enemies of freedom and social justice.

No liberal can be loyal to his ideals and truly effective unless he is in the front ranks of the fight against Communism and all other reactionary forces. That is why the AFL-CIO has never been neutral in the struggle between human freedom and tyranny--regardless of how far "left" the propagandists and supporters of dictatorship may claim to be.

American labor is anti-totalitarian and not non-totalitarian. American labor is opposed to totalitarianism whether its "ism" be Communist, Fascist, or Nazi. American labor is not somewhere in between, but fully on the side of democracy in its historic struggle against dictatorship.

And when we work and fight for freedom, we work and fight for freedom for all the people and not only for labor. American labor knows very well that it cannot enjoy democracy for itself and then deny it to others.

Even those who have never been allowed to taste freedom, even those who have been subjected to indoctrination in the dogmas of dictatorship, yearn for freedom and fight for it in the face of severest hardships and dangers. This accounts for much of the spreading disenchantment with Communism especially among young people and intellectuals behind the Iron Curtain. Here is the reason why there are so many young men and women among those who risk their lives to flee from the yoke of dictatorship to countries where the people enjoy freedom.

Our university professors and students would serve their country and profession with frutiful distinction if they were to study this historic development and become not only academic but dynamic fighters against the Communist drive to dominate the world and impose on all mankind the Soviet system of tyranny.

George E. Reedy, whose performance as White House Press secretary has been below par, is entitled to a sympathetic and understanding public attitude not for a job well done but because his feet hurt.

He is taking a leave of absence which the White House press corps believes and hopes will be permanent.

The trouble with Reedy is that he never knew much to tell reporters and a man who can't be helpful in that position is not useful and a time waster. Often he wasn't aware of developing news and did not know how to find out about it. He was not a close associate of President Lyndon B. Johnson as he must be to be effective.

Reedy brought a lot of newspaper experience to the job. It was never allowed to show. He may have done just the kind of job that President Johnson wanted but it hasn't helped the President's image. The results are negligible. The ignorance he displayed so consistently about what was going on also may have been the President's fault.

Johnson has his own peculiar ideas about controlling and slanting news with a blend of extreme secretiveness and disclosure.

The vain, egotistical man, who is sensitive beyond belief to the slightest criticism, has mostly doubled as his own press secretary, personally announcing most important as well as secondary news.

It is well known that the President is not an easy man to work for. He drives his staff hard and demeans them. He is not consistently a reasonable boss but he is at times sympathetic and understanding.

Johnson's crude frontier type personality is coming more into the public view and the American people don't like what they see.

This is no criticism of his policies.

Tom Wicker of the New York Times describes him as "irascible, moody, high-handed, peeved at his critics and generally hard to live with."

A Wall Street Journal reporter notes that those who know him "are increasingly uneasy, unhappy and uncharitable about him" and reports that "he drives people too hard, is too high-handed and arrogant, doesn't really want argument and an independent point of view; that he is too preoccupied with his popular image, is too sensitive to criticism, spends too much time answering attacks he should ignore; that when things go truly wrong, he frequently turns nasty."

Reedy had 16 months with the White House press. It is reasonable to assume that the super-sensitive egotistical President Johnson made his life a hell on earth. From him the American people didn't learn much.

There is no doubt that Reedy, who suffers from hammer toes, suffers discomfort in his feet but if his lower extremities ache worse than his poor head the pain must indeed be something awful.

A SECOND TERM?

On Aug. 17, Missouri voters will have an opportunity to take a big step in modernizing their state's government. Then along with at least two others, an amendment will be submitted to the people which, if passed, will enable Missouri's governors to serve two full successive terms.

Logic and common sense argue the case for this amendment, but history and tradition warn against over-optimism for it.

Simply stated, here are the reasons why this newspaper feels Missouri voters should approve the amendment:

Normally Missouri governors go into office entirely without the experience and knowledge requisite to its most competent and efficient fulfillment. It requires months, even a year or two, for a governor to familiarize himself with the tasks he faces and how best to accomplish them.

On the other hand, a Missouri governor takes office just after a new legislature has convened, at the very moment his greatest political skill and acumen are most needed. By the time the new governor has established himself firmly, the legislature has adjourned and gone home.

Nor is that all. When the next legislature meets, two years later, the governor is in the position of a "lame duck" whom legislators can ignore and defy almost with impunity, knowing full well that he is in the waning days of the top executive post to which he cannot be reelected.

Many times in Missouri's history, this has worked to a marked disadvantage, not only to the governor but to the people and the state. Because of this, far more often than most people realize, the executive department of government is actually denied the power balance it theoretically shares and should have with the legislative branch.

Missouri governors have realized this, and every one since Guy Park has urged the change now being proposed. More than that, G O P candidate Ethan Shepley campaigned last fall on a pledge to seek amendment of the gubernatorial succession law, as did his opponent, Gov. Hearnes.

Historically, the American people have opposed two terms for their governors and with what, in the beginning, was good reason. In colonial times, governors built up powers which made them difficult or impossible to dislodge, if left long in office, and when the new republic was established, there was a grim determination to prevent such abuses in the future.

But the power and the confidence of the voters have grown and, one by one, the people have dropped the bars to gubernatorial succession until 35 states now permit it, some with absolutely no limitation.

Nearly a hundred years ago, Missouri, too, changed its constitutional bar to succession, and limited governors' terms to two years. But the change lasted less than a decade, and the bar was raised once more.

In almost everything else, experience is rewarded. Experience and long tenure are distinct advantages in the business and industrial world and in the professions. Almost any employe's worth to his employer grows with every day of added experience.

But what we approve and reward in all other walks of life, we deplore and deny to our state's governors.

Now does that make sense?

PRESIDENT LYNDON JOHNSON ENDORSES RURAL CAMPAIGN

July 10-25 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Co-sponsors for the 22nd annual rural safety campaign are the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Special emphasis this year is being given to preventing accidents involving slow-moving vehicles, chemicals, and electricity and in recreation.

The President urges that vigorous new efforts be made to eradicate hazards and rectify unsafe practices which cause farm and rural accidents.

"Progress toward this objective should be the goal of National Farm Safety Week 1965," he said.

The latest yearly breakdown of farm resident accidents shows a total of 8,400 deaths and 780,000 injuries. Of the deaths, 3,600 were motor-vehicle, 2,000 were in the home, 2,600 were work accidents and 800 resulted from non-motor vehicle accidents.

"Rural leaders and farm families are making a joint effort to reduce accidents" says Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

"Today's farm family can prepare itself for accident prevention by eliminating hazards and making skillful use of modern farming equipment and production aids."

It is no overstatement to say that the several states of the Union have not exactly rushed to comply with the Supreme Court's ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be reapportioned on a population basis.

Now from Illinois, a state where the legislative deadlock forced the at-large election of the entire lower house in 1964, a political scientist suggests that a computer could solve the problem to the satisfaction not only of the court but of the politicians, the people and a state's treasury.

According to Prof. Stuart S. Nagel, of the University of Illinois, the 90 counties of Illinois could be redistricted in just 81 seconds at a cost of only $5.63 for computer operating time, using data available from the U.S. Census Bureau on magnetic tape costing $112.

This is far less than non-computer methods. New York, for instance, spent $100,000 on redistricting.

Perhaps an even more persuasive argument for legislators of whatever political affiliation is that a computer would help them realize the maximum benefit from redistricting. By punching certain numbers on IBM cards, says Nagel, each party could see the maximum number of seats it could obtain and then compromise between the extremes.

Politics is supposed to be, after all, the art of compromise. If computers can enhance the practice of that art, the idea might well be looked into.

Hair on the face is admired by only about half the people of the world--that half belonging to races whose males can grow beards. The other half, whose males can't, consider facial hair shameful. The two points of view can take extreme forms. In Anglo-Saxon times, breaking a man's thigh brought a fine of 12 shillings whereas cutting off his beard cost 20. On the other hand, in Paraguay today, beardless Indians pluck any stray chin hairs and go on to pull out their eyebrows and eyelashes, saying that they do not wish to resemble horses.

CREATIVE FIRE

Whether a fighter is landing a knockout blow, a golfer is socking a ball 250 yards, a sprinter is dashing away at the crack of a gun, or a writer is putting down words that will excite and awaken his readers, I maintain that at the point of impact there must be intensity. In sports and in writing we must get charged up. We must go all out. We must put pressure on ourselves to surpass ourselves. This is the energy of the spirit that makes champions.

Between times there should be complete relaxation. But only as an army retreats to renew its resources and prepare for another charge.

Jack London who made his mark as a writer put it this way: "I would rather be ashes than dust! I would rather that my spark would burn out in a brilliant blaze than that it should be stifled by dry-rot. I would rather be a superb meteor, every atom of me in a magnificent glow, than a sleepy and permanent planet. The proper function of man is to live, not to exist. I shall not waste my days trying to prolong them. I shall use my time."

"We're building standard port and depot facilities and cantonment areas for logistic troops, and an Army airfield."

A look at the map shows why the base site attracted Army strategists. The peninsula dangles in the sea like a wavy finger 22 miles southeast of Nha Trang, a popular coastal resort.

Surrounded on three sides by water, its narrow neck could be easily defended in case of trouble in the midpart of the country. Equally well, it could serve as a major marshalling point by the U. S. Army in launching an attack in the central area.

The Army is building a new 4,500 - foot airstrip and lengthening a small one left by the French. In addition, if needed, there is plenty of room for another major airfield -- if the U. S. Air Force finds it requires one here.

HEALTH PLAN--
RUSSIAN STYLE

Those who advocate that Americans emulate the Soviet system of health care should be interested in the following words from the "worker's paradise".

Izvestia, the Moscow newspaper, recently reported receipt of a letter from a lady pleading, "Help me to see!" The woman had undergone a successful cataract removal, but needed special glasses.

For more than a month, Izvestia noted, "the optical production section of the Pharmaceutical Administration of the Executive Committee of the Moscow City Society of Working People's Deputies" had been reporting that the lady's order was "being filled."

Then Izvestia editorialized: "Buying prescription lenses is a problem for thousands of our people. Dozens of organizations are involved in making them, not one of which is fully responsible. The crux of the matter is that there is no single responsible bureau. The Central Administration for Medical Equipment in the Ministry of Health of the U. S. S. R. plans the production of lenses and frames for the whole nation, and regional economic councils 'adapt' this plan to local needs.

There are four semi-domestic enterprises in the Russian Republic capable of making prescription lenses. But A. M. Yevgenyev, chief of one of them, is nagged by hundreds of telephone calls and letters from indignant customers. But he cannot help his patients: his shops, which have to serve almost the entire country, can't even meet Moscow's demand. On March 11 they refused to accept new orders so as to 'digest' those already in hand. It is intolerable that there isn't a single optical shop in 29 regional and district centers of the Russian Republic. People have to travel hundreds of miles to the capital to order eyeglasses."

This is government "care" in action at its extreme. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

'Mr. Labor' Reveals Why American Labor Backs Stiff Fight Against World Communism

America's Mr. Labor--George Meany -- has for months been in the hustings taking issue with the academic critics of U. S. policy in Viet Nam and Santo Domingo. He is considered by many to be one of the world's ablest statesmen. Thus he has been under constant attack by Sino-Soviet-Cuban propagandists abroad and by many circles at home. I asked him why his labor federation takes the world position it does. Here is his reply:

By George Meany
President, AFL-CIO

Washington, D. C.: The booing and the brawls on a college campus here and there cannot hide the fact that the American people, in their vast majority, support President Johnson in his determined effort to have our country meet its international responsibilities.

American labor takes pride in the consistent, unequivocal and vigorous support which it has given to the President's basically sound foreign policies --particularly in his course towards the Viet Nam and Santo Domingo crises. We have done so out of our own experience and conviction. We realize what is at stake in these bitter tests of will and strength and we know the nature, aims, and methods of Communism.

The membership and leadership of the AFL-CIO have a deep sense of responsibility as citizens and as trade unionists. American labor has demonstrated this responsibility through its active efforts to help make our country's foreign policy democratic and ever more effective.

What is more, it has been tireless in carrying the message of freedom to the workers of every continent, creed, and color. American labor has combined words with deeds by helping these workers organize themselves into free trade unions capable of providing sound and strong forces for the promotion of human dignity, democracy and social justice in their respective countries.

On the occasion of the last Lincoln's birthday luncheon at the White House, President Johnson very appropriately remarked that "history and our own achievements have. . . thrust upon us the principal responsibility for the protection of freedom on earth. . .No other people in no other time has had so great an opportunity to work and risk for the peace and the freedom of all mankind."

Organized labor in the United States has always known that its very existence depends on democracy. American labor has secured great social, economic, and political achievements through devotion to and reliance on the democratic processes. Thanks, in no small measure to American labor's all - out support of democracy against Fascism, Nazism, Falangism, Peronism, Communism, and every other type of tyranny, the workers of many other lands are increasingly turning away from totalitarian movements and rallying to the cause of freedom.

What is this freedom that is so vital to our survival as citizens of a democracy and as trade unionists? To the AFL-CIO, freedom is more than a multiple-party system with free and secret universal suffrage for men and women of every race, color, religion, and national origin. In the philosophy of American labor, freedom is a way of life.

Experience has taught that any movement which opposes freedom of association, conscience and worship, any government which denies its people these basic human rights, any regime which prohibits free trade unions is hopelessly reactionary--regardless of how radical it may pretend to be or how revolutionary its slogans may sound.

The Communist movement, Communist regimes, and those who knowingly support them are really ultra-reactionary. They are the worst enemies of freedom and social justice.

No liberal can be loyal to his ideals and truly effective unless he is in the front ranks of the fight against Communism and all other reactionary forces. That is why the AFL-CIO has never been neutral in the struggle between human freedom and tyranny--regardless of how far "left" the propagandists and supporters of dictatorship may claim to be.

American labor is anti-totalitarian and not non-totalitarian. American labor is opposed to totalitarianism whether its "ism" be Communist, Fascist, or Nazi. American labor is not somewhere in between, but fully on the side of democracy in its historic struggle against dictatorship.

And when we work and fight for freedom, we work and fight for freedom for all the people and not only for labor. American labor knows very well that it cannot enjoy democracy for itself and then deny it to others.

Even those who have never been allowed to taste freedom, even those who have been subjected to indoctrination in the dogmas of dictatorship, yearn for freedom and fight for it in the face of severest hardships and dangers. This accounts for much of the spreading disenchantment with Communism especially among young people and intellectuals behind the Iron Curtain. Here is the reason why there are so many young men and women among those who risk their lives to flee from the yoke of dictatorship to countries where the people enjoy freedom.

Our university professors and students would serve their country and profession with fruitful distinction if they were to study this historic development and become not only academic but dynamic fighters against the Communist drive to dominate the world and impose on all mankind the Soviet system of tyranny.

Tony Fontane Story To Be Shown

A full length Christian musical film will be shown Sunday evening, July 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Tanner Street Church of God. Rev. Withrow, pastor of the church, indicates that the film will have particular interest for teenagers but that everyone will gain inspiration and challenge from the story.

"The Tony Fontane Story" is the unbelievable, yet true story of one of the world's greatest singers. Filmed in Hollywood by Youth Films, the teenage division of Gospel Films, Inc., it is the first Christian, dramatic musical ever produced. The purpose of the color production is to dramatically present Tony Fontane's personal testimony, showing teenagers and adults alike that the answer to life and the hereafter is found only in the person of Jesus Christ.

As guest soloist, Tony appeared on many additional TV shows, as The Ed Sullivan Show, The Steve Allen Show, The Hoagie Carmichael Show and many other New York and Hollywood programs. He was privileged to have his own radio and television show, "The Tony Fontane Show." He was featured as the star of Emile Littler's London success, "Brewsters Millions," the well known musical comedy. As a tenor singing star, he attained international success appearing in the world's most famous night clubs and theatres.

Tony's wife, the former Kerry Vaughn, was a professional actress when she and Tony were married twelve years ago. After their marriage, Kerry continued performing on the stage and in the night clubs around the world and appearing in many Hollywood motion pictures.

It was a peaceful, sunny September afternoon in 1957 as Tony Fontane, filled with the excitement and satisfaction of a successful rehearsal for a TV network show, was driving in the San Fernando Valley. Sundenly there was an ear-splitting crash. Everything went black. Thirty days later, Tony regained consciousness. It was this automobile crash that brought Tony, Kerry, and their daughter, Char'ae, to a knowledge of Jesus Christ. For their newfound Lord, they left their lucrative careers to enter full-time Christian work.

Gospel Films, now in its' twelth year, is operating in 82 countries of the world with films in 16 differen t foreign languages. Its' teenage ministry, Youth Films, is the only Christian motion picture company that offers free of charge its' teenage films to any of the 38,000 high school assemblies throughout America.

Tony Fontane at present is a religious recording artist while appearing in Christian concerts across the world.

Sikeston Wins Tournament

Limbaugh–Most Valuable Player

The Sikeston All-stars captured the championship position of their own tourney Saturday night when they galloped to a 4-0 decision over the Poplar Bluff Mules.

Sikeston's ace hurler and slugger, Wayne Limbaugh, was awarded the most valuable player trophy after he pitched a masterful victory for Sikeston striking out 16 of the 21 batters that he faced in the bout.

Limbaugh, starting and finishing on the mound for Sikeston, served a shutout and one-hit ballgame. The lone hit was in the last frame when Bagby, the fourth from last batter of the game, connected with a single.

The championship contest began after the consolation bout between Scott City and Bloomfield. Sikeston, first at bat in the game, started out with a single by the lead-off hitter Bailey. That was the only threat in the beginning frame from Sikeston. Poplar Bluff came to bat in the bottom of that frame but was dumped when all three went down. In the second Sikeston managed only one hit by McDaniel. The Mules, in that frame, managed to get only to second base when Rains walked and advanced there. The third inning action saw Sikeston romp 3 singles in a row by Limbaugh, Garner, and Brown, to drill in 3 runs. The Mules still remained hitless and scoreless. In the fourth Sikeston's first 3 batters went down in order as Poplar Bluff muffed them in that frame. However, Limbaugh took revenge when Poplar Bluff came to bat as he struck out the Mule's first 3 hitters. In the fifth, Sikeston came to bat to clip one more hit of the game when Limbaugh slammed out another single. The Mules went down in order in the frame as Sikeston held them to nothing. In the sixth, Sikeston managed their last of their 4 runs when McDaniel got on base with a single and Eddie Felker cracked the ball for a long drive into center field that went for a triple to boost the last run across. Sikeston had no action in the last except when Poplar Bluff came to bat.

Then Sikeston became just a little worried, when the first batter whacked a single to take a base. The next batter was given a free ticket to first. That advanced Hutchison to second and went on to third. However, the next 3 batters went down swinging as Limbaugh ended their only real threat. Poplar Bluff took second place in the tourney.

Limbaugh and McDaniel highlighted Sikeston. In hitting together they nabbed half of the total hits for Sikeston.

In the consolation bout that settled the third and fourth places in the tournament was between Scott City and Bloomfield. Scott City took an early 1-0 lead in the first to begin their winning pace. In the third they drove in 3 runs on 2 hits and still held Bloomfield to 2 runs and that they managed in the top of the third. In the fourth, Bloomfield added only 1 hit to the roster as Scott City stormed in 2 more runs.

Scott City collected another run on 2 hits in the fifth and 1 run on 1 hit in the last to take the victory over Bloomfield. Bloomfield gathered the third and last run of the evening when Harris rounded the bases in the last frame.

Ernst, who has pitched spectacularly throughout the tourney, was presented the best pitcher award after the Sikeston-Poplar Bluff contest. Ernst took the win for Scott City allowing only 1 hit and 3 runs. That lone hit was nabbed in the fourth when Kingree singled for Bloomfield. Pat Hart, with relief from Martin, took the loss allowing 7 hits and 8 runs.

Pierce and Reinagle took the spotlight when they both hammered 2 singles apiece for Scott City.

CHOOSE YOUR HOME

Home is a place to hang your hat someone once said.

Yet, home, in the truest sense, means much more than that. There, no matter how humble the dwelling, we find shelter, food and lodging. Loved ones welcome us, and we throw aside our cares and relax.

And because we are a combination of the physical and the spiritual, we need a church home also. The church not only provides shelter when disaster strikes; it is a refuge from life's storms. In its sanctuary, we lose our burdens and find spiritual strength as we draw near to God. Many of life's complex and perplexing problems are answered, and we enjoy the companionship of fellow Christians.

Do you have a church home? If not, there is one waiting for you. — Hazel E. Howard

Jaycees And Lewis Take Win

A & B Oil Co., was edged by a nose in Saturday night's game with Jaycees with a score of 2-1. The first game at Puckett Field began with Craig pitching for the winners and Dame hurling for A & B Oil Co.

Craig pitched a 6 hitter giving up one run for the Jaycees. He was not relieved throughout the game. Dame, who was also not relieved, pitched a marvelous game allowing only 5 hits.

The Jaycees scored one run in the second and one in the last to break the tie and win the game. A & B scored only once in the last.

The first two batters, Boshear and Scarbrough strung up 2 hits apiece for A & B, Jones, shortstop for Jaycees, boosted a double and a single for the winners. Craig, muffed the saying "pitchers can't hit" when he walloped a home run in the second to give Jaycees their first run.

In the second and last game in the National League at Pucket Field, Lewis Furniture erupted in the last frame when they romped 3 hits to score 7 runs to break the 2-2 tie.

In that game, Lewis scored one run in the first and one in the third. Lions whipped up 2 hits to push in 2 runs in the third. That score remained until the next inning when Lewis pounded in 7 runs to fix the victory. In the fifth and last frame of play, Lewis slipped around the bases to score once more. Lewis won with a score of 10-2.

Corrigan went all the way for the victors allowing 7 runs to the Lions. Hailey started on the mound, but was relieved by Wooley, chalked up the loss.

Vaught and Hailey were highlights in the hitting position as each drove a double and a single for Lions. Vines walked up 4 times to smash 2 hits for the Lewis nine.

Cards Drop Two To Cubs

The St. Louis Cardinals dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the Cubs in Chicago by identical 6-0 scores.

The A's played only one game and lost to Detroit, 4-2, in Kansas City.

Larry Jackson and Cal Koonce shut the Cards out Sunday. As a result, St. Louis fell three games under .500 and eight games behind Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

Beside being unable to touch Jackson and Koonce, the Cardinals also had trouble with veteran Ernie Banks and rookie Chris Krug.

Krug, hitting .192 entering the first game, slammed a three-homer off loser Curt Simmons in the first game to give Jackson all he needed. Banks later singled in a run.

Banks crushed the Cardinals and Ray Sadecki in the first inning of the night-cap with a three-run blast. Then Krug put the game out of reach with a two-run double in the seventh.

Bob Gibson, the only Cardinal selected for the National League, pitched four shut-out innings of relief in the second contest.

Kansas City also found itself plagued by home runs and Hank Aguirre. Norm Cash hit a two-run homer and Gates Brown and Dick McAuliffe hit solo blasts for all the Tiger runs against loser Wes Stock. Aguirre scattered 11 hits for his 10th victory.

All major league teams are idle today.

The editor owes me a hundred bucks,
I have to dun the guy, but shucks
A starving author needs some kale
To keep him from being sent to jail.

But when I reach for meat and bread,
I'm so awful hungry I go to bed.

How can a guy write fetching tales
When his innards growl in dismal wails;
So hurry, please, Mr. Editor, Man,
Hurry that hundred as soon as you can.

In the consolation bout that settled the third and fourth places in the tournament was between Scott City and Bloomfield. Scott City took an early 1-0 lead in the first to begin their winning pace. In the third they drove in 3 runs on 2 hits and still held Bloomfield to 2 runs and that they managed in the top of the third. In the fourth, Bloomfield added only 1 hit to the roster as Scott City stormed in 2 more runs.

Scott City collected another run on 2 hits in the fifth and 1 run on 1 hit in the last to take the victory over Bloomfield. Bloomfield gathered the third and last run of the evening when Harris rounded the bases in the last frame.

Ernst, who has pitched spectacularly throughout the tourney, was presented the best pitcher award after the Sikeston-Poplar Bluff contest. Ernst took the win for Scott City allowing only 1 hit and 3 runs. That lone hit was nabbed in the fourth when Kingree singled for Bloomfield. Pat Hart, with relief from Martin, took the loss allowing 7 hits and 8 runs.

Pierce and Reinagle took the spotlight when they both hammered 2 singles apiece for Scott City.

CHOOSE YOUR HOME

Home is a place to hang your hat someone once said.

Yet, home, in the truest sense, means much more than that. There, no matter how humble the dwelling, we find shelter, food and lodging. Loved ones welcome us, and we throw aside our cares and relax.

And because we are a combination of the physical and the spiritual, we need a church home also. The church not only provides shelter when disaster strikes; it is a refuge from life's storms. In its sanctuary, we lose our burdens and find spiritual strength as we draw near to God. Many of life's complex and perplexing problems are answered, and we enjoy the companionship of fellow Christians.

Do you have a church home? If not, there is one waiting for you. — Hazel E. Howard

Jaycees And Lewis Take Win

A & B Oil Co., was edged by a nose in Saturday night's game with Jaycees with a score of 2-1. The first game at Puckett Field began with Craig pitching for the winners and Dame hurling for A & B Oil Co.

Craig pitched a 6 hitter giving up one run for the Jaycees. He was not relieved throughout the game. Dame, who was also not relieved, pitched a marvelous game allowing only 5 hits.

The Jaycees scored one run in the second and one in the last to break the tie and win the game. A & B scored only once in the last.

The first two batters, Boshear and Scarbrough strung up 2 hits apiece for A & B, Jones, shortstop for Jaycees, boosted a double and a single for the winners. Craig, muffed the saying "pitchers can't hit" when he walloped a home run in the second to give Jaycees their first run.

In the second and last game in the National League at Pucket Field, Lewis Furniture erupted in the last frame when they romped 3 hits to score 7 runs to break the 2-2 tie.

In that game, Lewis scored one run in the first and one in the third. Lions whipped up 2 hits to push in 2 runs in the third. That score remained until the next inning when Lewis pounded in 7 runs to fix the victory. In the fifth and last frame of play, Lewis slipped around the bases to score once more. Lewis won with a score of 10-2.

Corrigan went all the way for the victors allowing 7 runs to the Lions. Hailey started on the mound, but was relieved by Wooley, chalked up the loss.

Vaught and Hailey were highlights in the hitting position as each drove a double and a single for Lions. Vines walked up 4 times to smash 2 hits for the Lewis nine.

Cards Drop Two To Cubs

The St. Louis Cardinals dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the Cubs in Chicago by identical 6-0 scores.

The A's played only one game and lost to Detroit, 4-2, in Kansas City.

Larry Jackson and Cal Koonce shut the Cards out Sunday. As a result, St. Louis fell three games under .500 and eight games behind Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

Beside being unable to touch Jackson and Koonce, the Cardinals also had trouble with veteran Ernie Banks and rookie Chris Krug.

Krug, hitting .192 entering the first game, slammed a three-homer off loser Curt Simmons in the first game to give Jackson all he needed. Banks later singled in a run.

Banks crushed the Cardinals and Ray Sadecki in the first inning of the night-cap with a three-run blast. Then Krug put the game out of reach with a two-run double in the seventh.

Bob Gibson, the only Cardinal selected for the National League, pitched four shut-out innings of relief in the second contest.

Kansas City also found itself plagued by home runs and Hank Aguirre. Norm Cash hit a two-run homer and Gates Brown and Dick McAuliffe hit solo blasts for all the Tiger runs against loser Wes Stock. Aguirre scattered 11 hits for his 10th victory.

All major league teams are idle today.

TO A DELINQUENT EDITOR

The editor owes me a hundred bucks,
I have to dun the guy, but shucks
A starving author needs some kale
To keep him from being sent to jail.

I know this guy has lots of care--
The printers' bills are in his hair;
But when I reach for meat and bread,
I'm so awful hungry I go to bed.

How can a guy write fetching tales
When his innards growl in dismal wails;
So hurry, please, Mr. Editor, Man,
Hurry that hundred as soon as you can.

MELVIN MANNING

Manning Head In Pemiscot

HAYTI -- Announcement has been made of the appointment of Melvin Manning as county superintendent of schools. The appointment was made by Gov. Warrer Hearnes and became effective July 1. Manning was sworn in last Thursday by Harold Jones, County Clerk.

Manning was born and reared in Walnut Ridge, Ark., where he met and married Miss Iva Hathcoat.

The Mannings have four children; Tommy, who is a 1959 graduate of Arkansas State College is married and has two children. He is employed as publicity director of Arkansas State, Betty has attended Missouri State Teacher's College at Cape Girardeau for two and one half years and plans to continue her schooling, Patricia, is a sophomore at Hayti high school, and Michael is in the sixth grade at Hayti.

Manning attended the University of Maryland for two years, Arkansas State for two years, and Memphis State University for two years. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Education Degree, a Master of Art Degree and is working on educational specialist.

He has served the Hayti school system 10 years, the last six years having held the position of principal of Hayti high school. He is a member of the Lions club and Masonic lodge. He served in the air force from 1941 to 1952 reaching the rank of Major.

He lists his favorite sports as football, baseball, basketball and all school sports and enjoys squirrel hunting, fishing, and bowling in his leisure time.

Vicki Tiel Now Toast Of Paris

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Curled up in the big, leather restaurant booth, a mane of dark hair shading her makeup-less face, Vicki Tiel looked like any starlet working the publicity route to stardom.

Only her reaction was different.

"Me, an actress?" she giggled. "Heavens, no. I'll leave that to those who can act."

In less than a year, Vicki, without acting a line, has become the toast of Paris, been snubbed by Yves St. Laurent, gotten screen credit in "What's New Pussycat," rented a house in Malibu, bought a motorcycle and a Morgan sports car, acquired a five-figure income and dropped her first fiance.

"I've got another film now, with Kim Novak," she said. "And someone's talked to me about filming my life story."

For any girl of 21 but Vicki, the film would be a short subject.

Vicki isn't an actress, she is a dress designer. The youngest in town, she is rivaling such veterans as Edith Head, Jean Louis and James Galanos.

Just a year ago last month, Vicki was graduated from Parsons School of Design in New York.

With $1,000 apiece, Vicki and classmate Mia Fonssagrives, then 22, headed for Paris to invade the haute couture.

A few weeks after they arrived, the girsl took their sketches to Louis Feraud, a successful young designer.

"His manager like them so much, he signed us to do a collection of our own."

Their clothes appealed to the younger set -- wild, flower-printed stockings, above the knee skirts, necklines slit to the navel, in fabrics ranging from upholstery to snakeskin.

"We modeled our own clothes at Chez Castel, the Paris discotheque where all the young group goes -- like Geraldine Chaplin," says Vicki.

The girls got a contract to sell their clothes to a big U. S. manufacturer "for about $40,000 a collection, plus a percentage. That's just for 20 dresses."

Just as their $2,000 was running out, Seven Arts Productions signed them up to do Paula Prentiss' clothes in "Pussycat."

"We had to dress a strip tease number, so we learned how to strip tease at the Crazy Horse," said Vicki.

The girls got $100 a sketch, says Vicki, until she met Richard Burton in the Paris studio commissary.

"He just roared, 'One hundred dollars--you should get $1,000.' So we asked for it--and the producer grinned and gave it to us."

Housing Project Cost $600,161

BLOOMFIELD -- Glenn Aslin, chairman of the Bloomfield Housing Authority, said that the 46-unit low-rental program here will cost $600,161, according to estimates. The estimate was submitted last week to the Public Housing Administration in Dallas, Tex., for approval.

At a meeting of the local housing authority last week, a $60,000 advance note was approved, Aslin said.

The plans and speculations were drawn by the architect firm, Stanley Brown, Inc., of Dallas, Tex., and Little Rock, Ark. At the present appraisers are making an appraisal on the site selected by the housing authority and representatives of the PHA.

All dwellings will be one-story duplex (two - family units) type, brick veneered and having a concrete slab base. There will be 32 one-bedroom units, 12 two-bedroom units and two three-bedroom units, a total of 46 unit dwellings or 23 structures.

There will be an administrative and management building having 734 square feet of floor space. Included in the estimate is a community building having 1265 square feet of floor space.

Service Pins To Observers

PORTAGEVILLE -- The weather bureau has presented length-of-service awards to two Southeast Missouri residents.

Mrs. Lottie Summers of Bernie received a department of commerce pin for 10 years service as a cooperative observer in the Climatological network of the bureau. Since 1955 she has made daily measurements of rainfall at Bernie.

Torrence L. Johns of Qulin was awarded a pin commemorating 20 years similar service. Johns is one of a growing number of persons whose length of volunteer service has passed the two decade mark. He began recording rainfall at Qulin in May of 1945.

In presenting these awards, Leonard F. Hand, weather bureau meteorologist, expressed the appreciation of the department of commerce and the bureau for valuable service to the science of climatology.

These, and other Bootheel climatological observers, accept a daily responsibility which is both confining and rewarding to those who find satisfaction documenting the elements of nature.

Unneeded Taxes Paid In Pemiscot

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Pemiscot County is one of 37 counties in which taxpayers will pay $2,070,199 in unnecessarily levied property taxes unless the tenative tax rate included in their 1965 budgets is lowered, according to the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

According to the Survey, "This study includes only the county revenue fund. Other funds may or may not be carrying execessive surpluses."

The 37 counties covered in the study are in a position to lower tax rates because "each is maintaining a surplus in the county revenue fund budget in excess of the amount it needs to operate on a cash basis," the Survey said.

According to the study, tax reductions that can be made range from 5 cents to 38 cents per $100 assessed valuation, an average of 15 cents.

In 1964 the Survey recommended that 32 counties, including Pemiscot, could make tax reductions. Pemiscot County reduced its rate 3 cents and still had an increase of $7,225 in the county revenue fund.

This year the survey says that Pemiscot county has a revenue fund excess of $57,336 making a 13 cent tax rate reduction possible.

Church Has New Pastor

CHARLESTON -- The Southside Baptist Church this week announced the appointment of Rev. A. Eugene Runnels as minister, replacing Rev. Rufus Noisworthy, who resigned to become a supply preacher.

The Rev. Mr. Runnels will be the church's first full-time pastor.

A native of Kirksville, the Rev. Mr. Runnels attended high school in Atlanta, Mo., and is a graduate of Hannibal - LaGrange Junior College. He attended Northeast Missouri State College in Kirksville, Arkansas State College in Jonesboro, and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

He comes to Charleston from Lulu Baptist Church in Senath. He has also been minister of the Millersville Baptist Church and several smaller churches in northeast Missouri

The Rev. Mr. Runnels, 26, is married to the former Donna Doner of Atlanta, Mo., and they have two children, Mark 6, and Jeff 3. They are living at 101 West Iron Banks Road.

The new minister will deliver his first sermon Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Wyatt Will Furnish Water To Wilson City

WYATT--Aldermen of Wyatt met Thursday with Mayor John W. Cross. Present were representatives of the board of trustees of the village of Wilson City, and agreement was reached on a contract whereby Wyatt will furnish water to Wilson City.

The Wyatt aldermen decided that a building code ordinance would be strictly enforced and that any person desiring to build in the city must obtain from the city clerk a building permit before starting construction. Mayor Cross directed the city marshal to see that permits be obtained.

A financial statement for the six months ending June 30, was presented to the board, and accepted. The Board directed that the financial statement be published in the Enterprise-Courier in full.

Mayor Cross announced that Carlow Well Co. of Memphis would start drilling the city's well next Monday morning.

Other contractors concerned with the construction of the Wyatt water distribution system include: Moro, Inc., of Warren, Ark., who will build the distribution system; Skyco Constructors, Inc., of Hot Springs the treatment plant, and W. E. Caldwell of Louisville, Ky., the 50,000-gallon water tank.

Nudity Way of Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nudity, all of a sudden, has become a way of life in Hollywood.

Hardly a movie — or a girlie magazine — comes along without some actress baring all. Stella Stevens, Carroll Baker, Carol Lynley, to name a few. Ursula Andress, since those nude photos by her husband, actor John Derek, is known in the trade as Ursula Undress.

Elizabeth Taylor poses with only her hands covering her bosom in "The Sandpiper." And a nude redwood statue of her is on view throughout most of the movie.

All of this raises the question, does nudity hurt or help a girl's career in show business?

It certainly won't hurt Miss Taylor because it's in keeping with her image as a femme fatale.

But what about the young girls just starting?

Chris Noel, a willowy green-eyed blonde, says she was offered $5,000 to do a nude layout for a girlie magazine. She could use the money but turned it down.

"I think it would ruin my career as an actress. I would forever be labeled as a starlet. Producers would only see me as an actress who takes her clothes off," says Chris.

Her decision paid off. She recently landed one of the featured roles with Debbie Reynolds in "The Singing Nun."

"Had I posed nude, I couldn't have even got an audition for this movie," she adds.

Another young actress, 20-year-old Jo Collins posed nude for Playboy magazine and recently was selected Playmate of the year.

"It helped my career," says Jo. "I keep getting all kinds of offers now from producers."

After a pause, she added: "And they're all legitimate offers for roles."

Jo, at first, was against posing in the nude. Finally, her boy friend talked her into it.

"I was working in all the beach and surfing movies. So he said: What have I got to lose?"

"Since I've posed, I've had all kinds of publicity. American-International immediately sent me on a tour of the country to plug 'How to Stuff a Wild Bikini.'

"Every radio and television interviewer knew all about me from Playboy.

"They all were very interested in me."

MELVIN MANNING

Manning Head In Pemiscot

HAYTI -- Announcement has been made of the appointment of Melvin Manning as county superintendent of schools. The appointment was made by Gov. Warrer Hearnes and became effective July 1. Manning was sworn in last Thursday by Harold Jones, County Clerk.

Manning was born and reared in Walnut Ridge, Ark., where he met and married Miss Iva Hathcoat.

The Mannings have four children; Tommy, who is a 1959 graduate of Arkansas State College is married and has two children. He is employed as publicity director of Arkansas State, Betty has attended Missouri State Teacher's College at Cape Girardeau for two and one half years and plans to continue her schooling, Patricia, is a sophomore at Hayti high school, and Michael is in the sixth grade at Hayti.

Manning attended the University of Maryland for two years, Arkansas State for two years, and Memphis State University for two years. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Education Degree, a Master of Art Degree and is working on educational specialist.

He has served the Hayti school system 10 years, the last six years having held the position of principal of Hayti high school. He is a member of the Lions club and Masonic lodge. He served in the air force from 1941 to 1952 reaching the rank of Major.

He lists his favorite sports as football, baseball, basketball and all school sports and enjoys squirrel hunting, fishing, and bowling in his leisure time.

Vicki Tiel Now Toast Of Paris

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Curled up in the big, leather restaurant booth, a mane of dark hair shading her makeup-less face, Vicki Tiel looked like any starlet working the publicity route to stardom.

Only her reaction was different.

"Me, an actress?" she giggled. "Heavens, no. I'll leave that to those who can act."

In less than a year, Vicki, without acting a line, has become the toast of Paris, been snubbed by Yves St. Laurent, gotten screen credit in "What's New Pussycat," rented a house in Malibu, bought a motorcycle and a Morgan sports car, acquired a five-figure income and dropped her first fiance.

"I've got another film now, with Kim Novak," she said. "And someone's talked to me about filming my life story."

For any girl of 21 but Vicki, the film would be a short subject.

Vicki isn't an actress, she is a dress designer. The youngest in town, she is rivaling such veterans as Edith Head, Jean Louis and James Galanos.

Just a year ago last month, Vicki was graduated from Parsons School of Design in New York.

With $1,000 apiece, Vicki and classmate Mia Fonssagrives, then 22, headed for Paris to invade the haute couture.

A few weeks after they arrived, the girsl took their sketches to Louis Feraud, a successful young designer.

"His manager like them so much, he signed us to do a collection of our own."

Their clothes appealed to the younger set -- wild, flower-printed stockings, above the knee skirts, necklines slit to the navel, in fabrics ranging from upholstery to snakeskin.

"We modeled our own clothes at Chez Castel, the Paris discotheque where all the young group goes -- like Geraldine Chaplin," says Vicki.

The girls got a contract to sell their clothes to a big U. S. manufacturer "for about $40,000 a collection, plus a percentage. That's just for 20 dresses."

Just as their $2,000 was running out, Seven Arts Productions signed them up to do Paula Prentiss' clothes in "Pussycat."

"We had to dress a strip tease number, so we learned how to strip tease at the Crazy Horse," said Vicki.

The girls got $100 a sketch, says Vicki, until she met Richard Burton in the Paris studio commissary.

"He just roared, 'One hundred dollars--you should get $1,000.' So we asked for it--and the producer grinned and gave it to us."

Housing Project Cost $600,161

BLOOMFIELD -- Glenn Aslin, chairman of the Bloomfield Housing Authority , said that the 46-unit low-rental program here will cost $600,161, according to estimates. The estimate was submitted last week to the Public Housing Administration in Dallas , Tex., for approval.

At a meeting of the local housing authority last week, a $60,000 advance note was approved, Aslin said.

The plans and speculations were drawn by the architect firm, Stanley Brown, Inc., of Dallas, Tex., and Little Rock, Ark. At the present appraisers are making an appraisal on the site selected by the housing authority and representatives of the PHA.

All dwellings will be one-story duplex (two - family units) type, brick veneered and having a concrete slab base. There will be 32 one-bedroom units, 12 two-bedroom units and two three-bedroom units, a total of 46 unit dwellings or 23 structures.

There will be an administrative and management building having 734 square feet of floor space. Included in the estimate is a community building having 1265 square feet of floor space.

Service Pins To Observers

PORTAGEVILLE -- The weather bureau has presented length-of-service awards to two Southeast Missouri residents.

Mrs. Lottie Summers of Bernie received a department of commerce pin for 10 years service as a cooperative observer in the Climatological network of the bureau. Since 1955 she has made daily measurements of rainfall at Bernie.

Torrence L. Johns of Qulin was awarded a pin commemorating 20 years similar service. Johns is one of a growing number of persons whose length of volunteer service has passed the two decade mark. He began recording rainfall at Qulin in May of 1945.

In presenting these awards, Leonard F. Hand, weather bureau meteorologist, expressed the appreciation of the department of commerce and the bureau for valuable service to the science of climatology.

These, and other Bootheel climatological observers, accept a daily responsibility which is both confining and rewarding to those who find satisfaction documenting the elements of nature.

Unneeded Taxes Paid In Pemiscot

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Pemiscot County is one of 37 counties in which taxpayers will pay $2,070,199 in unnecessarily levied property taxes unless the tenative tax rate included in their 1965 budgets is lowered, according to the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

According to the Survey, "This study includes only the county revenue fund. Other funds may or may not be carrying execessive surpluses."

The 37 counties covered in the study are in a position to lower tax rates because "each is maintaining a surplus in the county revenue fund budget in excess of the amount it needs to operate on a cash basis," the Survey said.

According to the study, tax reductions that can be made range from 5 cents to 38 cents per $100 assessed valuation, an average of 15 cents.

In 1964 the Survey recommended that 32 counties, including Pemiscot, could make tax reductions. Pemiscot County reduced its rate 3 cents and still had an increase of $7,225 in the county revenue fund.

This year the survey says that Pemiscot county has a revenue fund excess of $57,336 making a 13 cent tax rate reduction possible.

WASHINGTON (ANF) —The Department of the Army Flight Status Review Board will convene on June 21 to make its annual screening of Army aviators on active duty.

Flight record files and official personnel records are completely evaluated.

Church Has New Pastor

CHARLESTON -- The Southside Baptist Church this week announced the appointment of Rev. A. Eugene Runnels as minister, replacing Rev. Rufus Noisworthy, who resigned to become a supply preacher.

The Rev. Mr. Runnels will be the church's first full-time pastor.

A native of Kirksville, the Rev. Mr. Runnels attended high school in Atlanta, Mo., and is a graduate of Hannibal - LaGrange Junior College. He attended Northeast Missouri State College in Kirksville, Arkansas State College in Jonesboro, and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

He comes to Charleston from Lulu Baptist Church in Senath. He has also been minister of the Millersville Baptist Church and several smaller churches in northeast Missouri

The Rev. Mr. Runnels, 26, is married to the former Donna Doner of Atlanta, Mo., and they have two children, Mark 6, and Jeff 3. They are living at 101 West Iron Banks Road.

The new minister will deliver his first sermon Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Wyatt Will Furnish Water To Wilson City

WYATT--Aldermen of Wyatt met Thursday with Mayor John W. Cross. Present were representatives of the board of trustees of the village of Wilson City, and agreement was reached on a contract whereby Wyatt will furnish water to Wilson City.

The Wyatt aldermen decided that a building code ordinance would be strictly enforced and that any person desiring to build in the city must obtain from the city clerk a building permit before starting construction. Mayor Cross directed the city marshal to see that permits be obtained.

A financial statement for the six months ending June 30, was presented to the board, and accepted. The Board directed that the financial statement be published in the Enterprise-Courier in full.

Mayor Cross announced that Carlow Well Co. of Memphis would start drilling the city's well next Monday morning.

Other contractors concerned with the construction of the Wyatt water distribution system include: Moro, Inc., of Warren, Ark., who will build the distribution system; Skyco Constructors, Inc., of Hot Springs the treatment plant, and W. E. Caldwell of Louisville, Ky., the 50,000-gallon water tank.

The ancient Asia Minor River Maeander now is called by its Turkish name of Buyuk Menderes.

Nudity Way of Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nudity, all of a sudden, has become a way of life in Hollywood.

Hardly a movie — or a girlie magazine — comes along without some actress baring all. Stella Stevens, Carroll Baker, Carol Lynley, to name a few. Ursula Andress, since those nude photos by her husband, actor John Derek, is known in the trade as Ursula Undress.

Elizabeth Taylor poses with only her hands covering her bosom in "The Sandpiper." And a nude redwood statue of her is on view throughout most of the movie.

All of this raises the question, does nudity hurt or help a girl's career in show business?

It certainly won't hurt Miss Taylor because it's in keeping with her image as a femme fatale.

But what about the young girls just starting?

Chris Noel, a willowy green-eyed blonde, says she was offered $5,000 to do a nude layout for a girlie magazine. She could use the money but turned it down.

"I think it would ruin my career as an actress. I would forever be labeled as a starlet. Producers would only see me as an actress who takes her clothes off," says Chris.

Her decision paid off. She recently landed one of the featured roles with Debbie Reynolds in "The Singing Nun."

"Had I posed nude, I couldn't have even got an audition for this movie," she adds.

Another young actress, 20-year-old Jo Collins posed nude for Playboy magazine and recently was selected Playmate of the year.

"It helped my career," says Jo. "I keep getting all kinds of offers now from producers."

After a pause, she added: "And they're all legitimate offers for roles."

Jo, at first, was against posing in the nude. Finally, her boy friend talked her into it.

"I was working in all the beach and surfing movies. So he said: What have I got to lose?"

"Since I've posed, I've had all kinds of publicity. American-International immediately sent me on a tour of the country to plug 'How to Stuff a Wild Bikini.'

"Every radio and television interviewer knew all about me from Playboy.

"They all were very interested in me."

Kanson Wins Air Derby

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. AP -- A Kansas housewife, Mrs. Mary Ann Noah, won the all-woman, transcontinental Powder Puff Derby for the second straight year. The winners were announced today.

The Mission, Kan., mother of four - a dark-horse until the last lap - defeated 70 other women pilots in the 2,400 mile air race which began in El Cajon, Calif., Saturday morning. It ended here Wednesday noon.

The results were determined on a handicap basis.

4-H Club Fair Set for July 22-23

NEW MADRID -- Plans are being completed for the New Madrid County 4-H Club Fair at the high school, July 22-23.

4-H'ers throughout the county are planning to enter exhibits from their projects. These exhibits are of particular interest to the leaders, parents and others who are interested in what 4-H club boys and girls are doing and learning.

All exhibits will be judged July 22 and ribbons awarded to each one by a judge. The 4-H Fair Catalog carries the exhibit list.

All exhibits will be brought to the high school, highway 61, north, from 9 a.m. until noon, July 22.

The evening's entertainment will feature the share the fun program. Reports from clubs indicate that some of the best entertainment is in store July 22. There will be square dances, musical numbers, skits, songs and others, presented by individuals and groups from clubs throughout the county.

The share the fun top number will represent the county in the contest at the district 4-H achievement day in Cape Girardeau, Aug. 5. Here two numbers will be selected to enter the state contest in Columbia in September.

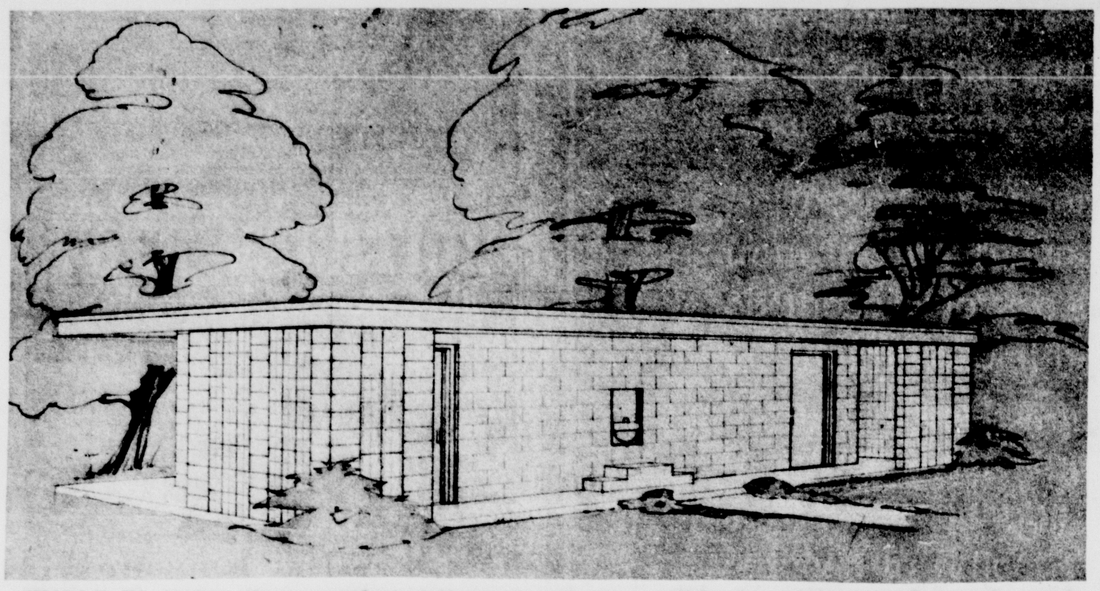
An evening's entertainment will feature the 4-H dress revue the night of July 22. Mrs. Marcus Koch, Mrs. Dick Whiffen and Mrs. Robert Burch, 4-H leaders, are in charge. The revue will include dozens of girls modeling their garments they have made, skirts, wool suits, coats and accessories.

Girls from 10 to 20 have learned to sew the 4-H way and each year their motto is "To Make the Best Better".

One girl 14 years or older and one under 14 will be chosen to represent the county in the revue at the Southeast Missouri district 4-H Achievement day in Cape Girardeau.

This is as far as the under 14 winner can go but the over 14 winner will be chosen at the district to enter the state event at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

The 4-H Fair catalog has been distributed over the County. It contains the programs for the two days and evening Fair and exhibit lists. Copies may be obtained from 4-H leaders or from the University Extension Center in New Madrid.



SIMPLE IN design, these comfort stations on rest areas will be as maintenance-free and vandal-proof as possible.

Three Rest Areas for Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY-- Three of 17 rest areas planned on Missouri interstate highways will be located in the Bootheel.

They will be between routes KK and D on Interstate 55 in Cape Girardeau county; one mile north of Marston in New Madrid county on Interstate 55 and two and a half miles north of the Arkansas line in Pemiscot county on the same interstate route.

A fourth rest area on I-55 will be built two miles south of Route I in Ste. Genevieve county.

The State Highway Commission originally plans to build nine rest areas but it added eight to cut down distances between them to about 50 miles.

Surveys and Plans representatives have made preliminary field investigations of all sites and a committee has approved designs for buildings and other facilities on the areas.

Planned to meet motorists' needs arising from driving on the modern superhighways, the rest areas will match the highways with the latest in design and facilities.

Maurice Dallmeyer, a designer IV in Surveys and Plans, was charged with coming up with designs and specifications for the structures and helping lay out the areas, fitting the jigsaw of buildings into a pleasing and attractive oasis for the highway traveler.

Rifling through his file of plans and sketches and drawings, he recounted some of the details that had to be considered.

"We started by gathering information and designs from other highway departments which were developing such areas," Dallmeyer explained. "Then we started checking their plans against what we were aiming for."

"What we were aiming for" was a combination of functional beauty, minimum maintenance and vandal-proof design. The roadblocks toward those aims, mostly connected with that non-engineering problem called human nature, are almost unbelievable.

"We at first thought, for instance, about making the buildings a rustic type with treated wood," said Dallmeyer. "But reports of vandalism soon knocked out that idea. The Park Board, for instance, reported instances of people pulling shingles off buildings to make camp fires."

So wood will be used only on the picnic tables in each area. And they will be bolted down.

But let's pull off the highway for an imaginary preview of one of the areas. The pavement's hot and you've driven long enough in one stretch. Then you spot the sign "Rest Area" and an entrance lane leads invitingly into a tree-and shrub-dotted area.

Up front some big trailer trucks are angle-parked on the strip marked off for them. You drive on by, to the car parking area, get out and stretch.

Nearby is one of two shelter houses. Twenty - four feet square, with a concrete roof and floor and supporting pillar in the middle, the shelters are about as vandal-proof and maintenance-free as possible.

The underside of the roof and the pillar are painted a cool green. And the roof is sloped to prevent accumulation of leaves and debris. At each corner of the shelter is a wooden picnic table and 10 other tables dot the area.

Farther back in the area is the comfort station, a long, low concrete block building painted the same cool green as the shelter. In the center is a recessed water fountain. And a Department attendant is on hand to answer questions or help in any way he can.

After a short stop, a stretch and a little relaxing -- and perhaps a bite to eat -- you're ready to call in the kids again, load up, and drive on, knowing that there's another rest "oasis" down the highway about an hour away.

"We tried to put in everything that the motorist would need for a restful stop," said Dallmeyer. "Each double area will have its own well (or an outside water supply) and sewage drain field or lagoon. And all of these facilities will be approved by the State Board of Health.

"At night the areas will lighted --the parking strips, the shelter houses, the comfort stations. The lights will be turned an automatically by photoelectric control. And, of course, each area will be landscaped.

"We think they're going to be nice and that motorists will find that these areas will add a lot to the pleasure of driving."

They won't be ready overnight; two are under construction now in Montgomery county and Lafayette county on Interstate Route 70. But they'll all be finished along with the system by 1972.

And they'll be worth waiting for -- for a few years and then for a few miles.

Watch How People Spend Their Money

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — The thing to watch right now is how freely people spend my money. And for consumers to go on increasing their spending each year, and almost each month, two things are needed: first, the wherewithal, and second, confidence in the future.

The wherewithal is still increasing. Despite the rise in the take by federal, state and local tax collectors, the total of personal incomes left over after this drain has been going up. And a notable change in the population in the last four years has been the larger than average increase in the number of families in middle income brackets.

Mostly, these families have money left over after the essentials have been met — money they can, and do, spend.

Confidence has been strong, too — apparently firmer this year than last. The big question right now is whether the dramatic dip in stock prices from the May 14 peak, and the accompanying chorus of doubt about 1966 economic prospects, may have moderated or even undermined this confidence.

That's why the course of consumer spending in the next few weeks, and even more importantly in the fall, will be watched so closely as a tip-off.

Consumer spending is the biggest of the three important props of the economy. A second, business spending for increased activities, inventories and expansion, has been rising and seem likely to keep on doing so. In spite of tax cuts and budget pruning pledges, the third prop, spending by federal, state and local governments, is as assured of rising in the future as anything can be.

Confidence is a fragile thing. But the wherewithal can be measured.

The sharp advance in consumer buying power in the last four years — even allowing for the rise in the cost of living — is perhaps the most revealing tag to be applied to today's prosperity.

In 1960 total personal income was $401 billion. Now it is running at an annual rate of $517 billion. Subtract personal taxes paid to the three levels of government, and Americans still have close to $450 billion to spend.

Much of the income of lower-bracket families goes for the essentials. The middle and higher brackets have more discretion. They account for much of today's obvious affluence.

The sharp advance since 1960 in the number of families making $7,000 a year or more is pointed out by economists of the Northern Trust Company, Chicago.

In 1960 some 20 per cent of American families were in the $7,000-$9,999 range, and at the start of this year 23 per cent were. In the last four years the number earning $10,000 to $14,999 a year rose from 11 per cent of all families to more than 16 per cent. The percentage making $15,000 to $24,999 nearly doubled and is now 5.2 of the total.

And ahead? The Chicago economists say:

"With factory backlogs still rising, Social Security benefit payments soon to be increased, and business and consumer spending intentions remaining buoyant, further income gains appear likely in the months ahead."

The government crackdown on expense accounts may have one beneficial effect--it may bring back home cooking.

Water Area Incorporated

NEW MADRID-- Circuit Judge William L. Ragland issued an order declaring final incorporation of Public Water Supply District 1. This is the area in New Madrid County comprised of South Lilbourn, Howardville and the area between.

An election was held June 19 to determine if this water district should be formed. The vote was 192 for and 0 against.

The first board of directors set up on the decree of incorporation are: Subdistrict 1, David E. Ragan, one year; subdistrict 2, William B. Croy, two years; subdistrict 3, Travis B. Howard, two years; subdistrict 4, Donald Schaffer, three years; subdistrict 5, Willie B. Hamilton, three years.

The citizens of this new water district will vote on a $75,000 revenue bond issue to finance a water system. This bond issue will be guaranteed 100 per cent by the United States through the Farmers Home Administration. Tentative approval for this guarantee has been made by the FHA State Director of Missouri, Everett Jose, and is based on service agreements signed by a minimum of 125 customers. Bonds will be payable over a 33-year period.

$193,142 For Welfare

NEW MADRID -- County recipients of assistance from funds disbursed by the county welfare office for June were paid $193,142.55, according to Fred Sheeter, director of the office. The greatest part of this amount went to those on the old age assistance list.

There were 1,484 on the old age assistance rolls who received $90,219. Average check was $60.79.

A total of 611 county families with 1,939 children received $62,406 in the aid to dependent children category. Average check was $102.14 per family.

From general relief funds 203 families of 224 persons each received a total of $13,410, or an average check of $59.87.

There were 235 persons on the rolls in the permanently and totally disabled field of the welfare service who received an average check of $65.76. The total for the month in this area was $15,454 in the county.

New Madrid county had 81 persons on the pension for the blind list and each received $75 for June for a total of $6,075.

There were 59 children under child welfare supervision. Service was given to 58 children and was completed to one, leaving a caseload of 58 at the end of the month. Of these children now being given services, 43 are in the homes of their parents or living with relatives, 13 are in foster boarding homes, one is in an adoptive home, and one is in foster group care.

Amount spent for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care, and incidentals for the children under child welfare supervision from the county court for the month was $345.86. Amount expended from state boarding funds was $356.61. Costs under the drug and dental program totaled $4,876.08.

Malden Man Directs Play

MALDEN -- "Theatre - Go-Round" the summer theatre program on the campus of Saint Louis University will present an evening of one-act plays on July 15-17 at 8:40 p.m. on the Technological Institute Quadrangle.

The open-air theatre features this year performances by members of the High School Theatre workshop being held in conjuntion with the University's summer theater program.

Among the directors for the one-act plays is Jay Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Summers, who is a graduate student in the theater department. Summers, director of dramatics and instructor of speech and English during the school year at Farmington Senior high school, will direct Tad Mosel's "Impromptu," which will feature members of the high school thespians.

Summers comes to Theater-Go-Round with extensive experience as an actor at Southeast Missouri State College where he was twice recipient of the "best actor award," and award-winning experience as a director where his students won first place in the one-act play division of the Southeast Missouri speech and drama contest and went on to represent the district in the state contest on the campus of Missouri University in Columbia.

14 Million Acres Planted In Cotton

WASHINGTON AP -- The Agriculture Department estimates that 14,205,000 acres were planted to cotton this year. This was 4 per cent less than last year.

The department made no forecast on production, but should it turn out to be at or near the recent yield of 492 pounds per acre, the crop would be around 14,200,000 bales of 500 pounds each. Last year's crop was 15,180,000 bales and the five-year average was 13,905,000 acres.

The crop, like its predecessors in recent years, is being grown under a program of acreage planting allotments and marketing quotas designed to limit overproduction. Excess sales are subject to cash marketing penalties.

This year's crop will be supplemented by a reserve and surplus of around 13.5 million bales, or about 1.4 million more than a year earlier and the largest since 1956.

The first official forecase of production will be issued by the department on Aug. 9.

Under the control program, the department allotted 16 million acres, the legal minimum, among growers entitled to grow the crop. But some farmers have indicated they will underplant their allotments in return for compensating government payments.

The indicated planted acreage and the percentage such acreage represents of 1964 plantings, respectively, for Missouri is 345,000 acres planted or 97.5 of last year's total.

Do your level best in a cheerful spirit, right now.

Big news for telephone users:

Reduction of excise tax means lower telephone bills for Missouri customers

Effective January 1, 1966, the Federal Excise Tax on telephone service will be reduced from 10 to 3 per cent. Following the initial drop, the tax will be lowered 1 per cent each year until it is eliminated in 1969.

Telephone users will receive the full cash benefit from this tax reduction. The tax, which is levied directly on those who use telephone service, has been included on monthly telephone bills, and each month your tax payment has been sent on to the federal government. In effect, the telephone company has been a collection agency. Telephone bills, beginning in January, will be reduced to reflect the 7 per cent decrease.

When the excise tax is eliminated in 1969, telephone users in Missouri will save more than $22 million annually. This will mean about $2 million a month added to Missourians' spendable income.

4-H Club Fair Set for July 22-23

NEW MADRID -- Plans are being completed for the New Madrid County 4-H Club Fair at the high school, July 22-23.

4-H'ers throughout the county are planning to enter exhibits from their projects. These exhibits are of particular interest to the leaders, parents and others who are interested in what 4-H club boys and girls are doing and learning.

All exhibits will be judged July 22 and ribbons awarded to each one by a judge. The 4-H Fair Catalog carries the exhibit list.

All exhibits will be brought to the high school, highway 61, north, from 9 a.m. until noon, July 22.

The evening's entertainment will feature the share the fun program. Reports from clubs indicate that some of the best entertainment is in store July 22. There will be square dances, musical numbers, skits, songs and others, presented by individuals and groups from clubs throughout the county.

The share the fun top number will represent the county in the contest at the district 4-H achievement day in Cape Girardeau, Aug. 5. Here two numbers will be selected to enter the state contest in Columbia in September.

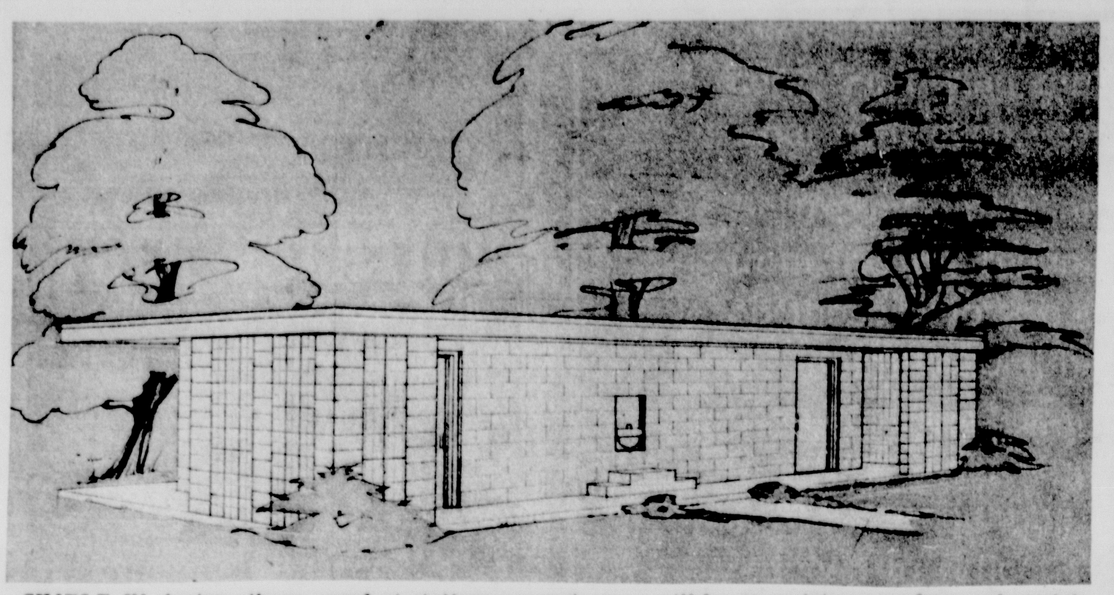
An evening's entertainment will feature the 4-H dress revue the night of July 22. Mrs. Marcus Koch, Mrs. Dick Whiffen and Mrs. Robert Burch, 4-H leaders, are in charge. The revue will include dozens of girls modeling their garments they have made, skirts, wool suits, coats and accessories.

Girls from 10 to 20 have learned to sew the 4-H way and each year their motto is "To Make the Best Better".

One girl 14 years or older and one under 14 will be chosen to represent the county in the revue at the Southeast Missouri district 4-H Achievement day in Cape Girardeau.

This is as far as the under 14 winner can go but the over 14 winner will be chosen at the district to enter the state event at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

The 4-H Fair catalog has been distributed over the County. It contains the programs for the two days and evening Fair and exhibit lists. Copies may be obtained from 4-H leaders or from the University Extension Center in New Madrid.



SIMPLE IN design, these comfort stations on rest areas will be as maintenance-free and vandal-proof as possible.

Three Rest Areas for Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY-- Three of 17 rest areas planned on Missouri interstate highways will be located in the Bootheel.

They will be between routes KK and D on Interstate 55 in Cape Girardeau county; one mile north of Marston in New Madrid county on Interstate 55 and two and a half miles north of the Arkansas line in Pemiscot county on the same interstate route.

A fourth rest area on I-55 will be built two miles south of Route I in Ste. Genevieve county.

The State Highway Commission originally plans to build nine rest areas but it added eight to cut down distances between them to about 50 miles.

Surveys and Plans representatives have made preliminary field investigations of all sites and a committee has approved designs for buildings and other facilities on the areas.

Planned to meet motorists' needs arising from driving on the modern superhighways, the rest areas will match the highways with the latest in design and facilities.

Maurice Dallmeyer, a designer IV in Surveys and Plans, was charged with coming up with designs and specifications for the structures and helping lay out the areas, fitting the jigsaw of buildings into a pleasing and attractive oasis for the highway traveler.

Rifling through his file of plans and sketches and drawings, he recounted some of the details that had to be considered.

"We started by gathering information and designs from other highway departments which were developing such areas," Dallmeyer explained. "Then we started checking their plans against what we were aiming for."

"What we were aiming for" was a combination of functional beauty, minimum maintenance and vandal-proof design. The roadblocks toward those aims, mostly connected with that non-engineering problem called human nature, are almost unbelievable.

"We at first thought, for instance, about making the buildings a rustic type with treated wood," said Dallmeyer. "But reports of vandalism soon knocked out that idea. The Park Board, for instance, reported instances of people pulling shingles off buildings to make camp fires."

So wood will be used only on the picnic tables in each area. And they will be bolted down.

But let's pull off the highway for an imaginary preview of one of the areas. The pavement's hot and you've driven long enough in one stretch. Then you spot the sign "Rest Area" and an entrance lane leads invitingly into a tree-and shrub-dotted area.

Up front some big trailer trucks are angle-parked on the strip marked off for them. You drive on by, to the car parking area, get out and stretch.

Nearby is one of two shelter houses. Twenty - four feet square, with a concrete roof and floor and supporting pillar in the middle, the shelters are about as vandal-proof and maintenance-free as possible.

The underside of the roof and the pillar are painted a cool green. And the roof is sloped to prevent accumulation of leaves and debris. At each corner of the shelter is a wooden picnic table and 10 other tables dot the area.

Farther back in the area is the comfort station, a long, low concrete block building painted the same cool green as the shelter. In the center is a recessed water fountain. And a Department attendant is on hand to answer questions or help in any way he can.

After a short stop, a stretch and a little relaxing -- and perhaps a bite to eat -- you're ready to call in the kids again, load up, and drive on, knowing that there's another rest "oasis" down the highway about an hour away.

"We tried to put in everything that the motorist would need for a restful stop," said Dallmeyer. "Each double area will have its own well (or an outside water supply) and sewage drain field or lagoon. And all of these facilities will be approved by the State Board of Health.

"At night the areas will lighted --the parking strips, the shelter houses, the comfort stations. The lights will be turned an automatically by photoelectric control. And, of course, each area will be landscaped.

"We think they're going to be nice and that motorists will find that these areas will add a lot to the pleasure of driving."

They won't be ready overnight; two are under construction now in Montgomery county and Lafayette county on Interstate Route 70. But they'll all be finished along with the system by 1972.

And they'll be worth waiting for -- for a few years and then for a few miles.

Watch How People Spend Their Money

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — The thing to watch right now is how freely people spend my money. And for consumers to go on increasing their spending each year, and almost each month, two things are needed: first, the wherewithal, and second, confidence in the future.

The wherewithal is still increasing. Despite the rise in the take by federal, state and local tax collectors, the total of personal incomes left over after this drain has been going up. And a notable change in the population in the last four years has been the larger than average increase in the number of families in middle income brackets.

Mostly, these families have money left over after the essentials have been met — money they can, and do, spend.

Confidence has been strong, too — apparently firmer this year than last. The big question right now is whether the dramatic dip in stock prices from the May 14 peak, and the accompanying chorus of doubt about 1966 economic prospects, may have moderated or even undermined this confidence.

That's why the course of consumer spending in the next few weeks, and even more importantly in the fall, will be watched so closely as a tip-off.

Consumer spending is the biggest of the three important props of the economy. A second, business spending for increased activities, inventories and expansion, has been rising and seem likely to keep on doing so. In spite of tax cuts and budget pruning pledges, the third prop, spending by federal, state and local governments, is as assured of rising in the future as anything can be.

Confidence is a fragile thing. But the wherewithal can be measured.

The sharp advance in consumer buying power in the last four years — even allowing for the rise in the cost of living — is perhaps the most revealing tag to be applied to today's prosperity.

In 1960 total personal income was $401 billion. Now it is running at an annual rate of $517 billion. Subtract personal taxes paid to the three levels of government, and Americans still have close to $450 billion to spend.

Much of the income of lower-bracket families goes for the essentials. The middle and higher brackets have more discretion. They account for much of today's obvious affluence.

The sharp advance since 1960 in the number of families making $7,000 a year or more is pointed out by economists of the Northern Trust Company, Chicago.

In 1960 some 20 per cent of American families were in the $7,000-$9,999 range, and at the start of this year 23 per cent were. In the last four years the number earning $10,000 to $14,999 a year rose from 11 per cent of all families to more than 16 per cent. The percentage making $15,000 to $24,999 nearly doubled and is now 5.2 of the total.

And ahead? The Chicago economists say:

"With factory backlogs still rising, Social Security benefit payments soon to be increased, and business and consumer spending intentions remaining buoyant, further income gains appear likely in the months ahead."

The government crackdown on expense accounts may have one beneficial effect--it may bring back home cooking.

Water Area Incorporated

NEW MADRID-- Circuit Judge William L. Ragland issued an order declaring final incorporation of Public Water Supply District 1. This is the area in New Madrid County comprised of South Lilbourn, Howardville and the area between.

An election was held June 19 to determine if this water district should be formed. The vote was 192 for and 0 against.

The first board of directors set up on the decree of incorporation are: Subdistrict 1, David E. Ragan, one year; subdistrict 2, William B. Croy, two years; subdistrict 3, Travis B. Howard, two years; subdistrict 4, Donald Schaffer, three years; subdistrict 5, Willie B. Hamilton, three years.

The citizens of this new water district will vote on a $75,000 revenue bond issue to finance a water system. This bond issue will be guaranteed 100 per cent by the United States through the Farmers Home Administration. Tentative approval for this guarantee has been made by the FHA State Director of Missouri, Everett Jose, and is based on service agreements signed by a minimum of 125 customers. Bonds will be payable over a 33-year period.

$193,142 For Welfare

NEW MADRID -- County recipients of assistance from funds disbursed by the county welfare office for June were paid $193,142.55, according to Fred Sheeter, director of the office. The greatest part of this amount went to those on the old age assistance list.

There were 1,484 on the old age assistance rolls who received $90,219. Average check was $60.79.

A total of 611 county families with 1,939 children received $62,406 in the aid to dependent children category. Average check was $102.14 per family.

From general relief funds 203 families of 224 persons each received a total of $13,410, or an average check of $59.87.

There were 235 persons on the rolls in the permanently and totally disabled field of the welfare service who received an average check of $65.76. The total for the month in this area was $15,454 in the county.

New Madrid county had 81 persons on the pension for the blind list and each received $75 for June for a total of $6,075.

There were 59 children under child welfare supervision. Service was given to 58 children and was completed to one, leaving a caseload of 58 at the end of the month. Of these children now being given services, 43 are in the homes of their parents or living with relatives, 13 are in foster boarding homes, one is in an adoptive home, and one is in foster group care.

Amount spent for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care, and incidentals for the children under child welfare supervision from the county court for the month was $345.86. Amount expended from state boarding funds was $356.61. Costs under the drug and dental program totaled $4,876.08.

Malden Man Directs Play

MALDEN -- "Theatre - Go-Round" the summer theatre program on the campus of Saint Louis University will present an evening of one-act plays on July 15-17 at 8:40 p.m. on the Technological Institute Quadrangle.

The open-air theatre features this year performances by members of the High School Theatre workshop being held in conjunction with the University's summer theater program.

Among the directors for the one-act plays is Jay Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Summers, who is a graduate student in the theater department. Summers, director of dramatics and instructor of speech and English during the school year at Farmington Senior high school, will direct Tad Mosel's "Impromptu," which will feature members of the high school thespians.

Summers comes to Theater-Go-Round with extensive experience as an actor at Southeast Missouri State College where he was twice recipient of the "best actor award," and award-winning experience as a director where his students won first place in the one-act play division of the Southeast Missouri speech and drama contest and went on to represent the district in the state contest on the campus of Missouri University in Columbia.

Hearnes Praises Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes appeared before houses of the legislature near the closing hour of the 73rd General Assembly last Wednesday and called the session "one of the greatest," as members ended their regular six-month session with a record showing passage of almost 100 percent of the major legislation urged by the chief executive.

Citing a legislative record "filled with accomplishments," Governor Hearnes noted he asked Jan. 13 for 16 major proposals and returned twice in special messages to request three more which he considered important to the public interest.

"Each of these proposals," the governor told legislators, "contained various segments relating to the broad field covered. All were considered and the major portions of each of these 19 basic proposals were passed and sent to me for my signature or to the people for their approval through ballots.

"To say I am pleased with this session of the legislature would be an understatement. I feel it is no overstatement to say this session has been one of the greatest, and I include the five sessions when I was privileged to be a member and the two during which I was majority floor leader.

"The record of the 73rd General Assembly is a record filled with accomplishment and no governor could ask for more intelligent cooperation than I have received. The proposals I made in 19 areas were many times complicated and intricate, and many were sensitive from the standpoint of politics and the status quo of government," Governor Hearnes concluded.

Highlights of major administration measures passed by the legislature included:

REAPPORTIONMENT -- "There could be no solution which would have pleased everyone," Governor Hearnes said, "but some solution had to be found if voters were not to face the chaos of elections at large decreed by the court." On Aug. 17 voters will ballot on a proposal to increase the House membership to 168 from 163. The legislature also redistricted congressional areas. A bi-partisan commission appointed by the Governor is working on new senatorial districts to comply with the court order.

EDUCATION -- Approved was $10 million more for the school foundation program; establishment of the four-year colleges at St. Joseph and Joplin; allow local districts to set a maximum current levy at $1.25 instead of the present $1.

GUBERNATORIAL Succession --Also on Aug. 17, voters will have a chance to vote on Amendment No. 1, which will allow future governors to serve a second term. This fulfilled a campaign pledge made by Governor Hearnes during the primary and general election periods -- that Missourians would have a chance to make their views known on whether they wished to allow a good governor to better accomplish long-range objectives through four more years in office.

TRAFFIC Safety -- Passed were a number of recommendations made by an interim committee to the legislature and governor -- principal among which was a requirement that a driver's license would be revoked if he or she refused to submit to a chemical test to determine intoxication.

CONFLICT OF Interest-- Despite the failure of efforts to pass this in years past, Governor Hearnes called for a strong conflicts of interest legislation and the legislature responded with the first such bill in Missouri history. The bill, as Hearnes noted in a legislative message will "reinforce with statute the ethics of honesty Missourians have a right to expect from those of us who serve them in government."

CORRECTIONS and Parole-- The governor asked for and received a raise for the director of corrections from $15,000 to $18,500 yearly.

MENTAL HEALTH -- The Assembly established nine new clinics for treatment of the mentally retarded in addition to those facilities at Marshall and Kansas City -- a move hailed by state and national authorities as one which will place Missouri "in the forefront" of all United States programs in this field.

TAXES -- The legislature agreed with the governor's request to repeal the one percent per $100 valuation property tax levy because the purpose for which it was passed ended in 1962. Also, passed was a uniform financial statement for all non-treasury funds--to be included in the state treasurer's report for a more accurate picture.

ALSO ON THE fiscal side of Governor Hearnes' program requests was one that budgetary provisions of the law governing first and second class counties be extended to 196 third and fourth class counties. This passed, as well as a bill which allows these 106 counties to adopt one of three alternative forms of government allowed heretofore only to a few large counties privileged to adopt home rule charters.

HIGHWAYS -- The lawmakers increased from four to six the membership of the Missouri State Highway Commission, giving better representation to the areas long unrepresented on this body--especially the two metropolitan zones of Northeast Missouri. The Governor said this six-member body "will represent more fairly not only their own areas, but the entire state through specialized knowledge of regional problems and needs."

RESOURCES and Recreations --The legislature approved establishment of an inter-agency council composed of all state groups concerned with natural resources and their impact on recreation in order to comply with provisions of the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. This will bring to the state an estimated $2 million-plus for the next 25 years to promote Missouri's unlimited outdoor possibilities and place it in a favorable position to compete with others in attraction of travel business -- the third largest state industry.

THE ARTS -- The Assembly established and gave funds to the first statutory Council on the Arts to encourage understanding of their importance in Missourians' lives -- including bringing good music, painting, etc. to outstate areas which lack symphonies and galleries of their own.

CIVIL RIGHTS -- The lawmakers passed this legislation in order to assure state enforcement rather than federal, because as Governor Hearnes explained, "Where a state governments' vacuum exists, federal forces move in."

AIR POLLUTION -- The Assembly approved the first legislation to attack this increasingly severe health problem which experts say is steadily becoming not only an urban problem but one throughout the state.

ONE OTHER long - range request, asked by the Governor and agreed to by the legislature was creation of a Tax Study agreement to his request for legislation requiring licensing and examination of new insurance agents.

Although he appointed an administrative assistant for urban affairs for the first time in Missouri history, Governor Hearnes asked for no legislation until a comprehensive program could be submitted to help these areas -- which would include towns of 2,000 on up to larger cities in their needs for information and assistance in all fields.

Other legislative proposals made by the Governor and accepted by the General Assembly included increased assistance for tubercular patients and corrective legislation to recoup $6 million lost from sales tax revenue through a court decision.

7th Inning Stretch

Most generally accepted story of the origination of the seventh inning stretch in baseball: President William Howard Taft got up to stretch in the 7th inning and the crowd, thinking he was leaving, rose to pay him honor.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Missouri

To be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Missouri at a special election to be held on Tuesday, the Seventeenth day of August, 1965

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 1

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

Authorize a person to be elected Governor not more than twice or not more than once if he served more than two years of a term to which another person was elected.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri, an amendment repealing Section 17 of Article IV of the constitution of Missouri relating to elective state officers and adopting one new section in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 17, Article IV, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and one new section adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as section 17, to read as follows:

Section 17. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer and attorney general shall be elected at the presidential elections for terms of four years each. The state auditor shall be elected for a term of two years at the general election in the year 1948, and his successors shall be elected for terms of four years. No person shall be elected governor more than twice, and no person who has held the office of governor, or acted as governor, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected to the office of governor shall be elected to the office of governor more than once. The state treasurer shall not be eligible for election as his own successor. The heads of all the executive departments shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. All appointive officers may be removed by the governor and shall possess the qualifications required by this constitution or by law.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 2

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

To authorize cities, in addition to the existing power to lease, to dispose of plants for manufacturing and industrial development purposes constructed from proceeds of revenue bonds.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri an amendment repealing Section 27 of Article VI of the constitution of Missouri relating to municipal revenue bonds for utility, airport and industrial purposes and adopting one new section in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article VI of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 27, Article VI, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and one new section adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as section 27, to read as follows:

Section 27. Any city or incorporated town or village in this state, by vote of four-sevenths of the qualified electors thereof voting thereon, may issue and sell its negotiable interest bearing revenue bonds for the purpose of paying all or part of the cost of purchasing, constructing, extending or improving any of the following: (1) revenue producing water, gas or electric light works, heating or power plants; (2) plants to be leased or otherwise disposed of pursuant to law to private persons or corporations for manufacturing and industrial development purposes, including the real estate, buildings, fixtures and machinery; or (3) airports; to be owned exclusively by the municipality, the cost of operation and maintenance and the principal and interest of the bonds to be payable solely from the revenues derived by the municipality from the operation of the utility or the lease of the plant.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 3

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

Repeal seven Sections of Article III and adopt 5 new Sections which provides:

168 members of the House of Representatives to be elected from districts. Apportionment shall follow each decennial census with certain exceptions. House to be reapportioned by law. The Senate shall consist of 34 members elected from districts of contiguous territory fixed by Senatorial Apportionment Commission. The House of Representatives cannot employ more than 225 nor the Senate more than 100 employees.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri an amendment repealing Sections 2, 3, 5, 8, 9, 10, and 17 of Article III of the Constitution of Missouri, relating to the general assembly and adopting five new sections in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Missouri:

Section 1. Sections 2, 3, 5, 8, 9, 10 and 17, Article III, Constitution of Missouri, are repealed and five new sections adopted in lieu thereof to be known as sections 2, 5, 9, 10 and 17, and to read as follows:

Section 2. The house of representatives shall consist of one hundred sixty-eight members elected from one hundred sixty-eight districts to be apportioned and numbered as provided by law, or as otherwise provided herein.

Section 5. The senate shall consist of thirty-four members elected by the qualified voters of the respective districts for four years. For the election of senators, the state shall be divided into convenient districts of contiguous territory, as compact and nearly equal in population as may be.

Section 9. The house of representatives as now constituted shall continue until January 1, 1967.

Section 10. The last decennial census of the United States shall be used in apportioning representatives and in determining the population of senatorial and representative districts. The apportionment of representatives shall be made once only and in the year following the taking of each decennial census unless a court of competent jurisdiction orders reapportionment; or, in the event, that on or before January 1, 1969, apportionment on a basis other than population is permitted by amendment to the Constitution of the United States or by ruling of a court of competent jurisdiction, then sections 2 and 3 of Article III of the Constitution of Missouri as adopted February 27, 1945, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the state for adoption or rejection at the next general election following the effective date of the court order or amendment to the Constitution of the United States, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose. If the amendment so submitted is rejected, apportionment shall be as provided by the then effective law.

Section 17. The house of representatives shall not employ more than two hundred twenty-five and the senate shall not employ more than one hundred employees, elective, appointive or any other at any time during the session.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the City Clerk in Sikeston, Missouri, until 11:30 a.m., July 20, 1965, for the furnishing of all materials, equipment, labor, costs and construction of the following items; in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the offices of the City Administrative Building, Viz:

Item 1: One and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway.

Item 2: One and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Kentucky Road from Missouri to Broadway.

Item 3: One and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Selma Street from Kathleen Street to Henry Street.

Item 4: One and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on seven inch soil cement base, 24 feet wide on Ingram Road (south) from Malone Avenue to a point approximately 1350 feet south.

Copies of the plans and specifications are available to bidders, and may be obtained from the City Clerk upon payment of two dollars ($2.00) for each set of plans. Successful bidder shall post a performance bond for the full amount of each contract.

All proposals must stipulate that contractors will accept in payment thereof, special tax bills issued against the property abutting the improvement. Sealed bids shall be submitted separately on each or any of the items as listed above and separate contracts shall be awarded on each item.

The City reserves the right to reject all or any bids.

John W. Vaughn,
City Clerk
244 inc 248

THE CITY OF
SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base on Miller Drive from Indiana Street to termination of Drive in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 5: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 6th day of July, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.
244 inc 250.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the City of Sikeston, Missouri, on Tuesday, the 27th day of July, 1965, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said City the following propositions:

PROPOSITION NO. 1

Proposition to issue the bonds of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, to the amount of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($600,000) to provide funds for the purpose of paying part of the cost of extending and improving the public waterworks and sewer systems of said City; said bonds to be payable from taxes to be levied upon all taxable, tangible property in said City.

PROPOSITION NO. 2

Proposition to issue the water and sewer revenue bonds of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, to the amount of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($600,000) to provide funds for the purpose of paying part of the cost of extending and improving the public waterworks and sewer systems of said City; said bonds to be payable solely from the revenues to be derived from the operation of the public waterworks and sewer systems of said City.

Said election will be held on the date aforesaid at the following polling places in said City:

WARD ONE — Precinct One — Police Station, Prairie Avenue

WARD ONE — Precinct Two — Ethridge Tire Company, North Main

WARD TWO — Precinct One — Mitchell-Sharp Garage, Center Street

WARD TWO — Precinct Two — Lincoln School

WARD THREE — Precinct One — Sikeston Motor Co., Malone Avenue

WARD THREE — Precinct Two — Lewis Furniture Company, Center Street

WARD FOUR — Precinct One — Armory, South Main Street

WARD FOUR — Precinct Two — Imperial Lanes, Malone Avenue

The polls of said election will be opened at the hour of 6 o'clock A.M. and will remain open until the hour of 7 o'clock P.M. on said date, unless the sun shall set after 7 o'clock P.M., in which event the polls shall remain open until sunset.

Proposition No. 1 shall be deemed to have carried if it shall receive the favorable vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors voting thereon.

Proposition No. 2 shall be deemed to have carried if it shall receive the favorable vote of four-sevenths of the qualified voters voting thereon.

All persons who are legal voters in said City will be entitled to vote at said election.

Given under my hand and the corporate seal of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, this 2nd day of July, 1965.

John W. Vaughn,
City Clerk

Hearnes Praises Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes appeared before houses of the legislature near the closing hour of the 73rd General Assembly last Wednesday and called the session "one of the greatest," as members ended their regular six-month session with a record showing passage of almost 100 percent of the major legislation urged by the chief executive.

Citing a legislative record "filled with accomplishments," Governor Hearnes noted he asked Jan. 13 for 16 major proposals and returned twice in special messages to request three more which he considered important to the public interest.

"Each of these proposals," the governor told legislators, "contained various segments relating to the broad field covered. All were considered and the major portions of each of these 19 basic proposals were passed and sent to me for my signature or to the people for their approval through ballots.

"To say I am pleased with this session of the legislature would be an understatement. I feel it is no overstatement to say this session has been one of the greatest, and I include the five sessions when I was privileged to be a member and the two during which I was majority floor leader.

"The record of the 73rd General Assembly is a record filled with accomplishment and no governor could ask for more intelligent cooperation than I have received. The proposals I made in 19 areas were many times complicated and intricate, and many were sensitive from the standpoint of politics and the status quo of government," Governor Hearnes concluded.

Highlights of major administration measures passed by the legislature included:

REAPPORTIONMENT -- "There could be no solution which would have pleased everyone," Governor Hearnes said, "but some solution had to be found if voters were not to face the chaos of elections at large decreed by the court." On Aug. 17 voters will ballot on a proposal to increase the House membership to 168 from 163. The legislature also redistricted congressional areas. A bi-partisan commission appointed by the Governor is working on new senatorial districts to comply with the court order.

EDUCATION -- Approved was $10 million more for the school foundation program; establishment of the four-year colleges at St. Joseph and Joplin; allow local districts to set a maximum current levy at $1.25 instead of the present $1.

GUBERNATORIAL Succession --Also on Aug. 17, voters will have a chance to vote on Amendment No. 1, which will allow future governors to serve a second term. This fulfilled a campaign pledge made by Governor Hearnes during the primary and general election periods -- that Missourians would have a chance to make their views known on whether they wished to allow a good governor to better accomplish long-range objectives through four more years in office.

TRAFFIC Safety -- Passed were a number of recommendations made by an interim committee to the legislature and governor -- principal among which was a requirement that a driver's license would be revoked if he or she refused to submit to a chemical test to determine intoxication.

CONFLICT OF Interest-- Despite the failure of efforts to pass this in years past, Governor Hearnes called for a strong conflicts of interest legislation and the legislature responded with the first such bill in Missouri history. The bill, as Hearnes noted in a legislative message will "reinforce with statute the ethics of honesty Missourians have a right to expect from those of us who serve them in government."

CORRECTIONS and Parole-- The governor asked for and received a raise for the director of corrections from $15,000 to $18,500 yearly.

MENTAL HEALTH -- The Assembly established nine new clinics for treatment of the mentally retarded in addition to those facilities at Marshall and Kansas City -- a move hailed by state and national authorities as one which will place Missouri "in the forefront" of all United States programs in this field.

TAXES -- The legislature agreed with the governor's request to repeal the one percent per $100 valuation property tax levy because the purpose for which it was passed ended in 1962. Also, passed was a uniform financial statement for all non-treasury funds--to be included in the state treasurer's report for a more accurate picture.

ALSO ON THE fiscal side of Governor Hearnes' program requests was one that budgetary provisions of the law governing first and second class counties be extended to 196 third and fourth class counties. This passed, as well as a bill which allows these 106 counties to adopt one of three alternative forms of government allowed heretofore only to a few large counties privileged to adopt home rule charters.

HIGHWAYS -- The lawmakers increased from four to six the membership of the Missouri State Highway Commission, giving better representation to the areas long unrepresented on this body--especially the two metropolitan zones of Northeast Missouri. The Governor said this six-member body "will represent more fairly not only their own areas, but the entire state through specialized knowledge of regional problems and needs."

RESOURCES and Recreations --The legislature approved establishment of an inter-agency council composed of all state groups concerned with natural resources and their impact on recreation in order to comply with provisions of the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. This will bring to the state an estimated $2 million-plus for the next 25 years to promote Missouri's unlimited outdoor possibilities and place it in a favorable position to compete with others in attraction of travel business -- the third largest state industry.

THE ARTS -- The Assembly established and gave funds to the first statutory Council on the Arts to encourage understanding of their importance in Missourians' lives -- including bringing good music, painting, etc. to outstate areas which lack symphonies and galleries of their own.

CIVIL RIGHTS -- The lawmakers passed this legislation in order to assure state enforcement rather than federal, because as Governor Hearnes explained, "Where a state governments' vacuum exists, federal forces move in."

AIR POLLUTION -- The Assembly approved the first legislation to attack this increasingly severe health problem which experts say is steadily becoming not only an urban problem but one throughout the state.

ONE OTHER long - range request, asked by the Governor and agreed to by the legislature was creation of a Tax Study agreement to his request for legislation requiring licensing and examination of new insurance agents.

Although he appointed an administrative assistant for urban affairs for the first time in Missouri history, Governor Hearnes asked for no legislation until a comprehensive program could be submitted to help these areas -- which would include towns of 2,000 on up to larger cities in their needs for information and assistance in all fields.

Other legislative proposals made by the Governor and accepted by the General Assembly included increased assistance for tubercular patients and corrective legislation to recoup $6 million lost from sales tax revenue through a court decision.

7th Inning Stretch

Most generally accepted story of the origination of the seventh inning stretch in baseball: President William Howard Taft got up to stretch in the 7th inning and the crowd, thinking he was leaving, rose to pay him honor.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Missouri

To be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Missouri at a special election to be held on Tuesday, the Seventeenth day of August, 1965

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 1

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

Authorize a person to be elected Governor not more than twice or not more than once if he served more than two years of a term to which another person was elected.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri, an amendment repealing Section 17 of Article IV of the constitution of Missouri relating to elective state officers and adopting one new section in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 17, Article IV, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and one new section adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as section 17, to read as follows:

Section 17. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer and attorney general shall be elected at the presidential elections for terms of four years each. The state auditor shall be elected for a term of two years at the general election in the year 1948, and his successors shall be elected for terms of four years. No person shall be elected governor more than twice, and no person who has held the office of governor, or acted as governor, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected to the office of governor shall be elected to the office of governor more than once. The state treasurer shall not be eligible for election as his own successor. The heads of all the executive departments shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. All appointive officers may be removed by the governor and shall possess the qualifications required by this constitution or by law.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 2

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

To authorize cities, in addition to the existing power to lease, to dispose of plants for manufacturing and industrial development purposes constructed from proceeds of revenue bonds.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri an amendment repealing Section 27 of Article VI of the constitution of Missouri relating to municipal revenue bonds for utility, airport and industrial purposes and adopting one new section in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 27, Article VI, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and one new section adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as section 27, to read as follows:

Section 27. Any city or incorporated town or village in this state, by vote of four-sevenths of the qualified electors thereof voting thereon, may issue and sell its negotiable interest bearing revenue bonds for the purpose of paying all or part of the cost of purchasing, constructing, extending or improving any of the following: (1) revenue producing water, gas or electric light works, heating or power plants; (2) plants to be leased or otherwise disposed of pursuant to law to private persons or corporations for manufacturing and industrial development purposes, including the real estate, buildings, fixtures and machinery; or (3) airports; to be owned exclusively by the municipality, the cost of operation and maintenance and the principal and interest of the bonds to be payable solely from the revenues derived by the municipality from the operation of the utility or the lease of the plant.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 3

(Submitted by the 73rd General Assembly)

Repeal seven Sections of Article III and adopt 5 new Sections which provides: 168 members of the House of Representatives to be elected from districts. Apportionment shall follow each decennial census with certain exceptions. House to be reapportioned by law. The Senate shall consist of 34 members-elected from districts of contiguous territory fixed by Senatorial Apportionment Commission. The House of Representatives cannot employ more than 225 nor the Senate more than 100 employees.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri an amendment repealing Sections 2, 3, 5, 8, 9, 10, and 17 of Article III of the Constitution of Missouri, relating to the general assembly and adopting five new sections in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1966, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Missouri:

Section 1. Sections 2, 3, 5, 8, 9, 10 and 17, Article III, Constitution of Missouri, are repealed and five new sections adopted in lieu thereof to be known as sections 2, 5, 9, 10 and 17, and to read as follows:

Section 2. The house of representatives shall consist of one hundred sixty-eight members elected from one hundred sixty-eight districts to be apportioned and numbered as provided by law, or as otherwise provided herein.

Section 5. The senate shall consist of thirty-four members elected by the qualified voters of the respective districts for four years. For the election of senators, the state shall be divided into convenient districts of contiguous territory, as compact and nearly equal in population as may be.

Section 9. The house of representatives as now constituted shall continue until January 1, 1967.

Section 10. The last decennial census of the United States shall be used in apportioning representatives and in determining the population of senatorial and representative districts. The apportionment of representatives shall be made once only and in the year following the taking of each decennial census unless a court of competent jurisdiction orders reapportionment; or, in the event, that on or before January 1, 1969, apportionment on a basis other than population is permitted by amendment to the Constitution of the United States or by ruling of a court of competent jurisdiction, then sections 2 and 3 of Article III of the Constitution of Missouri as adopted February 27, 1945, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the state for adoption or rejection at the next general election following the effective date of the court order or amendment to the Constitution of the United States, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose. If the amendment so submitted is rejected, apportionment shall be as provided by the then effective law.

Section 17. The house of representatives shall not employ more than two hundred twenty-five and the senate shall not employ more than one hundred employees, elective, appointive or any other at any time during the session.

STATE OF MISSOURI

The Rev. Bernerd Gronner, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic parish of Illmo, was in Kelso last week distributing advertising matter announcing the dedication of the new parochial school building at Illmo on July 16.

Malone Theatre, tomorrow, Gloria Swanson in "Madame Sans Gene."

Oran -- After a serious illness of almost 12 weeks, W. Z. Maxwell, mayor of Oran, died at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium in St. Louis on July 3.

Matthews -- A thousand people attended the singing convention last Sunday, when the singers of four communities joined in an all-day song service.

On July 4th, Judge W. L. Carroll celebrated his birth anniversary with the following children present for the occasion: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hulen, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carroll and children and Will Carroll.

The highest temperature this month was recorded on Saturday when the thermometer stood at 97 degrees before the dust and rainstorm, according to John LaFont.

The Scott County Milling Co., filed suit in the St. Louis federal court Monday asking a temporary writ of injunction to restrain government officials from collecting processing taxes on wheat and from prosecuting the company for violating the agricultural adjustment act, under which the taxes are paid.

Ben Bowman was given a first class and Shad Old a second class ranking at a court of honor held Sunday afternoon at the area Boy Scout camp in Wayne County.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stickney of Sikeston are parents of a son born at Sikeston hospital on July 10.

Mrs. J. E. Emerson of St. Louis is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joe Mathis and husband this week.

Wallace E. Waters, second lieutenant, 339th Field Artillery Batallion, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in combat from April 1, 1945 to May 10, 1945, in Italy.

Mrs. A. E. Sullivan entertained with an afternoon party Sunday for her son, Eugene, whose first birth anniversary occurred on that day.

PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

Behold, this dreamer cometh. Come now therefore and let us slay him. (Genesis 37:19-20)

PRAYER: Father, I know that to be like Jesus is to be different; but I would be true. Today help me to look at what I aspire to be and do. Turn my face and direct my steps and endeavors in that direction. Add to my purpose Thy power that I may help answer the Savior's prayer, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done." For His sake. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law doesn't like to write letters. She puts everything on postal cards and I do mean everything. Unfortunately, our mailman has a very big mouth. There is no such thing as a secret in this town.

A few weeks ago my mother-in-law worte the following message on a card: "It's too bad the bank turned down your loan. I wish I could send you the money but I can't right now. If you would like me to speak to your Uncle Leonard I will. You did pay back the money you borrowed from him to buy the car, didn't you?"

I boiled for weeks over that one. My husband said I was "sensitive."

This morning I received a card from her which said: "If you aren't having any success getting pregnant, Alice, why not talk to Martha? Maybe she will pass along some secret hints."

What do you think about this, Ann? Any suggestions to cure her?--JUST BURNING

Dear Just: Personal business should not be written on postal cards, even if your mailman has a small mouth.

Send your mother-in-law a box of self-addressed stamped envelopes with cards inside and tell her you'd appreciate it if she'd use them.

Dear Ann Landers: Just keep up your nutty advice and you will be responsible for breaking up 10,000 more homes in Wayne County.

What do you mean by telling women they shouldn't have to clean the fish and fowl their husbands bring home--unless they want to?

Most women are downright lazy today, thanks to the new inventions. They are fat as cows and just as energetic. They don't even hang out the wash anymore what with machines that blow everything dry.

My mother was happy when Pa brought home anything he could trap, shoot or hook. It was a whole winter's groceries.

Women like you are ruining our civilization. I say we'd be better off if we all went back to the stream, the field and the tree.--SIGN ME SAM

Dear Sam: O. K. Go back to the tree, but don't try to take the whole world with you.

Dear Ann Landers: To be honest I don't know if I am justified in being upset with my mother or, if I am being "adolescent" as she says.

I am almost 17 years old and have been going with a wonderful fellow who is now in the East taking summer courses at a university. He writes me twice a week. Ron (not his real name) IS A POET. He has written some romantic poems just for me. I think they are the most sensitive and exquisite words I have ever read.

I learned this afternoon that my mother read several of Ron's poems to her Ladies Aid when they met at our home last week.

When I told Mother I was shocked she said, "I thought the poems were so beautiful I wanted the ladies to hear them. Beautiful things should be shared. They belong to the world." I cannot be objective about my feelings but I am disappointed, angry and resentful. Comment please.--J.

Dear J.: Your mother had no right to invade your privacy. The poetry was written for you and not for the world, or the Ladies Aid.

You realize, of course, that your mother was showing you off. Understanding her motives should make you less angry and resentful, but what she did was wrong wrong wrong.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry -- Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

USS OKINAWA (LPH-3) (FH-TNC) -- Marine Corporal Raymond G. Martin, son of Mrs. Essie E. Martin of Kelso, Mo., is presently serving as a member of Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 265 which is preparing to deploy on the amphibious assault ship USS Okinawa on a cruise to the Caribbean.

The squadron flies the Boeing CH-46A "Sea Knight" twin engine helicopter used for moving Marine Corps troops and cargo.

This cruise will be the first time that the squadron has used the Seaknight in support of a Battalion Landing Team on an extended cruise.

Harold Clifton Wilson of Portageville recently enlisted in the U. S. Army for a period of Three Years, it was reported today by Staff Sergeant A. B. Ledbetter of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Sikeston, Mo. Private Wilson enlisted under the Army's "High School Graduate-Specialist" program and chose to enlist for training in Army Administration. His parents Mr. and Mrs. Willie P. Wilson reside at Rt. 1, Portageville, Mo. For more information about the "Graduate Specialist" program contact Sgt. Ledbetter at Sikeston or call GR 1-3419.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --The largest single cash award made at this base for a Big R suggestion was recently given to Mr. Theodore J. Bailey, base civilian budget officer.

The Strategic Air Command Big R program is designed to promote reliability to equipment in its use through suggestions.

Bailey received $730.00 for his suggestion which saves SAC $18,566.00 in annual net savings.

The money saving suggestion provides for accumulation of transportation costs utilized in SAC's Program Element Cost Report, by revising the method of monthly analysis through keypunching of punched cards accounting machine cards which summarize required information on a machine readout or machine listing.

The old method involved manual research and analysis of more than fifty pages of machine listings twice monthly. This process consumed an average of sixteen manhours, whereas the new process requires no expenditure of manhours.

Bailey's suggestion was implemented locally in April 1964. It was later approved for command wide application at bases having mechanized accounting procedures.

The local cost reduction office submitted the suggestion as a base entry in competition for the SAC annual Big R Trophy.

Mr. Bailey is serving his first Civil Service appointment. He has been employed here since August 1958. He was appointed to his present position in December 1959.

Since then the budget division has been among the top rated in the command. He has been the recipient of one outstanding performance award and/or the sustained superior civilian performance award each year since 1961.

Colonel John R. Thompson, 97th Combat Support Group commander, made the presentation.

When one testifies before a congressional committee one often has the impression that the purpose of the hearing is not to search out the facts and then reason a solution, but that the solution has been determined and the hearings will now put such facts on the record as will support the solution. One might say they are not gathering facts but arguments for their position. — Hans Bethe

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --The largest single cash award made at this base for a Big R suggestion was recently given to Mr. Theodore J. Bailey, base civilian budget officer.

The Strategic Air Command Big R program is designed to promote reliability to equipment in its use through suggestions.

Bailey received $730.00 for his suggestion which saves SAC $18,566.00 in annual net savings.

The money saving suggestion provides for accumulation of transportation costs utilized in SAC's Program Element Cost Report, by revising the method of monthly analysis through keypunching of punched cards accounting machine cards which summarize required information on a machine readout or machine listing.

The old method involved manual research and analysis of more than fifty pages of machine listings twice monthly. This process consumed an average of sixteen manhours, whereas the new process requires no expenditure of manhours.

Bailey's suggestion was implemented locally in April 1964. It was later approved for command wide application at bases having mechanized accounting procedures.

The local cost reduction office submitted the suggestion as a base entry in competition for the SAC annual Big R Trophy.

Mr. Bailey is serving his first Civil Service appointment. He has been employed here since August 1958. He was appointed to his present position in December 1959.

Since then the budget division has been among the top rated in the command. He has been the recipient of one outstanding performance award and/or the sustained superior civilian performance award each year since 1961.

Colonel John R. Thompson, 97th Combat Support Group commander, made the presentation.

When one testifies before a congressional committee one often has the impression that the purpose of the hearing is not to search out the facts and then reason a solution, but that the solution has been determined and the hearings will now put such facts on the record as will support the solution. One might say they are not gathering facts but arguments for their position. — Hans Bethe

Site Picked For Dexter Hospital

DEXTER -- John Wm. Ringer, President of the board of directors of The Dexter Memorial Hospital, announced that the site for the proposed hospital facility had been selected and approved and an option for its purchase secured.

The site, consisting of 12 acres, is located on land belonging to the Rainey family, and is situated on a knoll between Highways 114 and 60 on the east side of One Mile Road just west of Dexter. A sign indicating the site will be erected in the near future.

The effort to fund and build the much needed hospital facility by means of a public fund raising campaign began last October when a series of meetings by interested citizens culminated in the formation of the necessary non-profit hospital corporation and the granting of the Charter by the Secretary of State. A Board of Directors was elected consisting of Mrs. L. T. Busby, Mrs. Wilson Jarrell, Gordon Hart, Dewey Sigler, Clint Shell, Frank Schneider, Marshall Vowels, H. L. "Bake" Estes, and John Wm. Ringer, and this Board has been meeting regularly since that time working out the details of securing a site and planning the fund raising campaign.

In March of this year, the firm of Hewitt and Royer, Hospital Construction Consultants from Kansas City, who specialize in hospital construction, were employed as the architects for this project. They subsequently conducted a survey and research program within the proposed service area of the hospital which includes approximately 25,000 people, at the conclusion of which the erection of a fifty bed general hospital was recommended. The total estimated cost of construction, including acquisition of site and architect's fees, is $930,000.00, and the necessary application has been filed to secure Hill-Burton funds from the Federal Government in the sum of $450,000.00, which would be the maximum allowable on the above figure. It was pointed out that these figures are broad estimates, and that detailed plans and specifications and exact costs of construction will be available at a later stage in the campaign.

The next step was to obtain a site. A site committee was appointed by the Board to investigate all possible leads, as a result of which some fourteen locations in and around Dexter were made available by members of the public. Marshall Vowels, Chairman of this committee, stated that the Board would like at this time to express its appreciation to each of the public minded citizens who made these sites available for the hospital.

The site committee evaluated and catalogued each site and reported their findings to the Board and then a representative from Hewitt and Royer inspected each site and assembled various data both pro and con concerning its adaptability for hospital purposes.

After Hewitt and Royer completed their survey, they analyzed their results and recommended four sites that would be acceptable to present to the Division of Health for final selection and approval. Among the factors considered by the architects were the size of the tract, the accessibility to major highways, the possibility of traffic congestion near entrances, the nearness of any nuisances, the location of available utilities, and the amount of earth moving and filling that might be required. After these recommendations were received by the Board, the Division of Health was contacted and representatives from Jefferson City then made a trip to Dexter and inspected the recommended sites, as a result of which the Rainey site was selected and given State approval. An option on this land has now been secured from the Raineys extending through November 30, 1966, and the Board also expressed its appreciation for the fine co-operation they had received from the Rainey family in obtaining this option.

Since arranging for the site, the Board has been interviewing funds raising firms relative to plans of action for raising the needed monies for the hospital. At this time, representatives from six different firms with experience in hospital fund raising campaigns have been interviewed, among which have been some of the largest in the country.

The seventh and final representative will be interviewed by the Board next week, after which it is expected that a final selection will be made. After the particular firm who will work with the Board in the fund raising campaign is selected, the next step will be announced as soon as it has been formulated and approved by the Board.

Signals Discussed By Council

DEXTER -- City Councilmen discussed at length the Cotton Belt railroad crossing on East Stoddard and the Missouri Pacific crossing at Catalpa Streets during a session Tuesday.

City officials met a few days previously with railroad officials for the Cotton Belt Railroad Company who agreed to install a different type or a new signal at the East Stoddard street crossing where two men were killed in car - train accidents during the past year.

After the discussion City Attorney Claude Arnold was instructed to make further proposal to both Missouri Pacific and Cotton Belt Railroad Companies concerning safety measures for the benefit of the public.

A committee appointed to survey the bridges in the west part of the city reported to the Council and repairs or new construction is under consideration.

A street light near the Boy and Girl Scout Hut was approved by the Council.

Other action included a report from City Attorney Arnold that plans were underway for the collection of delinquent taxes and licenses.

Disbursements included payment to the West Construction Company for completed work on the lagoon sewer in the amount of $35,844.68.

The clerk's report on funds disbursed for the month in the amount of $50,061.37 was approved as was the report of the police judge for June in the amount of $91.28.

Senators Urge Two Cotton Bill Changes

WASHINGTON -- As the senate and house agriculture committees work this week on the 1965 farm bill proposals, Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long urged two amendments in the administration's proposed cotton program.

In a joint letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, Symington and Long expressed opposition to (1) the proposed reduction in the price support level below the minimum provided in the Agriculture Act of 1964, and (2) the provision directing the Secretary to sell cotton for unrestricted use at the export price.

The Senators asked that the minimum price support level contained in the Agriculture Act of 1964 (65 percent of parity) be required for any new legislation. "If program costs are to be the primary consideration in future cotton programs, we urge that savings should also be sought in pricing policies to domestic textile mills rather than come entirely from the pockets of cotton producers."

They said further, the provision directing the Secretary to sell cotton for unrestricted use at the export price "should be qualified to insure orderly marketing of the farmer's crop. Orderly marketing cannot be accomplished if the CCC is to be directed to sell in direct competition."

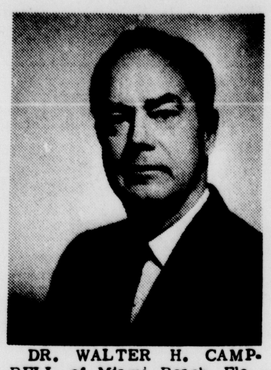
The administration cotton bill, introduced by Chairman Harold Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee, provides a price support loan at the "world market price", and variable direct payments to each individual producer depending on the acreage reduction from his share of a 16 million national acreage allotment.

Under the bill as introduced, Department economists estimate that producers using their full acreage allotment would receive 26 cents per pound for their cotton.

Present minimum of 65 percent of parity is about 28 cents.

In their joint letter to Secretary Freeman, Symington and Long recalled that in 1963 the price support level was 32.5 cents per pound; in 1964 it was 30 cents per pound and in 1965 it will be 29 cents per pound.

A. L. Storey, Jr., past president of the American and Missouri Cotton Producers Associations and currently a member of the Missouri State ASCS Committee, and Hilton Bracey, Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, were in Washington this week working with other cotton industry leaders.



DR. WALTER H. CAMPBELL of Miami Beach, Fla., was elected President of Lions International at the Association's 48th annual convention in Los Angeles, California, Wednesday through Saturday. Lions International, with 759,097 members in 132 countries, is the world's largest service club organization.

"Later, when we get our feet on the ground, we'll get out there and find the Viet Cong," he said.

There has been little Viet Cong action in the area of the bay in recent months, but a big Communist buildup has been reported in the hills and mountains inland from it. U. S. sources said Communist strength may be as much as a regiment.

Site Picked For Dexter Hospital

DEXTER -- John Wm. Ringer, President of the board of directors of The Dexter Memorial Hospital, announced that the site for the proposed hospital facility had been selected and approved and an option for its purchase secured.

The site, consisting of 12 acres, is located on land belonging to the Rainey family, and is situated on a knoll between Highways 114 and 60 on the east side of One Mile Road just west of Dexter. A sign indicating the site will be erected in the near future.

The effort to fund and build the much needed hospital facility by means of a public fund raising campaign began last October when a series of meetings by interested citizens culminated in the formation of the necessary non-profit hospital corporation and the granting of the Charter by the Secretary of State. A Board of Directors was elected consisting of Mrs. L. T. Busby, Mrs. Wilson Jarrell, Gordon Hart, Dewey Sigler, Clint Shell, Frank Schneider, Marshall Vowels, H. L. "Bake" Estes, and John Wm. Ringer, and this Board has been meeting regularly since that time working out the details of securing a site and planning the fund raising campaign.

In March of this year, the firm of Hewitt and Royer, Hospital Construction Consultants from Kansas City, who specialize in hospital construction, were employed as the architects for this project. They subsequently conducted a survey and research program within the proposed service area of the hospital which includes approximately 25,000 people, at the conclusion of which the erection of a fifty bed general hospital was recommended. The total estimated cost of construction, including acquisition of site and architect's fees, is $930,000.00, and the necessary application has been filed to secure Hill-Burton funds from the Federal Government in the sum of $450,000.00, which would be the maximum allowable on the above figure. It was pointed out that these figures are broad estimates, and that detailed plans and specifications and exact costs of construction will be available at a later stage in the campaign.

The next step was to obtain a site. A site committee was appointed by the Board to investigate all possible leads, as a result of which some fourteen locations in and around Dexter were made available by members of the public. Marshall Vowels, Chairman of this committee, stated that the Board would like at this time to express its appreciation to each of the public minded citizens who made these sites available for the hospital.

The site committee evaluated and catalogued each site and reported their findings to the Board and then a representative from Hewitt and Royer inspected each site and assembled various data both pro and con concerning its adaptability for hospital purposes.

After Hewitt and Royer completed their survey, they analyzed their results and recommended four sites that would be acceptable to present to the Division of Health for final selection and approval. Among the factors considered by the architects were the size of the tract, the accessibility to major highways, the possibility of traffic congestion near entrances, the nearness of any nuisances, the location of available utilities, and the amount of earth moving and filling that might be required. After these recommendations were received by the Board, the Division of Health was contacted and representatives from Jefferson City then made a trip to Dexter and inspected the recommended sites, as a result of which the Rainey site was selected and given State approval. An option on this land has now been secured from the Raineys extending through November 30, 1966, and the Board also expressed its appreciation for the fine co-operation they had received from the Rainey family in obtaining this option.

Since arranging for the site, the Board has been interviewing funds raising firms relative to plans of action for raising the needed monies for the hospital. At this time, representatives from six different firms with experience in hospital fund raising campaigns have been interviewed, among which have been some of the largest in the country.

The seventh and final representative will be interviewed by the Board next week, after which it is expected that a final selection will be made. After the particular firm who will work with the Board in the fund raising campaign is selected, the next step will be announced as soon as it has been formulated and approved by the Board.

Signals Discussed By Council

DEXTER -- City Councilmen discussed at length the Cotton Belt railroad crossing on East Stoddard and the Missouri Pacific crossing at Catalpa Streets during a session Tuesday.

City officials met a few days previously with railroad officials for the Cotton Belt Railroad Company who agreed to install a different type or a new signal at the East Stoddard street crossing where two men were killed in car - train accidents during the past year.

After the discussion City Attorney Claude Arnold was instructed to make further proposal to both Missouri Pacific and Cotton Belt Railroad Companies concerning safety measures for the benefit of the public.

A committee appointed to survey the bridges in the west part of the city reported to the Council and repairs or new construction is under consideration.

A street light near the Boy and Girl Scout Hut was approved by the Council.

Other action included a report from City Attorney Arnold that plans were underway for the collection of delinquent taxes and licenses.

Disbursements included payment to the West Construction Company for completed work on the lagoon sewer in the amount of $35,844.68.

The clerk's report on funds disbursed for the month in the amount of $50,061.37 was approved as was the report of the police judge for June in the amount of $91.28.

Senators Urge Two Cotton Bill Changes

WASHINGTON -- As the senate and house agriculture committees work this week on the 1965 farm bill proposals, Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long urged two amendments in the administration's proposed cotton program.

In a joint letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, Symington and Long expressed opposition to (1) the proposed reduction in the price support level below the minimum provided in the Agriculture Act of 1964, and (2) the provision directing the Secretary to sell cotton for unrestricted use at the export price.

The Senators asked that the minimum price support level contained in the Agriculture Act of 1964 (65 percent of parity) be required for any new legislation. "If program costs are to be the primary consideration in future cotton programs, we urge that savings should also be sought in pricing policies to domestic textile mills rather than come entirely from the pockets of cotton producers."

They said further, the provision directing the Secretary to sell cotton for unrestricted use at the export price "should be qualified to insure orderly marketing of the farmer's crop. Orderly marketing cannot be accomplished if the CCC is to be directed to sell in direct competition."

The administration cotton bill, introduced by Chairman Harold Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee, provides a price support loan at the "world market price", and variable direct payments to each individual producer depending on the acreage reduction from his share of a 16 million national acreage allotment.

Under the bill as introduced, Department economists estimate that producers using their full acreage allotment would receive 26 cents per pound for their cotton.

Present minimum of 65 percent of parity is about 28 cents.

In their joint letter to Secretary Freeman, Symington and Long recalled that in 1963 the price support level was 32.5 cents per pound; in 1964 it was 30 cents per pound and in 1965 it will be 29 cents per pound.

A. L. Storey, Jr., past president of the American and Missouri Cotton Producers Associations and currently a member of the Missouri State ASCS Committee, and Hilton Bracey, Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, were in Washington this week working with other cotton industry leaders.

PUBLIC AUCTION

Will sell at Public Auction the following described Personal Property and Real Estate to the highest bidder regardless of price.

LOCATION

City of Marble Hill, Missouri, on Highways 34 & 51. Property is across the street from Hopkins Brothers Hardware and Appliance Company.

WEDNESDAY JULY 14, 1965

SALE WILL START AT 6:00 P.M. DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

This property consists of a brick and concrete building, 48'x90, now being used as a Rambler Auto Agency. This building is sealed overhead, has a large showroom and office, large shop, steel window frames, two rest rooms. This is a very nice, well built building with concrete floors. This building is large enough and well located for any kind of business. Also on this property is a metal building 30'x50', like new, and a concrete brick building, extra nice 16'x36', now occupied by the Midway Cafe. This property is located in Block 2, Truman Lewis Addition to the City of Marble Hill, Missouri consisting of Lots 1, 2 and 7. 100' faces Conrad Avenue and Highway 34 & 51, also faces the North on Plurtach Street. The over-all footage of this property is 100'x 219'.

This property is about four blocks South of the Bollinger County Court House in Marble Hill. It also is only a short distance from the city limits of Lutesville, Mo. The cafe building will sell separate from the garage building.
